Bridge Tea is Beautiful Affair

One of the prettiest parties of The week was the bridge tea for which Mrs. W. P. Watkins was hostess in her home on Fairmount Hill Friday afternoon.

Soft lights and chrysanthemums and snapdragons in pastel shades made a beautiful back-ground for the bridge players who were seated at 18 tables in Club Hostoce the guest rooms of the Watkins

High scores for the afternoon were won by Mrs. L. C. Newman and Mrs. E. L. Kollenborn. A secend afternoon of cards will be will be given today at the Watkins home, closing a series of two benefit affairs sponsored by William Burghardt, planist, as guest artist, has been changed to December 4. This change was made necessary because of a con-flict in dates for the quartet. The concert, which, following the beautiful program given as the first of the quartet's presentations in Salem this year at the C. P. Bishop home last Tuesday evening is one of the most anticipated musical events of the year. To the masterful work of the quartet will be added the well known work of Mrs. Burghardt and the combination should leave nothing to be desired.
