WOODBURN, November 10.

Eugene Courtney, local banker, was a speaker over a nation-wide hook-up Saturday morning when he spoke over KGW in Portland concerning 4-H clubs and what they mean to the banker. Mr. Courtney had the honor of speaking, as he is head of the only committee on agricultural development which has made a perfect score in the development work, according to a scale outlined by the American Bankers' association

Agriculture committee, The program was part of the national farm and home program, a presen-tation of the National Broadcast-

Mr. Courtney, in his talk, especially stressed the fact that the bankers of the country are primarily interested in the present 4-H club members, as they are the future farmers of America, and that the backbone of the country, socially, is the farmer. Special praise was given to the extension service of Oregon State college, county agents, and club leaders of ing company.
