Will Sail Again; Captaincy To be Awarded; one Body Reported Recovered

Tempted to Drink Water of Ocean, Greve Relates; Vessel Seaworthy

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 12. (AP)—A captaincy will be the reward of the courage and endurance shown by Jorgen M. Greve in refusing to give up after the wrecking of the lumber schooner Brooklyn.

The first captaincy at the disposal of the Bay Side Steamship company will be offered to Greve, S. L. Whipple, owner of the company, said here tonight.

EUREKA, Cal., Nov. 12. (AP)—Despite the terror of his three day ordeal of hunger, thirst and exposure following his fourth shipwreck, Jorgen M. Greve, lone survivor of the schooner Brooklyn, plans to go to sea again.

Greve, first mate of the Brooklyn which sank off Humboldt bar Saturday, presumably with a loss of a total of 17 lives was beating back to health today after a seemingly miraculous rescue at sea yesterday by a fishing trawler.

Doctors and nurses said they expected Greve to recover and be fit again in a week.

Will Talk With Wife Over Radio
The San Francisco Call-Bulletin made arrangements tonight for him to hear a greeting over radio KFRG from the wife who never gave up hope of his safe return. Mrs. Greve is an invalid, unable to come to her husband's bedside here.

Greve was found floating on a piece of wreckage several miles out yesterday by Captain Richard Richter of the trawler "Two Sisters." The mate was brought here at once. He was found to have been badly lacerated by his buffet. The salt water had caused him much agony and he said he was

RENEW DRIVE FOR BOY SCOUT FUNDS

Following an enthusiastic meeting last night of the Boy Scout finance committee and representatives of the three major service clubs of the city, workers will be in the field this morning to solicit $2,400 to wind up the Boy Scout finance campaign for the year.

The drive conducted several weeks ago fell short by that amount. The drive which opens this morning will continue three or four days, in which time it is believed the men now going out will raise the entire amount. The Kiwanis, Lions and Rotary clubs had six representatives present at the meeting last night, and each club is lending support to the drive. Kiwanis and Rotary are both sponsoring a troop, and the Lions are considering sponsorship.

W. L. Phillips, chairman of the finance committee, presided over the session last night. He has set Friday first reports from workers on the drive. Frank D. Hawley, former scoutmaster at Walla Walla, gave a pep talk at the session.

WINTER JOBS ARE PROVIDED BY CITY

Sewer Work Authorized 2 Years ago Revived to Give Employment

From 60 to 100 men will be regularly employed this winter by the city of Salem on sewer work which will cost nearly $100,000 to complete. This amount of the original $500,000 sewer bond issue has not been sold. The work was voted by the council two years ago. About 60 men in the department are at work now.

Present projects are a sewer on Mill street and a relief operation between the municipal airport and South 12th street. Three other jobs will be worked at in addition to these.

Two Intersecting Sewers Planned
An intercepting sewer from 14th street west along Cross street to connect with the intercepting line going south across Bush's pasture is one of the new jobs. Another will be two blocks of intercepting line on Oxford street, and the third will carry the drainage from the area around Olinger field south about 1,200 feet into the present Marion street sewer.

Negotiations have been made between the Southern Pacific and the city engineer for carrying the Olinger field line under the company's right of way just north of Union street. So far there has been no agreement and Rogers may have to change his plans. The plan is to run the line south along 13th street.

Former Matron Tells Story Of Whippings and Other Hardships Enforced

"Brig" Confinement, Sans Beds or Adequate Food Told by Inmates

PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 12. (AP)—The state child welfare commission today began investigation of alleged mistreatment of inmates of the state industrial school for boys.

The investigation was precipitated by charges brought by Vernon Levey, 15. His leg had been burned severely while school authorities were removing a heavy leg iron with an acetylene torch.

Mr. Levey, of Baltimore, Eugene, former matron of the receiving cottage at the school, testified one boy, half frozen while shoveling snow, had been whipped across the feet for wearing slippers at the wrong time of day. Other boys, she said, were forced to stand at attention until they fainted. She testified on occasions she had heard sounds of disciplinary drilling and whippings far into the night.

Youths Armed for Manhunt, Claimed
A procession of witnesses charged boys were confined to "the brig" without beds or adequate food. The brig was described as a room eight feet square in which six boys were confined at a time.

Felix Di Gregorio, 18, testified that while he was an inmate of the school he had charge of feeding those boys and was ordered to give each one only a small cup of food and a thin slice of bread for each meal. He said for talking out of turn he had received between 40 and 50 lashes across the hand. On one occasion, he said, boys were sent out with loaded firearms to hunt for other boys, who had escaped.

William H. Hallie, superintendent of the school, denied all charges. The hearing will be resumed tomorrow.

Funds Sought to Defray Cost of Hunt for James

Members of the Salem police force are planning ways to raise $400 to complete a $700 fund which will be used to defray the expense of the hunt for Emory "Cherry" James who disappeared several weeks ago while hunting in the region of the North Umpqua river. This search was abandoned 10 days ago.

Weather conditions are now such that the hunt is practically impossible. Municipality has no right to pay for the expense of the search, so the police department is taking the matter up. James was a member of the police force and was with a party of three others on a hunting trip when he disappeared.

Montana State Students Seek More Liberties

BOZEMAN, Mont., Nov. 12. (AP)—Students at Montana State college today formally protested what they termed "over-supervision" and distributed a handbill headed "An Appeal for Freedom."

President Alfred Atkinson of the college is in Washington at a meeting of the Land Grant College association. The protest will be delivered to him on his return.

Old Man Depression To be Buried With Impressive Ritual

Funeral Cortage Next Monday Will be Routed From Statehouse to Masonic Temple; Casket Goes Down Manhole

WHILE the rest of the city and state sit about decrying the hard times, and especially the gloomy prospects for winter food and work, the Salem Lions club is grasping Old Man Depression by the neck and even now plans are well under way to bury the Old Man.

In order that all may realize that the Old Man is a thing of the past, the Lions will stage a public funeral for him next Monday afternoon, the cortege and procession to leave the state house at 5:30 o'clock that day.

To the mournful tones of the funeral dirge, played by a band, the procession will march down State street to the Masonic temple. Here, final rites over remains of Old Man Depression will be said by Martin Ferrey, local attorney and former minister, and the casket will be lowered into the manhole in front of the building.

Dirge Will Change To Joyous Melody
And then, the band will strike up the old time melody, "There's a Hot Time in the Old Town Tonight." For Old Man Depression will be no more.

The ceremony outlined above will be climax to the state-wide Business Revival Campaign. (Turn to page 12, col. 1)

SEEK IMPROVEMENT IN IMMUNIZATIONS

Health Officer Schedules Meeting With School Workers Today

Dr. Vernon A. Douglas, county health officer, has called a committee meeting with school health workers today to map out some way to increase the diphtheria immunization and smallpox vaccination program. Dr. Douglas says that he is far from pleased with the number of children who have been immunized so far this year, despite the fact that so far this year three times as many pre-school children have been immunized as up to the same time last year.

The effort to increase the number of immunizations will be made for two reasons; first, the individual benefit, and second, to better chances of the city in the inter-city chamber of commerce health contest which Salem has entered this year for the first time. The work from now on until the end of the year, when the contest closes, will be concentrated on Salem.

Dr. Slaughter's statement that the local grange had voted not to allow the matter to be discussed in a grange meeting was questioned by members of the Salem grange.

AGRICULTURE'S STAND TOLD BY GRANGE LEADER

National Convention Opens At Rochester; Taber Outlines Issues

Speculation in "Phantom" Wheat Declared Chief Of Farmer's Ills

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Nov. 12. (AP)—With the keynote "equality for agriculture" the 64th annual convention of the national grange opened here today. Delegates from more than 30 states heard national master, Louis J. Taber, in his annual address urge a program which included better marketing reclamation and irrigation restriction and a more justly distributed system of taxation.

Taber's address sounded the keynote of the ten-day meeting, which will bring more than 2,000 delegates and unofficial visitors to Rochester.

Six Suggestions For Remedies Given
The grange master offered six suggestions to accomplish the readjustment he said was needed to help agriculture establish itself on a firm economic basis. They were briefly:

1—Stabilization of values.
2—A higher price level for farm commodities.
3—More justly distributed system of taxation.

4—Revision of the federal farm loan system.
5—Readjustment of the nation's freight rate structure.

6—Restriction of immigration and conservation of natural resources.
Of Prices Scored
Criticizing the speculation in grain on the Chicago board of trade, Taber said:

"As long as this present system remains with its violent price manipulations it is obvious there must be a method of protection by hedging for the safeguarding of the buyer and processor, but when hedging and short selling take the form of speculation and gambling in the necessities of life, the public is injured."

The national grange master urged governmental action to stop gambling in "phantom wheat" and said the same medicine should be given individual gamblers in the pit, as was administered to the Soviet government of Russia.
