LETTUCE FAIR IN CITY MARTS

Potato Market Unsettled; Spurts Reported for Southern Idaho

Celery and cauliflower markets are still depressed, with current sales levels unchanged from recent low levels. Practically all shipments are being sold, however, with only a few carlots rolling un sold.

Local lettuce is of only fair quality; California now contributing the best lettuce. Cucumbers and green peas from California are now being received in considerable volume, along with tomatoes, peppers, and other vegetables.

Only the harder local garden products are now available, from local production; recent cool weather, with local frosts, having disposed of most of the tender growth.

Potato markets are unsettled, with little activity in the West, except for periodical spurts in the west, except for periodical Burbanks, offered by growers as low as $1.00 per cwt., continue to dominate the Portland markets, although a good demand continues for fancy Deschates gems.
