

Local News Briefs

Music Hall Wrecked—The interior of the wooden structure facing Winter street on the south side of Willamette university campus is being removed. This building was formerly the music hall. This department, this year, moved to the Kimball building. Before the building was part of Willamette university, it was located at the corner of 14th and State street where it was the residence of the Gray family for many years. Efforts to have the building removed whole have failed; it will be torn down before February.

More Jobs Are Available Now Agency Reports

Demand for laborers showed a good pick-up over last week in the six days just closed, according to Sim Phillips, director of the U. S. employment bureau here. There were calls for a number of woodcutters and more calls for common laborers, which helped conditions materially, he says.

Through the bureau, 37 men were sent to jobs. Total number registered for work in the week was 104 men and 23 women. Four women obtained jobs. Twenty-one of the 56 men who registered for common labor went to work, five of the 14 agriculture laborers found jobs, and 10 of the woods laborers got work.

Seeks Address Of His Mother

Help in finding the whereabouts of his mother, Alice Kircher Card has been requested of the chamber of commerce here by Chester M. Card of Chicago, Illinois. In a letter to the manager of the chamber, Card states that his mother and father were divorced when he was a small lad in Salem and since that time, about 1912, he has seldom seen his mother. The last time he knew her whereabouts was in 1918.

Commonwealth Fund Is Not Connected With Medical Interests

In its issue of November 7 the Holly Press contained the following statement:

"This health demonstration is fostered by the Commonwealth Fund of New York. The Commonwealth Fund is a large fund created by the American Medical Association (the national organization of medical doctors) and certain manufacturers of drugs and medical supplies back east. Its deceptive and appealing name has given many people the impression that it is a philanthropic fund, perhaps created by benevolent eastern millionaires who had a lot of money and just wanted to do people some good. It is nothing of the sort. It is strictly a hard-boiled business proposition. It is a clever propaganda fund and nothing more. It is designed for the sole purpose of making more business for the doctors and the drug manufacturers who own it. Morally it is exactly on a par with the huge sum maintained by the power trust for propagandizing our schools, ladies aid societies, women's clubs, service clubs, public libraries, newspapers, etc.

The Statesman requested the New York office of The Associated Press to investigate and report the character and support of the Commonwealth Fund. It received Saturday the following memo:

The Commonwealth Fund, located at 41 West 11th street, was established in 1918 by a gift from the late Mrs. Stephen V. Harkness, mother of Edward S. Harkness, of $3,000,000. Its purpose as expressed in the deed of gift is to promote any objects "for the welfare of mankind."

Barry C. Smith is general director, Edward S. Harkness is president, William M. Kingsley, treasurer, and Malcolm P. Aldrich, Dwight W. Morrow, Samuel H. Fisher, George Welwood Murray and Jeremiah Smith, Jr., directors.

"The fund has absolutely no connection, official or unofficial, with the American Medical Association, or any other organization," Mr. Smith said. "Neither is it financed or has it any connection with any drug or hospital manufacturing company. It is financed entirely from its endowment."

The fund expends its energies, as outlined in the annual report, in the following directions:

Division of education: which provides traveling fellowships in the United States for students from Great Britain and the dominions.

Public health: which includes the child health program, division of rural hospitals and other activities in the United States and Austria.

Mental hygiene, child guidance in Great Britain, legal research, publications of its experiments and findings in all branches and special grants to various medical organizations for original research work.

The financial statement for the year ending September 30, 1929, —the last available report—is attached.

The financial statement referred to shows that its sole income dividends on stock, interest on bonds, notes and bank deposits held by the fund. Any person interested is welcome to see this statement at The Statesman office.

PUPIL HAULING COST GREATER

$30,320 to be Figure This Year, County School Head Estimates

On the basis of the number of pupils who are at present being transported to high schools in Marion county, the county will pay approximately $4,000 more for transportation money this year than last, Superintendent Mary L. Fulkerson has figured in making up this item for her annual budget.

There are now 758 pupils riding to classes in school buses, which, at the flat rate of $40 apiece allowed by the county, means an expenditure of $30,320 on this single item. Last year transportation cost about $26,000. The 758 pupils are attending 10 of the 13 high schools in the county, the Hubbard, St. Paul and Gates schools transporting no children.

No Alternative To Listing Item

With high school transportation a state law, the county court will have no alternative in allowing this money in its budget, but it is not likely the item will be pleasing, inasmuch as the court members have all asserted they would try to keep costs down in all departments. The transportation act seems to be bringing more boys and girls to high schools than attended previously.

Mrs. Fulkerson says there are 803 tuition pupils now attending the high schools of the county. What the per capita tuition will be this year has not yet been determined.

Mrs. Marie Elizabeth Smith Marsh, 83, prominent Oregon pioneer teacher, here passes on.

Two Fatalities Noted in Week In Industries

There were two fatalities due to industrial accidents in Oregon during the week ending November 20, according to a report prepared here Saturday by the state industrial accident commission.

PAROLE RESULT OF OSBORNE'S APPEAL

Two county prisoners were taken before the circuit judge yesterday.

Ted Osborne, who was arrested October 14 on charge of manufacturing intoxicating liquor, presented arguments on his appeal from the justice court. The circuit judge sentenced him to a year in the county jail and then paroled him. Osborne pleaded guilty to the charge while on trial in justice court, and was sentenced to six months in jail and $500 fine levied. He appealed from the sentence.

Charles Rice, who was arrested in Oregon City November 10, was released from jail on his own recognizance, and ordered to reappear January 5 for sentence. Rice was implicated with Archie Evans and Orville Thomas in a charge of larceny in a store building.
