'Hy' Everding Recalls Days Of Early Boyhood Spent in Farms in Marion County

By MAUD BIDGOOD HUBBARD, Nov. 29 — H. R. "Hy" Everding was the honor guest at a musical entertainment by C. C. Bradley and the Stetson syncopaters of KOIN accompanied by Larry Orth, the popular radio soloists, at the Mineral Springs hotel Sunday evening, November

Mr. Everding came here about a year ago and soon after his arrival, the springs became the scene of many happy events held in his honor with crowds of his friends from Portland, his home City, Salem and other points of the Willamette valley numbered among his guests. Programs by noted musicians, banquets by many of the outstanding organizations of Portland and Salem and local entertainments held in his honor have been events of tribute to Mr. Everding, a well known Oregon sportsman of whom it is said that his greatest joy lies in making others happy. His remarkable cheerfulness un- H, R. "Hy" Everding, one of the der adverse physical condition is an inspiration to his many

Mr. Everding says, "In my last ten month's sojourn at Hubbard I have formed acquaintances who become wonderful friends. This is not only true of Hubbard and nearby area but also of Sa-lem as well." Mr. Everding says that he has observed that in the larger cities, as a rule, that the people seem to be embued with one idea-that of getting the dollar, and that one is rated there by what he is worth financially while in the smaller towns and throughout the country the people seem different and that there one finds more of the old school

During the time spent at Hubbard Mr. Everding has imparted a personal interest in its community efforts that has won for him a warm place in the hearts of its citizens. The children have learned to love him and proudly call him their friend. Mr. Everding was born in Portland fifty-seven years ago and the greater part of his life has been spent in that city. In speaking of his boyhood days Mr. Everding said, "The happiest days of my life were spent in Marion county, one mile south of Boon's ferry, while on summer vacations on the farm of the late August Yergen, my great uncle. When not shooting pheasants I spent the time riding horseback and swimming in the Willamette river."

Mr. Everding says that he knew a number of pioneer fam-ilies in the vicinity of Butteville and Aurora with whom he formed ters, Ina and Marian, visited in the acquaintance while visiting Salem Thanksgiving day at the his grandfather, the late John home of John Seymour and fam-Scheurer, on his large farm near ily. county yet I remember the time about 45 years ago when my relatives and friends hitched horses to carts, surreys, hacks and wagons and started for a picnic at Wolfer's springs-the Hubbard Mineral springs. I remember we drove for hours through thick dust and when we stopped at the springs we all needed baths but at that time there was no place to take them. Today there is a hotel at these springs where one can procure hot mineral baths."

Mr. Everding said, "The pathetic side of coming back to this part of the country is in knowing that so many of those sturdy pioneers have passed to the great beyond and also in the scattering of my boy friends to different sec-tions of the country or in the an-swering the call to the unknown." During Mr. Everding's life time he has seen parts of Marion county, where large farms existed years ago, now cut up into small-

Richard Everding, "Hys" fa-ther, and Sylvester Farrell estab-lished a commission business in Portland in 1867 and were known to nearly every pioneer in the state of Oregon. After the passing of the two elder members of the firm, the business was passed on to Thomas G. Farrell, Robert S. Farrell and "Hy" Everding, sons of the senior members. The store, a grocery and feed business, was discontinued with the firm still holding its outside interests under the old firm name.
