

Congress on Hard Road With Big Program on Shoulders

BILLION ASKED IN ONE AMOUNT

Outlay Would go for Treasury-Postoffice Expense In Coming Year

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3. — (AP)—Congress hoisted a heavy legislative burden to its shoulders today and started resolutely down the rough, rocky road of the short session.

For the first time since the legislators convened they put in a full day at work and when night fell they had several concrete accomplishments to show.

The senate approved today a measure carrying $1,999,000,000 rigorously to debating the Congress bus bill that a vote was brought near.

The house tackled the first of the annual appropriation bills, a measure carrying $1,999,000,000 to meet expenses of the treasury and post office departments for the next fiscal year.

Both branches paused to receive the annual message of President Hoover, which outlined the budget, and noted his warning that decreased tax rates cannot be continued.

Meanwhile, the president's proposal that the unemployment problem be met with a $150,000,000 emergency fund, drew further signs of opposition in the house.

Appropriations, Held High

Chairman Elliott of the public buildings committee said more already had been appropriated than could be spent and Representative Byrns of Tennessee, ranking democrat of the appropriations committee, wanted to know how it was to be spent.

Bills to provide $25,000,000 fund for seed and feed loans to farmers of the drought area were introduced in both the house and senate. They had the approval of the agricultural department.

The senate adopted a resolution by Shipstead of Minnesota, asking President Hoover for a report from his unemployment committee and another by Shepard of Texas directing the secretary of agriculture to investigate transactions on the cotton exchange.

In addition, the first legislation was sent to the White House by the senate, a bill to relieve court congestion by broadening the scope of petty offenses which may be prosecuted by information without indictment.

Nye Probe of Fund Goes on Committees got into action, too. Although Senator Davis of Pennsylvania had been formally seated over its protest, the Nye campaign finance committee continued its inquiry into his primary campaign.

Chairman McNary of the house and senate conferees on the Shoup got his committee together again and they virtually agreed to report a formal disagreement and seek a vote in the house on the senate plan for government operation.

The house wanted to lease the plant to private operators.

Immigration also received attention. Chairman Johnson of the house committee which handles such legislation introduced a bill to stop all immigration for five years.

KETTLES, BELLS TO HERALD CAMPAIGN

said Ensign Williams yesterday. "A year ago we raised $1500 for our work at the Christmas mission but if we are to handle adequately the request for supplies for needy people a considerable sum above this will be needed to supply the need."

Progress of Drive to be Told Each Day

Daily, The Statesman will tell the latest news in the progress of the drive and cooperating with the Salvation Army will carry names of the larger donors and the receipts from the kettles on downtown corners.

The Salvation Army kettle has become a familiar sight on streets all over the world. In Japan, the Christmas campaign for funds has already started while in far away London, the cheery tinkle of the Salvation Army bell is likewise heard.

Specific work carried on by Army from funds received at the kettles includes relief to needy, sick families, conduct of a kitchen where an average of 40 people have been fed this month by the army, providing of used clothing and bedding for scantily-clad children and adults and assistance of various forms to underprivileged and distressed people.

Kettles will be placed daily at three downtown corners while on Saturday three additional locations for the soldiers of the army will be selected. The locations during the week are: at Capital Drug store, State and Liberty streets; at Miller's store, Court and Liberty streets; at Adolph's Cigar store, State and Commercial streets.

Extra locations on Saturday will be at Director's store, Commercial and Court streets; First National bank corner, State and Liberty streets; Oregon building, State and High streets.

Here's New Version; Dad-in-Law Uses Gun After the Wedding

SPOKANE, Wash., Dec. 3. — (AP)—Ira Weatherman, 46, probably never had heard of the old custom of welcoming eloped son-in-laws with a blessing, so he tried a six-shooter instead.

E. R. Poole, who wedded his daughter on the sly, came back to find a home today and found Papa Weatherman carrying in the wood. As Weatherman saw the couple he grabbed his revolver and opened fire. A son of the man intervened or someone might have gotten shot.

"I just shot to scare him," the father said. "I thought he'd done me dirt by marrying my daughter, and I didn't want him around."

REQUEST HELD UP FOR WATER, POWER

came more contaminated, would make securing of water from the river here as expensive as a mountain gravity system.

He urged that the commission see the view of the city which he said should be one of water and power development, the two going hand in hand.

Bar said a number of cities were providing water and power for their industrial development as well as for home consumption. J. A. Lewis, one-time state engineer, gave testimony to the commission to the effect that the Portland General Electric company, parent organization of the Northwest Power company, is ready had appropriated sufficient rights on the Clackamas river to care for future developments for power.

Kowitz Says Sportsmen Would Not Oppose City

Chris Kowitz, Salem alderman appearing for a group of sportsmen in this area, said his organization would not oppose development of the Santiam by the city but would look with disfavor upon the granting of any rights to the power companies. He said the fishermen had found in tormented instances that the power companies did not safeguard the rights of fishermen.

J. G. Kelley, pioneer in the development of the Marion Lake and North Santiam project, outlined considerable detail the history of the project, showing expenditures of $54,485 which he and his associates have made over a 26-year period in compiling engineering facts concerning the power development possible in this area.

Kelley urged the commission to grant the water rights to the Northwest Power company, saying the city had long ago refused to take any action in the matter despite the fact that he had come before leaders here on several occasions, asking them to take action.

While no vote was taken, it appeared quite certain that the reclamation commission would either deny the application of the Northwest Power company or else hold the entire matter in abeyance for some months. Granting of the water and power rights to the private company appeared entirely unlikely from the attitude of the commission.

MAN KILLED IN BLIMP ESCAPE

Renegade Hauls one of Landing Crew to 150 Feet; Falls to Death

GAZDEN, Ala., Dec. 3. — (AP)—One man was killed and another was seriously injured here late today as the defender, largest of the Goodyear Rubber company blimps, broke away from a landing crew and carried the two men aloft.

Isaac W. Phillips, a workman at the Goodyear plant here, helping the landing crew dropped 150 feet to his death while Jim Quisenberry of Oklahoma, regular member of the landing crew, was knocked loose from the blimp by a pole and fell 25 feet.

The landing crew was walking the blimp to the hangar here following upon its arrival from Alton, when the ship suddenly lifted.

Jack Boethner, pilot of the defender, said the blimp in its last leg from Nashville here, had bucked head winds most of the way, using a large amount of fuel which resulted in its having a lift of around 3000 pounds.

Following upon the first attempt to land the blimp, the ship was nosed down to earth a few minutes later and landed without difficulty.

The accident was the second in the recent weeks for the Goodyear blimps. The Vigilant, sister of the defender, recently crashed against a mountain near Piedmont, Ala. The crew of the Vigilant escaped injury.

COOPER GOES BACK TO FORMER STORY

Today he returned to his first story explaining that long questioning by police had placed him under a strain and he had been confused when he gave police his second story. Dr. Cooper will be recalled to the stand tomorrow.

G. F. Stevenson, state's witness, testified his home is next to the apartment Mrs. Paris occupied. He said the morning of November 12 he heard loud women's voices in the Paris apartment. He could distinguish only fragments of the conversation, however, and was not positive of what had been said. About an hour later, he said, he saw an ambulance drive up to the apartment and saw the attendants carry out something he believed to be a dead body.

A short time after the ambulance left, Stevenson testified, he saw two men come out of the apartment. Neither was Bowles nor Dr. Cooper, he said.

Bowling Double Header to Show Works Tonight

Hot-shot bowling with honors highly contested is what spectators will doubtless be treated to tonight at Winter Garden when Commercial League rolls out a double-header, result of having taken Thanksgiving night off last week.

Chevrolet Cubs are at the top of the league at present time of writing but where they will be after tonight's rounds is another matter. Fleener Electric men, who climbed brilliantly from a seemingly permanent cellar position to second place, may show fire. And again, Oakland Pontiac, whom the electricians dragged down from the top rung and helped throw into the old basement, may continue its latest trend of coming up one rung at a time, and show up a team or two. Commercial Body Shop generally has some power to good pin-topping.

Surprises have been given on occasion by General Petroleum and Pacific Telephone teams. So, all in all, tonight is the night in bowling and plenty of sparks will fly and strikes be struck.
