

READING LIST IS GIVEN OUT

Miss Covington, City Library, Names new Titles For Youths-Adults

What do you read? Any of them from the following list of books recommended for young people and older people with young ideas. This list, copies of which have been submitted to the high school English instructors by Miss Maud Covington, city librarian, has been compiled from current literature lists and has been circulated in recent weeks in many schools and libraries. Here it is: Joseph Auslander's "Winged Horse Anthology," showing background and development of poetry; Mrs. May Lambertson Becker's "Golden Tales of Short Stories," a collection of short stories on "The American Life"; L. S. Boas' "Great Rich Man," a dramatic and fascinating biography of Sir Walter Scott; T. A. Boyd's "Mad Anthony Wayne," a lively biography of this Revolutionary hero; John Bachman's "Courts of the Murrain," a story of war, intrigue and adventure in South America; Katharine Burdekin's "The Burning Ring," a fantastic story in which the hero, by aid of a magic ring, is able to wish himself into the past; Mrs. Marston Chapman's "Homeplace," an idyll of the Tennessee hills; Sophia Cleugh's "Spring," a novel; W. S. Davis' "The Whirlwind," involving a period of the French revolution; Thomas Eastle's "I Like Diving," told by the man who helped raise the S-S; Jeanette Eaton's "A Daughter of the Seine," life of a tragic daughter of the French revolution; Paul Eipper's "Animals Looking at You," intimate anecdotes of animals; Edward Ellsberg's "On the Bottom," another tale of the salvaging of the S-S; Edgar Ferris' "Love Comes Riding," a collection of adventurous tales suitable for older girls; Charles Finger's "Courageous Companions," a seafaring tale of olden days; Bruce Gould's "Sky Lark," an unusual and informative book on flying; Eric Hodgins' "Sky High," a history of aviation; J. N. Leonard's "Loki; the Life of Charles Proteus Steinmetz," biography of the electrical wizard; T. R. Spier's "Reviewed Earle Locker's 'White House Gang,' in which the spirit of T. R. lives again; David Loth's 'The Brownings,' a Victorian idyll which gives intimate interpretation of these two happy life partners; M. H. Lovelace's 'Early Candlelight,' story of life in a French Canadian fur trading post; L. J. Matland's 'Knights of the Air,' another story of aviation; F. O. Matthesen's 'Sarah Orne Jewett,' story of a happy life in a Maine village; Edw. St. Vincent Millay's 'Poems, Selected for Young People,' containing favorites; J. B. Priestley's 'Good Companions,' a Hensley Dickensian story; 'The Apple Pie and the Marquette,' Priest, Pioneer and Adventurer'; R. C. Sheriff's 'Journey's End,' a war play; Lowell Thomas' 'Raiders of the Deep,' accounts of undersea warfare; Mark Van Dine's 'Junior Anthology of World Poetry,' planned to interest young people; and A. J. Villiers' 'Falmouth for Orders,' account of a sea race.

RAILROADING? NO—GROCERIES!

Sometimes the good stories you hear are true—that one, for instance, about the rich man's son who works because he likes to. Jack Shoup, son of Paul Shoup, president of the Southern Pacific railroad and a graduate of Stanford and Columbia universities, has started learning a business from the ground up. And he's not wiping off locomotives. He's a grocery clerk in San Francisco. From 7:30 a. m. until 8:30 p. m., he measures out sugar, wraps up crackers and peddles bananas. Before daylight he must roll out of bed and after dark he is just taking off his orange smock. "Railroading? The romance has gone out of it," he sighed. "The pioneering has all been done, while in this business—it's just starting." Photo shows Jack Shoup.

MT. ANGEL GROUP'S NOT IN U. S. UNIT

Farmers Find Objections to Terms Laid Down for Creamery Move

The Mt. Angel co-operative creamery remains outside the regional co-operatives which have been organized under the sponsorship of the federal farm board, stated Martin Rostvold, director, who was in Salem Monday. This decision was arrived at by the directors who refused to accept the restrictions laid down by the Interstate creameries which is the co-operative organized by the Lower Columbia, Eugene, and one eastern Oregon group. Mt. Angel, Monmouth and Skamokawa creameries wanted to join with the Challenge group of California but under the program of the federal farm board they would have to gain approval from the Interstate group which had been recognized for Oregon. This group imposed restrictions which Mt. Angel refused to accept to join the Interstate organization continued independent. The crux of the matter is the effort of the Interstate group to limit Mt. Angel sales in Portland to present customers and to pay a share of marketing expenses. Mt. Angel will not agree to these limitations preferring to run independent rather than to accept them. The reason for preferring to join the California group is to have an outlet in California for their surplus butter. Mt. Angel is the largest butter manufacturing establishment in the state. This year has shown a big gain in its volume—about 20 percent more butter being made than a year ago. The make this year will reach 1,300,000 pounds of powdered milk. Frank Hottwer is the manager.

nomah county. Senator Bailey is engaged in drafting a free text book bill for introduction in the forthcoming legislative session. "I see nothing which would prevent the legislature from requiring the counties to purchase and supply to the various school districts of each county necessary text books, or requiring each district to purchase text books for the use of the school children, such books to be paid for from the money the county or school district receives from the irreducible school fund," the attorney general declares. DIVIDEND DECLARED TOLEDO, O., Dec. 15.—(AP)—The Willys-Overland company board of directors here today voted the regular preferred dividend of $1.75 a share quarterly payable January 2 to stockholders of record December 25. Shipment of dairy products from Duluth, Minn., to lower lake ports has increased 700 per cent in the last decade.

ROBERT HOLLADAY IS BICYCLE WINNER

Robert Holladay of Salem Saturday night took home the bicycle offered by Harry Scott, cycle man, in his annual guessing contest. When the speedometer was unsealed, exactly 3,462.2 miles were recorded, which was just 1.1 miles off the 3,463.3 miles guess recorded by Holladay. Carlyn Brady, who made the second best guess, was just 1.2 miles off the right figure. The lowest guess submitted in the 2,900 entries was 177 miles, and the highest was 1,841,000. Credits of $5 and $10 went to the following 14 persons, named in rank of their guesses: Carlyn Brady, Donald Gildow, Frances Gildow, Billie Phillips, Mrs. E. V. Kron, Leland Scott, Joe Johnson, Mrs. C. M. Frey, Alice Schmidt.

Stock Sales at Heaviest Point In Past Month

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—(AP)—The decline in leading industrial and utility stocks was checked today, but the weakness of rail, copper, oil and specialty shares put the balance of net change on the downside. Trading on the stock exchange was active. Sales for the day totaled 3,440,170 shares, the largest volume in a month. Net gains of a point in U. S. Steel, American Can, American Telephone, General Electric, Johns-Manville, Union Carbide, Consolidated gas and Westing-

Cross Says Northwest is Only Place After Trip to East; Attends Big Games

"There is no place like the northwest!" was the hearty remark of Curtiss Cross who returned last week after 20 days spent in the middle west. "The fine part of it is the people back there in the east seem to realize at last that there is a northwest. They were asking questions about the northwest and were able to talk about it and interested in the Columbia River highway and such points of western interest. Most of them seemed to have lost interest in California, especially southern California." Mr. Cross left here more than three weeks ago with the Oregon football team and went to Chicago with them to see the Oregon game play Villanova and bring down the score of 14 to 7 for Oregon state. "They would have had an easy 20 to 0 score if there had been a little softness to the ground, but the weather was below zero and it was hard to get used to a frozen field. Even the easterners did not have the cold to see the game; 30,000 seats were sold and only about 20,000 came out to see the fun," said Mr. Cross, "but the boys certainly played real football."

4 APPOINTEES TO POWER BOARD OKED

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—(AP)—Four President Hoover's first appointments to the new federal power commission were approved today by the senate interstate commerce committee, but votes against two of them indicated opposition would be offered on the floor. The committee approved the nominations of George Otis Smith of Maine, chairman; Ralph B. Williams of Washington; Marcel Garsaud of Louisiana and Claude L. Draper of Wyoming. Both Smith and Garsaud met opposition. Action on the nomination of Frank R. McMinch of North Carolina was postponed until tomorrow to await the arrival in Washington of the newly appointed senator of that state, Cameron Morison. Four senators voted against Garsaud's nomination. They were Senators Howell of Nebraska and Brookhart, Iowa, republicans, and Dill of Washington and Wheeler of Montana, democrats. Garsaud was opposed by Long, Doug of Louisiana, who sent several representatives before the committee to testify he was unfitted because of "obligations" to prominent citizens of New Orleans connected with power companies.

100 Chickens on Latest Count of Country Thefts

Reports of thefts continue to be heard by the county sheriff. P. C. Schermacher of route one, Turner, yesterday reported that 100 Rhode Island Red and White Rock chickens were taken from his ranch Sunday night. Schermacher had no trace of the thieves, but thinks the chickens were taken by parties in a large automobile which was driven slowly past his place shortly before dark Sunday. Report was also made that a set of double harness and a new collar were taken from the George Miller farm near Fairfield. Charles Paist owned the missing articles, and says the chain lugs on the harness were old, but that the harness was good despite this.

Wife Couldn't Get Along With Daughters, View

Since their marriage in Woodburn in December, 1927, Clara Riechel has become so domineering that life is unbearable with her, says a divorced woman yesterday by August Riechel. Plaintiff is father of two adult daughters, and it is because of them much dissension in his married life with Clara Riechel arose, the complaint sets forth. Soon after their marriage she began treating the two adult daughters in a cold, contemptuous and insulting manner to estrange him from them, he says. When either one of them happened to be home, she would not prepare enough food and remove clothing from bed, and took the bed down once when she knew one of the daughter, home from college for the summer, wanted to sleep there, he further asserts.

NAMED IN N. Y. VICE RING

Ladies of the Christian Aid society held their annual Christmas bazaar and cooked food sale, on Saturday at the Sloper & Cocker store. They report a neat sum was realized from it to turn into the church treasury. The Independence fire department gave a benefit dance on Saturday evening in the armory. The money which they received from the dance will be used to purchase additional equipment for the company.

CHRISTMAS PARTY AT JEFFERSON

JEFFERSON, Dec. 15.—One of the most pleasing events of the past week was the regular meeting and annual Christmas party of the Past Noble Grand club, in the lodge rooms of the Odd Fellows hall Thursday afternoon. The decorations in the lodge room were in keeping with the holiday season. Christmas trees and red tapers were placed about the room, and one end of the room was decorated to represent a forest, with snow, and Oregon grape, inter-dot the fir, which made a beautiful winter scene. At two o'clock a sumptuous dinner was enjoyed. A large table was placed in the center of the room. The centerpiece consisted of a large silver star, with a red taper at each point. In the center of the star was a small ornamented Christmas tree, with

Arless to Wear Overalls in His Latest Creation

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Dec. 15.—(AP)—George Arless, winner of the past season, returned to Hollywood today prepared to don overalls for the sake of a film. His next vehicle, "The Ruling Passion," places him throughout most of the picture in homespun contrasting strongly with the statesman-like apparel of "Disraeli" and the oriental trappings of "The Green Goddess." The vehicle is based on a short story by Earl Derr Biggers with screen dialogue by F. I. Van Winkle. Mrs. Arless will have the principal feminine role.
