CHAMBER FOR YEAR Following word late last week

priation had been made for work on the North Santiam highway, there was general talk that this project would get started immediately, since the county was ready to match the federal funds. Roadmaster Johnson pointed out yesterday that it would be at least four months before work can be started on the North Santiam project, as surveys have not yet been completed. The other project, the Niagara-Mill City road, could be started at any time were it not tied up in litigation over right-of-ways. Four damage

STUDENTS HELP TO BRING GOOD CHEER

High school boys and girls, not content with playing the role of Christmas good Samaritans through donations of food and clothing to between 25 and 30 needy families of the city, have turned Santa Claus joyous help-

So now they are bringing to school all the used toys they can find, and those that need repairs are being put in playing order at the machine shop by students. The students have also bought paint, and are dolling the toys up so the youngsters who are to receive them will have to guess twice to know whether or not they didn't come direct from the workshop of the frosty-bearded man from the north.

This collection of toys, which is already reaching quite a sizable pile, will be given to some charitable organization, local through which distribution will be made at the Yuletide.

Schmoker Given Hearing Before Justice Small

Hearing of testimony in the case of the State vs. Warren C. Schmoker, 224 North Liberty street, will be continued in justice court next Monday afternoon after a testimony of five witnesses was taken here yesterday afternoon before Justice Brazier C. Small.

Schmoker is held on the charge of manslaughter, the count being lodged against him following an accident Thanksgiving morning, November 27, when Warren C. Eisenbrandt, 14-year old Salem boy, was killed.

The state claims Schmoker was negligent in the driving of his car which ran into the Sanitary Milk truck on which Ei-
