CHILDREN SELLING CHRISTMAS SEALS

McKinley - Lincoln Groups Co-operate; Downtown Sales are Good

Children at the McKinley and Lincoln schools are carrying on an extensive health education campaign which is centered about the sale of the tuberculosis Christmas seals. In each building, carefully decorated booths have been constructed in the assembly hall, charge in charge during noon and recess periods to sell the seals to their classmates.

Mrs. Hermie Pfister is in charge of the work at the McKinley school, and Mrs. Gladys M. Mills at Lincoln. Work of the children has been commanded by Mrs. J. E. Blakhorn, concert chairman of the senior class.

In the downtown town booths, sales are progressing satisfactorily, although the heaviest sales are expected to come the rest of this week. Everyone who will send out Christmas letters and packages is urged to purchase some of these seals.

In charge of the postoffice booth for the rest of the week will be: Mrs. W. H. Byrd, Thursday; Mrs. Tinkham Gilbert, Friday morning; Mrs. Frank Sharp, Friday afternoon; Mrs. Billy Utter, Saturday morning; Mrs. Frank Sharp, Saturday afternoon. Mrs. Arlo Davis has charge of this booth all day Wednesday. In the other downtown booths, committee chairman for that station have been lining up the assistants, or being lined up by a large share of the work themselves.

Hunters Get Deer, Using Hands Alone

Bare hands, most primitive of weapons, were used in capturing a two-thirds grown doe deer by a group of local men who went on a fishing expedition recently in the Siuslaw country. Joe Bernardi, local business man, told the story upon his return to Salem.

Bernardi, his grandson Charley Hurley, Ivan Meeks and a Mr. Grubbs were standing along the highway near Swisshome when they saw the deer swimming down the river. When it reached the bank and then lay down near a log, Meeks and Grubbs crept up on either side of it and managed to take it without much of a struggle.

The deer, utterly exhausted, was carried to the men's car and

Shiny Toys, Scores of 'Em, Made by Boys Who Are Busy at High School

Boys of the machine shop students at the senior high school have all but put on the long white whiskers that spell Santa Claus. At least, they have turned their smaller work room into a veritable Santa chamber where old toys by the scores are being made into bright and shiny toys.

In fact, the little boys and girls who receive them on Christmas day probably won't know that many of them are "re-builts," so careful have the students been to reproduce the original article. Boys have chipped in their nickels and dimes to buy enamel for dressing up the toys.

Last week these boys, getting the great idea, asked permission to go ahead with the work. This was readily given, and the boys sent out calls for old toys. The first three days of this week nearly 80 articles were received, most of them being solicited directly by the machine shop students.

And what fun the boys have had repairing toy automobiles. For instance, there is the bright yellow racer body that came into the shop. When the youthful toy builders finished their job, lo and behold, it was an excellent reproduction of an airplane!

Old Toys Fixed up

Several scooters are in the collection of toys already received, and one of these bore every appearance of having features in a head-on collision. But you couldn't tell it, not the way it has been straightened out and painted up, and missing parts supplied.

Some youngster is going to be happy with a pair of roller skates that the students have put in first class shape. They are so bright and shiny they look like new; and run that way, too, for it's said some of the boys couldn't resist the temptation to try them out.

Four wheels and two treads which were received have been converted into a fine looking tank, with the body shaped out of wood.

Blocks, cut from wood and with rubber stamp lettering and numbering, have been made for the smaller children. And there are many, many other articles on which the youthful Santas have worked to produce happy hours for youngsters whose fathers and mothers will not be able to buy toys. For instance, fire truck, boats of various kinds, automobiles of several kinds, scooters, a tricycle, telephone, windmill, tinker toys, doll bed, croquet and checker sets, games, wooden animals, puzzles, wheelbarrows, wagons, blackboard, guns, garden tools, dolls and balls.

Some Food Gathered

In addition, the boys have gathered a sack of potatoes, a jar of fruit, some clothing and other items in their contributions for charity. The entire "toy shop" will be given over to the Elks for distribution to the needy.

All the work is being done under supervision of C. A. Guderian, head of the machine shop.

SALEM TEAM WINS GAME INDEPENDENCE, Dec. 17.

The first game of basketball played at the high school gym was on Friday evening between the Evangelical church team of Salem, and the local high school boys. The game resulted in a victory for the visiting team, the score being 31 to 25.

PERRYDALE, Dec. 15—The community Christmas tree and school program will be held Monday evening, December 22 in the auditorium.

A good program is under way and as an added interest, Mrs. Earl, wife of Homer Earl who teaches intermediate has written the play his pupils are presenting. Mrs. Earl is quite talented along that line though none of her work has been put on here.

SENATOR SAM BROWN OF GERVAS was in the city yesterday conferring with members of the delegation from this county in regard to the senatorial vacancy. Attempts were made to arrange a date for meeting of the Marion county legislators, but no definite time was set. However, it is supposed the meeting will be held here within the next few days.

In the meantime, names of possible candidates continue to fill the air, with the strongest talk for some of the men already mentioned: Frank Settemeier of Woodburn; W. A. Jones, of Macleay; Charles Archard, Max Burney and Chris Kowitz, all of Salem.
