Frank McKinney Hubbard Of Witticism Fame, Taken Suddenly at Home

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Dec. 26. -(AP)-Frank McKinney Hubbard, whose witticisms have been given to nespaper and magazine readers through the medium of a tall, gawky character known as "Abe Martin," died suddenly at his home here today following an attack of heart disease.

After his death his close friends and associates learned that he was 62 years old. He would never tell his age. He disliked personal publicity, but was prevailed upon several years ago to prepare an autobiography. In this he told of his boyhood at Bellefontaine, O., the place of his birth, of his ful. yearning to be an actor or showman and of his ultimate development into a newspaper artist and sociation, commented:
