Dishes Restaurant; Arrested—J. A. Nylund apparently did not like a local restaurant proprietor and took his spite out in pacing up and down in front of the restaurant expressing volubly his opinions as a whole. He was thus engaged when a local policeman found him at 3 o'clock Thursday morning and persuaded Nylund to go to the police station. Nylund was released in the afternoon on a $20 bail with a citation to appear at police court at 10 o'clock this morning.

Thomas Bros. Hazel Green Fri.—School Teacher Visits — Miss Jessie Boeckenhauer, who is teaching school near Hoquiam, Wash., will leave today after spending the week at the homes of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Krueger and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Oehler. They are all former Iowa residents and neighbors.

Mrs. Mary Gatliff now with Capitol Beauty Shoppe, Tel. 266.

Back to Work Soon — Mrs. Madalene Callin, member of The Statesman's news staff, who has been ill for nearly three weeks, is improving and will be back on the job some time next week, according to word from McManis building where she is being cared for at the home of her parents.

See rental list—Becke & Hendricks on classified page, also in office window, 189 N. High.

Moving Saturday—Mr. and Mrs. Albert VanDahl and family will move Saturday to Mill City, where Mr. VanDahl took over direction of the Mill City Lodge December 1. They have been living at the Fisher apartments here for the past two years.

Best dance Hazel Green Fri.

Portland Visitors — Mr. and Mrs. Walter McDougal and family were New Year's day visitors in Portland.

Mileage Cut Effective—The new eight-cent mileage rate for all county traveling expenses went into effect yesterday, following order to that effect recently by the county court. Ten cents has been allowed in the past, however members of the court voluntarily put themselves on the eight-cent rate last August. This will result in a saving in all instances with possible exception of the county school superintendent, who has been allowed $50 a month flat rate.

Church Has Potluck—An all-church fellowship dinner was held at the Jason Lee church at 1 o'clock yesterday. Members of the church and their families brought their own basket dinners and enjoyed a brief program following the dinner.

Dance Fri., Hazel Green.
Glasses Here—Mr. and Mrs. Roy G. Glass, the former superintendent of schools at Oregon City, visited friends here yesterday. Mr. Glass was for ten years superintendent of schools at Raymond Wash., removing to Oregon City last fall.

Young people who have leisure time for the next few months could employ it profitably in taking a course, or special studies, at the Capital Business College. Day and night school. Register this week for work next Monday.

Expected Back—Mr. and Mrs. Grover Hillman who went to Minneapolis to spend the holidays with Mr. Hillman's parents, are expected back today or tomorrow.

Dance Fri., Hazel Green.

Goes to California—Homer H. Smith left Thursday for San Francisco where he will undergo medical observation for the improvement of his health.

EARLY BIRDS GET HOOVER 'WORM'

President Invites two Early Arrivals to Breakfast Recently

By SAM BLEDSOE
WASHINGTON, Jan. 1.— (AP)—Two early birds who were hopping about in the cold wind at daybreak this morning got their reward in the form of a White House breakfast.

One was Charles Ruby, railway brakeman. The other was Arthur Demars, insurance man and formerly of St. Paul. The statue of Andrew Jackson on his rearing horse in nearby Lafayette park was a dark blur in a shadowy world when they arrived at the west gate of the White House.

They were the first of the line which forms each New Year's day to shake the president's hand.

"We chatted," Ruby said in relating the experience, "or rather," he added as an afterthought, "we chattered."

It wasn't long before recompense for early rising appeared in the guise of hot coffee and muffins sent out from the executive mansion. That helped some but it was only the beginning.

A policeman led them inside the White House grounds. They followed dazed as Aladdin when he first rubbed the lamp, passed through the four great white pillars of the mansion and into an oval room. There they met President Hoover, Secretary Wilbur, and Harlan F. Stone, associate justice of the supreme court.

The group had gathered with Mr. Hoover to toss the medicine ball about. They had worked up quite a glow and were in the midst of fresh eggs when the president was informed Ruby and Demars were in the line in the chill, gray dawn.

"If there are two men who are anxious to see me as all that," he was quoted as saying, "I will not keep them waiting out there in the cold any longer. Bring them in."

Affairs had taken an unexpected and bewildering turn for Ruby and Demars and their accounts of what happened were a trifle vague as to details.

They agreed, however, that they shook hands with the president. Ruby also hoped for the recovery of the president's son, Herbert Hoover, Jr., who has been ill. He thought of it, he said because he has two children himself.

They agreed, too, that they were ushered into an adjoining room and served breakfast. Demars said they ate rolls and coffee. Ruby believed eggs were somewhere on the table but he "wouldn't swear to it." Both were positive Mr. Hoover is a "fine man."

Says Church Training Has No Relation to Delinquency

By F. B. COLTON
Associated Press Staff Writer
CLEVELAND, Ohio, Jan. 1.— (AP)—A psychologist's conclusion that religious training "has no significant relation" to delinquency was presented to the American Association for the Advancement of Science today.

Three sociologists reported a better understanding of the health of women through the isolation of three hormones, which are secretions of the ductless glands.

Boys apparently are just as likely to get into trouble when they have had religious training as when they have not had it, said George R. Mursell, chief psychologist of the Ohio state department of public welfare.

Under religious training he included the amount of attendance at church and Sunday school, knowledge of the Bible, general attitude toward religion, and knowledge of the difference between right and wrong. The information was gained through tests given to about 600 boys in an Ohio reform school and 400 boys outside. Both groups ranged in age from 13 to 18.

Mursell found the boys in reform school averaged about the same in their religious training as the boys outside. He said that to make the comparisons as fair as possible he tested boys in both groups who came from families of about the same social and financial standing, in equal proportion.

The discovery dealing with health of women was reported by F. L. Hissaw, H. L. Fovold and R. K. Meyer of the department of zoology in the University of Wisconsin.

PASTOR'S WIDOW DIES NEAR SALEM

Mrs. Lisa Herrmann, 65, wife of the late Rev. Herrmann who held the pastorate of the German Baptist church here from 1901 to 1906, died Wednesday, December 31, at the Robert Perlich residence on route 6, Salem, following an invalidism of six months. Mrs. Herrmann had been making her home with the Perlichs since September. For the past seven years she lived alone in her home on North Cottage street, until her ill health, which necessitated an operation in March 1930.

Mrs. Herrmann was born in Germany, March 11, 1862, and came to this country at an early age. Mr. Herrmann died 13 years ago in the east, after which Mrs. Herrmann made her home in Buffalo, New York, until returning to Salem seven years ago. A niece, Mrs. Lina Schwab of Buffalo, N. Y., survives.

Funeral services will be held Friday, January 2, at 2 p. m. from the German Baptist church, under direction of the Clough-Barrick company. Interment will be in Lee Mission cemetery.

In the southwest region of the United States ever since 1600 years before Christ, it was reported by Dr. Frank H. H. Roberts, Jr., of the Smithsonian Institution of Washington.

For the first 1500 years they led a roving life, and lived by hunting game and collecting wild grains and seeds.

About the time of Christ, however, these Indians lost their wandering habits and learned how to raise corn. With a fairly dependable food supply thus assured, they began settling in permanent villages. The Indians, now known as the Pueblos, have left a more or less continuous record of village life ever since, evidence of which has been found in the ruins of their dwellings.

After being started, the hormones secreted by these sex glands put brakes on the activity of their pituitary control, so that between the two glands there is a cycle which acts as a health balance wheel.

When foreign glands are substituted they produce the health giving effects, but by shutting off the pituitary control, hinder that gland in its natural function of keeping the sex glands healthy.

ITALIAN PREMIER SPEAKS TO AMERICA

NEW YORK, Jan. 1.—(AP)—Premier Mussolini, speaking today for the first time to a great audience of American radio listeners in an international radio hookup, declared Italy never would take the initiative of starting a war.

In a short, vigorous address that came through excellently, the noted Fascist chieflain was emphatic in asserting that neither he nor his people desired another conflict of arms.

Pointing out that he himself had fought in the ranks and was seriously wounded, he asked how anyone with his experience as a man and a statesman could consider a future conflict without horror. So far as the training of Fascist youth was concerned, he said it was simply to make them strong, self-reliant and disciplined.

If the United States had not brought its weight to bear, the war would not have been won, he said, adding, "without their cooperation, the world cannot recover from the post war crisis and their help is necessary if prosperity is to return."

Premier Mussolini said Italy's trade relations with Soviet Russia were valuable economically but did not affect internal politics.

Notwithstanding unemployment, peace and quiet prevailed throughout Italy, the duce assured his listeners, saying: "Eight million men and women representing the whole manpower and the economic forces of the national stand solidly behind fascism."

He expressed confidence the peace of the world would be preserved and a new era of prosperity would dawn. In conclusion he paid his respects to President Hoover.

STORM BREWING ON RAIL PLANS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 1.—(AP)—Interest in the gigantic consolidation plan of the eastern railroads swerved today to the interstate commerce commission which has the final word on the proposal to group the billion dollar lines into four independent systems.

While a storm is brewing in the senate over the proposition and an inquiry by the senate interstate commerce committee seems likely, it was emphasized today the fate of the consolidation rests wholly with the independent commission.

The railroad executives who worked out the merger plan with the encouragement of President Hoover will meet tomorrow in New York to ratify their agreement. It is expected the plan will be submitted soon to the commission. There is no inkling of its attitude.

"It is wholly up to the Interstate Commerce commission," asserted Senator Foss, republican, Ohio, a member of the senate in-

Temperature Is Moderate; Rain Falls

Chilly weather which prevailed until the last day of December, moderated markedly yesterday, the thermometer rising to 57 degrees during the day and never falling below 33 degrees. There was some rainfall during the afternoon of New Year's day. The prediction for today was continued cloudy weather with the wind in the south.

Icy paving was reported early New Year's morning; but the rising temperature quickly melted the ice and made driving safe for the holiday. Around Portland freezing on the streets and roads caused numerous motor accidents, but this did not reach to Salem.

The only accident reported to the Salem police occurred on the intercounty bridge at 12:30 when several cars collided with each other. George Hesseman, 405 Marion street, and Babe Hiron are the only two drivers involved who reported. They told the police that there was no one hurt and little property damage.

Several cars were in the ditch near Aurora and five went in together near Canemah. Drivers on the west side highway said that there were 15 automobiles ditched on the long hill out of Tigard and near Red Rock dairy.

Greyhound stages failed to operate between Portland and Seattle due to the icy conditions existing nearby to the north limits of Portland.

It is said that there were a number of minor accidents on the roads early Thursday morning. One car is reported to have skidded over 200 feet after a speed of over 50 miles an hour. Another was driven up on the yards of some residents in North Salem due to sliding toward the curb after brake applications.
