"Gin Marriage" Law May Make Change Needed

In case the state of Washington enacts its proposed "gin marriage" law reuiring three days' notice of intent to marry, Oregon probably will tighten up its marriage laws at the coming legislative session. This was announced by legislators who visited Salem on Friday. Passage of a similar law in California resulted in Reno, Nevada, becoming a popular marriage center.

Legislators said that enactment of the "gin marriage" law in Washington would cause many persons desiring to marry without giving notice to cross the Columbia river into Oregon.

Akin will be the principal speaker. The Young Married People's club of the church will hold a meeting Wednesday night at 8 o'clock.
