

OREGON SHEEP WIN PRAISE

J. J. Thompson of Pratum Wins National Recognition

PRATUM, Jan. 17.—An interesting story appeared in "The American Sheep Breeder" recently regarding the American Royal Exposition, held at Kansas City, Mo., in 1930. The story is written by R. E. Richards, Fortage, Wis.

In writing about the Shropshire show at the Royal Exposition he refers several times to J. J. Thompson, who lives a short distance east of Pratum. Mr. Richards writes as follows:

The showmen show was the largest of the mutton breeds, 12 exhibitors making the show and very good sheep were far down the line, the quality being so good. J. J. Thompson's flock of Oregon, shown by A. M. Hubbard, and the Hon. J. J. Thompson, who won the lion's share of the leading awards, but were closely pressed by others all the way. Thompson's thick, well fleshed ram headed the aged class, while McKerrow's topped the yearling class. Thompson's ramling ewe won the purple ribbon. Thompson's very uniform pens of three rams and ewe lambs easily headed those classes. McKerrow's winning the pen of three yearling ewes and flock. Thompson was unable to show a flock, lacking a second yearling ewe.

The yearling ewe class brought out the real tops of the breed, with Thompson heading the class with a sweet, low-set ewe in wonderful bloom, closely followed by the Carl Schaffner and Son's ewe, perhaps a trifle better in the head, but not as good over the shoulders or in rear quarters. McKerrow stood in third and fourth place with a pair of ewes good enough to top most shows. McKerrow won the ewe lamb class with a thick lamb which handled extremely well. Thompson taking second, third and fourth. The yearling ewe was the purple ribbon. Thompson's very uniform pens of three rams and ewe lambs easily headed those classes. McKerrow's winning the pen of three yearling ewes and flock. Thompson was unable to show a flock, lacking a second yearling ewe.

GRAND ISLAND CLASSES POPULAR

GRAND ISLAND, Jan. 17.—A goodly number of men interested in hog raising attended the second hog meeting held at the schoolhouse Thursday evening.

These meetings are under the supervision of Prof. Burr L. Young, Smith-Hughes instructor in the Dayton high school.

A. N. Doerfler a prominent hog grower from Silverton, gave a very interesting talk concerning his experiences in this business in which he has been very successful. He advocates very highly the small portable hog houses that may be moved from field to field. He believes in lots of range for his hogs and by using these portable houses which are on runners, the changing from one field to another is much easier.

The main topic for discussion was the problem of sanitation. With the large range and portable hog houses Mr. Doerfler finds the sanitation problem much easier solved. Many important and useful ideas and methods were discussed and all attending felt well paid for the time spent. These meetings are held every Thursday evening and are open to all interested in the subject.

MT. ANGEL 4-H CLUBS ARE ACTIVE

23 Clubs at Work in District and all Busy is Report

MT. ANGEL, Jan. 17.—The Mt. Angel schools boast 17 4-H clubs under the leadership of Miss Theresa Dehler of school district 91. Miss Juanita Johnston, R. N., health nurse for the district, and 14 students of Mt. Angel Normal school, who work under Miss Dehler's supervision.

At a leaders' meeting held in October, William W. Fox, county club agent, explained the purpose, organization, and procedure of the 4-H clubs to the normal students who are taking up this work for the first time.

On October 30, the first meetings were held with 190 club members enrolled. Since that time meetings have been conducted on alternate Fridays.

The student teachers feel that they are receiving valuable training and are doing the work voluntarily in order to gain the experience it gives them.

Those carrying on the work are Misses Carolina May, Mt. Angel, division I sewing; Rosemarie Campan, Woodburn, division I sewing; Geraldine Fry, Scotts Mills, hand work; Maxine Tuor, West Linn, hand work; Clara Koch, Woodburn, division I sewing; Elsie Vostral, Scappoose, division I sewing; Olive A. Manning, Gervais, hand work; Jeanette Luper, Woodburn, division I cookery; Theresa Svota, Glendon Beach, health; Claudia Hasting, Mt. Angel, camp cookery; Dora Svota, Glendon Beach, health; Florence Walker, Mt. Angel, hand work; Betty Henscheid, Rupert, Idaho, health; and Mary F. Gassman, Albany, hand work.

Word has been received in Mt. Angel that H. C. Seymour, state club leader, will meet the 4-H club leaders and members on January 28. He will be accompanied by William W. Fox, and other state officials.

It is expected that nearly 200 members will be present. Plans have been made to or-

SPRING VALLEY CLUB MEETS

Program Enjoyed by Large Audience at School Recently

SPRING VALLEY, Jan. 17.—The Spring Valley Community club held its regular monthly meeting Friday evening, January 16, at the school building. The meeting had been postponed one week from the original date.

After the short business meeting, the president, S. D. Crawford, introduced H. D. Lehniger, of the J. C. Penny company store in Salem, who gave a very interesting and amusing program. In his first act, Mr. Lehniger impersonated St. Slocum, county constable from Virginia and gave the crowd a number of mirth-provoking acts and witty sayings. For the second act Mr. Lehniger gave the impersonation of Dr. Levi Strauss giving a lecture on "Married Men Make the Best Husbands."

For the final act the crowd was held in suspense awaiting the "3 0 0 9 Shooting Mystery." James Cook, Ivan Eberly and Claude Walling ably assisted in this act. In another act Mr. Lehniger called for 11 girls and 11 boys, who readily responded and formed a semi-circle on the stage. Each youngster told his name and received a box which rattled mys-
