

CREAM GRADING BILL TRACKED

Dana Bill too Drastic; is Feeling; Granges and Others Opposed

Farmers are showing increasing interest in the dairy legislation that is expected to be introduced at this session of the legislature.

Of particular interest is the proposed cream grading law. This bill, commonly known as the Oregon Journal bill will be introduced by Senator Dunne of Multnomah county who worked with Marshall N. Dana and others in preparing the bill.

Many farmers declare that the measure is unnecessarily drastic and will virtually put the small producer out of business since the law will require that in order to rank very high in the scale of grading, cream must be delivered frequently. The farmer who delivers his cream only once or twice per week will be forced out by the low price he will receive.

Opponents of the bill also point out that the surplus of butter today is in the high grade, that ranking above 90 per cent. They declare that the proposed law would only tend to increase the surplus. Two Granges Voice Opposition
Silverton Hills and Monitor granges have gone on record against the proposed law. The Marion county Jersey cattle club discussed the question at its annual meeting on Saturday and the sentiment seemed to be against the law. However a motion to go on record as opposing it was withdrawn on the ground that such a stand might be misunderstood. The Jersey breeders declared that they were in favor of raising the standard of Oregon butter but felt that the proposed bill was too drastic. Other granges and dairy associations in the county are expected to take a stand in regard to the law before it comes to a legislative vote.

WICKERSHAM REPORT HURTS CORN BIT AIDS BEVERAGES ON STREET

Hoppers for Beer Lose Out and Grain is On the Skids

CHICAGO, Jan. 20.—(AP)—Bearish aspects of the Wickersham prohibition report tumbled grains downward today, especially corn. The fact that the report omitted any statement looking to changes which would indicate immediate enlarged use of grains for beverage manufacture led to selling by traders whose hopes had been overthrown. Corn, which would be chiefly affected by hope for resumption of beer making, underwent a maximum drop of 1 1/2 cents a bushel. Corn closed unsettled, 1/4-1/2 cents lower, wheat at 1 cent decline to 1/2 advance, oats 1/4-1/2 cents down.

Alcohol Stocks Also Come in for Some Writing up

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—(AP)—Leisurely covering by the shorts gave stock prices an upward flip today.

The advance, averaging about 2 1/2 points, was regarded more as the result of the market's outside technical condition than of the Wickersham report contained little that could be translated into stock market activity and the general ease of interest rates was of greater benefit to bonds than to equities.

Professional traders spent considerable time in scanning digests of the prohibition survey and impartially bid up beverage as well as alcohol stocks. Trading proceeded quietly, although the upward trend received a boost in the last hour when the day's best prices were made. Sales totaled 1,829,200 shares, about 200,000 more than yesterday.

U. S. and Bethlehem Steels rallied 2 points net, while National Biscuit, Loew's, Electric Power and Light, Standard Oil of New Jersey, American and Foreign Power, Sears Roebuck, United Corp., North American, Pennsylvania, Baltimore and Ohio and General Electric were
