MOSER TO GIVE MINORITY VIEW

Senator Refuses to Vote for Amended Port Bill With Names Attached

Declining to depart from an agreement he had made with house sponsors of the Amnell Port of Portland bill, Senator Gus C. Moser yesterday refused to join with the other members of the senate Multnomah delegation in reporting favorably on the bill with an amendment that would legislate four men into office as port commissioners.

The four whose names will be written into the bill by a majority of the senate delegation are Harry L. Corbett, Rufus C. Holman, Kenneth Dawson and William Luddemann; Moser will present a minority report.

Because of the absence of Senator Woodward tomorrow, when he will be in Portland to attend the funeral of his brother, it was agreed that the majority and minority reports will not be read in the senate until Thursday morning.

As amended the bill will provide that the four men shall fill the vacancies to occur on the commission next June, and that thereafter the commissioners shall be elected by the people of the district. Corbett and Dawson are now members of the commission. In voting with the majority Senator Woodward explained that he was violating his conviction that the commissioners should be appointed by the governor subject to confirmation by the senate.

Senator Moser explained that he had agreed with the house members to stand strictly by the Amnell bill as it passed the house, therefore he could not support the measure with the names included. Senator Crawford's bill, providing that the governor appoint to fill the vacancies occurring in June and that thereafter the people elect will remain in the hands of the delegation until after disposal of the house bill.

The meeting of the senate delegation was heated at times. "There is going to be a fight in the senate," Moser said. "Things have been said about me as attorney for the port commission and I am going to make the far cry." Senator Crawford referred to rumors that he was seeking the post of attorney for the port and declared that "I couldn't get it and wouldn't have it if I could."
