The county group did not commit itself on either question, meaning Mr. Tavener to promote discussion in the state group.

LAFKY CHECKS UP ON PROPERTY TAX

F. J. Lafky, well-known Salem resident, one time city manager of La Grande, has been checking up his tax receipts getting together some thunder for the hearing on the Mott measure to abolish state property tax. He went back as far as 1907 when he acquired 328 acres of land west of Woodburn. The value was $11,160 and the tax $81.19. The next year the tax jumped to $122.74. In 1910 he sold 98 acres but the valuation of the remainder was held at $11,000 and the tax was 101.20. By 1918 on the same acreage the tax had grown to $190.71 and in 1919 to $274.85. The valuation increased only $500 in the interval. He checked particularly the increase in the non-high school district tax, which was eight-tenths of a mill in 1916, 3 mills in 1921, and after transportation was added, the tax leaped to 6.1 mills. This tax is greater than upon high school districts like Gervais and St. Paul now pay.

Eighteen men were sent out to farm jobs, which is an encouraging situation, Phillips says. Twenty common laborers went to work through the bureau and one woods laborer went to work.
