

COMMUNITY CLUB PROGRAM UNIQUE

Turner High Wins First Prize in "Living Valentine" Contest

TURNER, Feb. 12.—The usual full house greeted the Turner community club's February program, Monday evening. Kenneth Hickok led the opening singing with Miss Josephine Gilstrap at the piano. A small amount of business was taken care of; then two representatives from the state fire marshals office were introduced and spoke of the new law for rural fire protection.

L. B. Davis, secretary of the Oregon State Fire association, explained the new law and told how to go to work to get the required organizations. One of the steps is to get the county property valuation and present the findings to the county court. Property owners in such a protected district find their fire insurance is not nearly as high as it otherwise would be.

G. W. Stokes spoke of fire losses and the unusually heavy loss of property last year. He also stated that statistics show that 75 percent of the fires could be extinguished if the proper protection is provided and intelligently used. It is hoped that Turner and its nearby communities will get together and form a strong fire protective association.

A speaker from the floor, voiced a common sentiment that the careless use of cigarettes is responsible for a large percent of the fires. H. R. Peets is chairman of the fire protection committee, named by the Turner club and they are asked to formulate plans and get the people to sign up for the movement for better fire protection.

Play is Planned

Announcement was made that a community play would be put on at the March meeting, asking for a small charge with which to take care of the year's nominal expenses. Music will also be featured.

The evening program opened with piano duet by Misses Mary Miller and Marjorie Fowler. "Little Orphan Annie" was dramatized by Rachel Riches. Solo by Master Lester Jones, accompanied by Mrs. Mae Hadley. A male quartette from Salem consisting of Messrs. Oscar Flifoot, Alva Schurman, B. Wolfe and W. Moody, gave two numbers.

Districts Represented

As previously announced each district was asked to put on a scene featuring "Living Valentines." The numbers were introduced by Rachel Riches with a clever rhyme for each.

Cloverdale came first with a young couple sitting with clasped hands before a large valentine, while "Sweet Heart of Mine" was given as a whistling solo. Those taking the parts were Misses Gertrude Anderson and Olga Garner, Alvin Garner and Mrs. Hadley at the piano.

The Turner high school number was put on before a large six foot red and white valentine with two smaller ones to match. Young people taking part were Wallace Chandler and Sheila Deltall grouped before the large heart, with a group of girls entering with singing. They were Misses Helen and Helena Witzell, Leila Wilkening, Gladys Given, Nellie Barber and Margaret Robertson. They wore old fashioned costumes.

The Pleasant View stunt was put on by Mrs. Walter Miller, whose face was outlined through a large valentine. Miss Leona Cook represented the Swedish lover kneeling and singing "Wish Ye the Top of the Mornin'."

Comedy introduced

Crawford district represented two forlorn maidens wishing for their valentines to appear. Bridget came in with much advice and finally presented them with a large cook book which would be a guide to pleasing young men.

The parts were taken by Misses Nellie Barber, Helen Witzell and Mrs. Charles Barber.

The last number was put on for Turner and represented by tiny Betty Peets and young Bobby Ball kneeling before his lady love presenting a valentine of sweet flowers which were accepted. While the judges retired Mr. and Mrs. Earl Cook sang a duet. Miss Josephine accompanied them.

The members of the competing numbers were asked to assemble on the stage, while Mrs. S. A. Riches chairman of the program committee, announced the decision of the judges and presented the prizes to each number which were of practically the same value and would be divided with each taking part.

The first place was awarded to Turner high school, second to Crawford district; third Turner, fourth Cloverdale and fifth Pleasant View.

The judges were Miss Claudine Rowland, Mrs. Warren Gray and Mrs. Elsie Pickard, all of Marion. The merchants giving prizes were B. J. Harrison, J. McKinney, E. S. Prather, and Lee Barber. The community club gave the fifth prize. The closing feature was the opening of the mail box which had a valentine for each one present. Alvin Garner was postmaster and was assisted by Louise Peffer, dressed as a clown.

Golden West Coffee is ground just right... for "Drip-Coffee" making!

JUST a year ago Golden West started to tell of the uniform deliciousness of "Drip" coffee... its simple effectiveness... its economy.

Since that time thousands of housewives have served hundreds of thousands of cups brimming with real coffee flavor... for these same housewives learned by test that Golden West Coffee is ground just right for "drip" coffee making; that they released every bit of the "stored-up flavor" of this blend that is selected from the choicest coffees that grow.

Try "dripping" Golden West... use the Golden West "drip" coffee maker... both are as near as your own grocery. The maker is $1 complete. One making and you'll know what flavor really is.
