Schulmerich Opposes Rapid Increase in Higher Education Cost

Oregon State college, exclusive of her seven assistants who receive $3000 a year each.

Schulmerich said the enrollment at Oregon State college had decreased 113 students since 1928, while the expenses of the institution had increased in a much larger proportion.

"I am not trying to tear down the higher educational institutions," said Schulmerich, "but on the contrary I am striving to have them placed on a sound business basis."

Senator Moser appeared before the committee in support of a bill that would authorize the state board of control to enter state leases for one or more office buildings in Portland, with an option of purchasing them for state purposes. Moser said the state was now paying rentals of $30,000 a year in Portland, which would pay for the Oregon building in Portland in 21 years without capital outlay.

Moser also talked in behalf of a bill appropriating $100,000 for the construction of a memorial building at Clatskanie. This appropriation would be contingent upon the federal government appropriating $125,000 to assist in the construction of the building.

The Columbia Valley association, through Frank Jenkins of Eugene, asked for an appropriation of $25,000, to be expended in gathering data on the Columbia, Snake and Willamette rivers, preparatory to appearing before congress in an effort to have the streams developed for transportation purposes.

The committee went on record favoring a bill that would levy a tax on non-resident concerns using billboard advertising in the state of Oregon. The tax would range from $5 to $20, depending on the amount of billboard space used.

The appropriation of the state library was reduced from $118,519 to $84,664.

mor years, making the total in the city in 1930, 43. There were five tuberculosis deaths.

Nurses and the county physicians made 731 visits in communicable disease cases; 211 visits for tuberculosis; 309 in prenatal care; 891 visits to infants; 619 to pre-school children.

Births in Salem in 1930 numbered 464, with the mothers of 297 of these babies residents of Salem. There were 13 still births.

The laboratory of the public health department examined 1,657 specimens, mostly of water and milk, here, and sent 1187 specimens to the state laboratory.

On the side of clinic work, public health physicians examined 174 infants virtually two times each, and private physicians examined 163 infants; 198 pre-school children were examined about two times each by the public health doctors and private physicians examined 123. The public health department dentist treated 196 children, 227 visits being made.

With regard to venereal disease control, 14 patients made 76 visits at the public health department and 102 patients were reported by private physicians.

Volunteer workers spent 675 hours at the Salem health center in clinic work.

Only two deaths in Salem in the past 10 years have been due to smallpox, the report shows, and there has been but one diphtheria death in the last five years. There were five tuberculosis deaths in 1930, 27 in the last five years and 69 in the five years prior to 1925.

From all budget sources, public health expenditures for Salem in 1930 totaled $26,559.75, including disposal of garbage and all phases of public health protection. Of this total, $7,687 was Genevieve Tobin and Conrad Nagel present that part of the public which attends Warner Bros. Elsinore today and tomorrow, which is a direct descendant of the caves and the men who began to emerge from their women into proper homage.

The story is that of a woman who married and later found a family of two children, plenty of money and an ordinary husband rather too prosaic, and a great desire sprang up within her for a career of her own to supplement her married life.

Conrad Nagel, as the husband allowed things to go rather far but when Genevieve Tobin as the wife began playing too freely with other men than his manly pride arose and things began to happen. The only thing that brought the wife back to the erefing protection of her husband was an act that may raise the ire of many a woman who flatters herself that she is able to do a bit of thinking for herself.

The story itself has the charm of a beautiful speaking voice of Miss Tobin and her quietly artistic acting as well as the humor of imitable Zasu Pitts and Slim Summerville. Zasu remarks enough times to create a laugh riot in her final shot that she always does the wrong thing but she always gets a thrill out of doing it. There is much humor all the way through the play and if the continuity was even a little bit better and the prearrangements were not quite so obvious the show would be among the better ones. As it is it gives one something to think about. Somebody is wrong in this independent woman proposition.

The Philadelphia Nationals will have the roughest club in the majors the next season.

was accepted at capitol hill as full warning of a veto.

But administration leaders were still hunting tonight for the necessary one third votes to sustain the veto and they admitted this number was not in sight in the senate.

Senator Matson, of Indiana, the republican leader, joined five other republicans on the finance committee in supporting the house bill after a substitute and all amendments had been rejected.

Under Secretary Mills of the treasury followed Mr. Hoover's letter to the finance committee and told the senators that the legislation would force the treasury to float a bond issue. He protested that "common business sense would tell anyone that this is no time for the government to be entering the bond market."

The administration representatives appealed for a compromise which would restrict the loans to those veterans actually in distress but the finance committee rejected this proposal. Veteran Administrator Hines estimated the cost of the bill to the government at approximately $1,000,000,000.

The committee, however, bolstered by a roar from the senate and a 383 to 59 majority in the house, stood squarely behind the loan bill which had been designated as a compromise on measures for full cash payment of the certificates.

GARDENERS HEAR EASTERN EXPERT

An audience which almost filled to capacity the rooms of the women's clubhouse Wednesday night listened in delighted attention to the remarks of Miss Elisabeth Pattee, architect and landscape architect of Boston, Massachusetts, who spoke in regard to gardens and their relation to the houses which they supplement.

Unusually attractive slides were shown to illustrate the remarks of the visiting lecturer. Gardens from England, Spain, France, Italy, India, and the United States paraded across the screen and together with Miss Pattee's remarks developed in the minds of the audience certain salient facts concerning garden technique and history.

A picture of a garden created by command of Henry VIII appeared as modern as his custom of divorce. Medieval and Renaissance gardens shown, developed the realization of how stable is the use of squares, circles and rectangles and the necessity of a focal point for every border.

The extensive use of rock gardens is a more modern note and according to Miss Pattee is also one of the most dangerous gardens to attempt because it is informal and informal planting is difficult to achieve due to its lack of definite plan.

The use of sculpturing as accent to the garden plan was stressed by Miss Pattee, as was the need for cooperation between the architect and the landscape architect when new homes are to be built.

Miss Pattee will leave today for California en route to her home in Boston.

Colic, gas, sour belching, frequent vomiting, favoritism, in babies and children, generally show food is souring in the little digestive tract.

When these symptoms appear, give Baby a teaspoonful of Phillips Milk of Magnesia. Add it to the first bottle of food in the morning. Older children should be given a tablespoonful in a glass of water. This will comfort the child—make his stomach and bowels easy. In five minutes he is comfortable, happy. It will sweep the bowels free of all sour, indigestible food. It opens the bowels in constipation, colds, children's ailments. Children take it readily because it is palatable, pleasant-tasting.

Learn its many uses for mother and child. Write for the interesting book, "Useful Information." Address The Phillips Co., 170 Varick St., New York, N. Y. It will be sent FREE.

In buying, be sure to get genuine Phillips Milk of Magnesia. Doctors have prescribed it for over 50 years.
