Salem Folk Win Praise In University

One of the outstanding musical events of the year at the University of Oregon was the winter concert of the Polyphonic Choir, given last Thursday evening, and in which Salem students took prominent part. The choir, under the direction of Arthur Boardman, accompanied by the organ and piano gave a spirited and powerful program which drew praise from all over the campus and Eugene.
Nancy Thelsen, one of the most popular and talented students at the University, sang first soprano, Helen Ashington sang second soprano, Margaret Simms, first contralto, Marjorie Marcus, second contralto and Edward Fisher sang bass. Miss Thelsen is also one of the directors of the choir, which undertakes a type of singing very beautiful but very difficult, because eight parts are sung instead of the customary four.
The program was varied, including the Bach chorale, "Deck Thyself, My Soul"; "Schubert's 'Hymn to the Trinity'; "Beethoven's joyous 'Alleluia'; "Plantation Days", a choral cycle by N. Clifford Page; and Gounod's "Galla", which contains the magnificent song of praise, "Jerusalem."
A second distinction to be won by a Salem woman in the university was the ovation given Miss Thelsen for her work as "Viola" in Shakespeare's "Twelfth Night" presented by dramatic department of the university.

STAGE SCENERY IS MADE BY STUDENTS

If one should happen to go up the steps to the fourth floor of Waller hall on the Willamette university campus—any day and some nights, he would probably hear the sound of pounding hammers, gridding saws, and enthusiastic voices.

In answer to any inquiries, the visitor would probably be informed that members of the Theta Alpha Phi dramatic fraternity were in their workshop knocking together or apart various bits of scenery or stage properties.

The workshop occupies a room about 30 feet by 40 feet in size and is fitted with hammers, braces and bits, a saw, a wood chisel and an odd assortment of nails, carpet tacks, glue, and paint. A few boxes of tinzel and the like are on the shelves.

Four sections of stage scenery are under construction and it is hoped by members that at least 12 sections will be completed by the end of the year. Twelve sections will complete a new stage setting which will be in the form of a room which can be knocked down and changed at the desire of the directors.

A plan is under way for adoption of uniform traffic ordinances in all Texas towns of the Rio Grande valley.
