More Than 80 Works Needle art Displayed at Oak Grove

By LILLIE M. MAGEE An event of more than ordinary interest to the residents of Polk county was the quilt show held at the Oak Grove grange hall Thursday, sponsored by the Oak Grove Ladies' Aid society. the Rickreall Ladies' Aid society and the Orchard Height's Woman's club.

Strictly speaking it was an art exhibit as the quilts exhibited were hand pieced and all but one hand quilted and many had interesting history stories of the early pioneer days of Oregon attached to them.

When one thinks hand pieced quilts are a thing of the past they are much mistaken as there were not only work of 125 years 15.00 ago, but also hand pieced quilts just recently completed.

About 80 quilts were exhibited, vieing in color and shape of pattern with the flowers of a garden. There were also a number of other articles made in the early days displayed. Among the quilts exhibited were quilts ment president of the American Care of Mrs. Wessel Bryan . 23.75 made by the oldest members of Legion auxiliary, and Mrs. Jack this section of Polk county, including Mrs. Miriam Lewis. 86 years old, Mrs. E. B. Putnam, 72 years old, and Mrs. E. R. Heise, 78 years old.

Mrs. Allen, who came to Oregon 52 years ago from Illinois. had 10 quilts exhibited that she has pieced in the last 15 years. Mrs. Putnam had a quilt on dis-"Grandmother's Garden," which contained 3000 blocks and Mrs. Heise displayed a unique quilt called "The Colonial Rose. 9.00 The floral designs were applicayed on sateen.

Mrs. Thomas Brunk displayed three quilts that were made and quilted by her mother, "Grandma" Rhoda Byers of Independence after she was past 50 years old. One, "The rose in the wil-2.00 derness," received much favorable tracted much attention was one made by Beulah Drinkwater Riggs in 1836, when she was 17 years plains in 1853.

bringing about the organization. Before the organization of the auxiliary post was begun, the Legionnaires and their wives enjoyed the entertainment and business meeting held in the regular meeting room. During the business meeting Jack Eakin, district commander of the Legion, Mrs. Helder and Mrs. Eakin gave short talks. It was decided at Wednesday night's meeting that the Woodburn post sponsor an American Legion baseball team. Harry Baillie, Harold Aspinwall, Clyde Whitman, Clyde Hansen and E. T. Sims were appointed as the committee to see about the baseball club. E .T. Sims was also chosen by Post Commander Olsen to head comment. Another quilt that at- the committee for the sale of pop-
