

TURNER CLUB HAS UNIQUE PROGRAM

New Booster Song Introduced for First Time Recently

TURNER, March 11—The Turner community club met Monday evening with the high school auditorium crowded and with many standing.

Ball Bros. loaned a radio, for the Amos n' Andy program after which a new song "Turner Booster Song" was introduced; it was composed and set to music by Mrs. Mae Hadley, who is the Turner high school piano teacher. Mrs. Percy led the singing with Mrs. Hadley at the piano; the verses were written for the club and will be entered in the song books in use; some little time was spent in practicing, the verses which are:

I'm from Turner,
I don't care who knows,
I will hang my hat a Turner
When it rains or when it snows.
In Turner
Everybody finds a welcome rare
If you need a friend or sweetheart,
You are sure to find one there.

Chorus:
I'll boost for Turner,
You boost for Turner,
We'll boost for Turner
Till she's on the map.
Her school is growing,
Her folks worth knowing,
Royalty showing, give a Turner
Clap! Clap! Clap!

After all, all joined in singing "Smiles." Mrs. Hadley favored with a piano solo, also a second number was "Yankee Doodle," as it would sound on a pipe organ, second as it would be given by a fife and drum corps, and third as it would be given by a circus callope.

Miss Lillian Peterson gave a reading, "An Old Sweetheart of Mine."

Play Cast Introduced

The members of the play cast, of "Madam De Partment's School," came to the stage and were each introduced by Kenneth Hickok, Mada D. Partment, Mabel Tucker, Mabel Frolics, Maxwell McKay, Gertrude Smiles, Helen Peetz, Jenny Slow, Herbert Briggs, May Frisky, Mrs. R. J. Cox; Bridget, Gertrude Anderson.

As the curtain rose Madam De Partment who is an old fashioned teacher, conducting a young ladies boarding school, is at her desk with pupils at their studies. The usual issue of a difference in ideas of government with few privileges, is on and the traits of each is characteristic of their individual names. Finally the time came for a rebellion according to the decision of the two who usually bore the brunt of criticism, Mabel Frolics and Gertrude Smiles, who decided to impersonate their respective mothers and make a surprise visit on their so-called illustrious teacher. In the meantime Madam De Partment has found at intervals what seems to be love notes dropped inside of her window, which is a mystery, but not an unwelcome occurrence. In due time the three mothers, Mrs. Friskies calls to find the teacher in an undignified position, huddled on top of a school desk, having been warned by Jenny Slow, who is on top of the table that there is a mouse in the room. Mrs. Smiles arrives and the mothers ask many questions about the welfare of their daughters, not knowing they are serving time in their rooms as a punishment.

Bridget has a hard time between announcing bill collectors for whom the teacher has no time and doing outside errands for the girls.

Finally the students are called in for a council with the teacher, who begins to see it will be to her advantage to be more lenient. One girl blurts out that her mother might let her stay if the rules were less irksome, and finishing with "I just have to let off steam or bust," which is considered a shocking statement. Madam De Partment has decided to ask the mothers to take tea with them when Bridget bursts in ready for the street announcing that she is leaving to be married soon; the girls immediately form a circle and give her their best wishes as the curtain falls on the last act.

The play was well planned, and of course much amusement was caused by the two young men who were impersonating girls. Members of the cast each played their characters well. A popular lecture is promised for the April club meeting.

Castoria... for CHILDREN'S ailments

ARE you prepared to render first aid and quick comfort the moment your youngster has an upset of any sort? Could you do the right thing—immediately—though the emergency came without warning—perhaps tonight? Castoria is a mother's standby at such times. There is nothing like it in emergencies, and nothing better for everyday use. For a sudden attack of colic, or for the gentle relief of constipation; to allay a feverish spell, or to soothe a fretful baby that can't sleep. This pure vegetable preparation is always ready to ease an ailing youngster. It is just as harmless as the recipe on the wrapper reads. If you see Chas. H. Fletcher's signature, it is genuine.

Castoria. It is harmless to the smallest infant; doctors will tell you so.

You can tell from the formula on the wrapper how mild it is, and how good for little systems. But continue with Castoria until a child is grown.
