

GOVERNOR CUTS FUNDS $500,000

That Amount Deducted From Higher Schools Budget In Veto Message

of Oregon State college and the University of Oregon did not indicate last night that any legal action was contemplated to bring the validity of Governor Meier's action into court for decision. It was pointed out that the measure could be tested by a mandamus suit brought to compel the secretary of state to issue warrants in the full amount appropriated by the legislature with the courts being asked to decide upon the constitutionality of the governor's veto.

In cutting the appropriation for the five institutions of higher education, Governor Meier cited the history of the millage taxes voted in the state and said each one had been accompanied by a pledge from the universities that no further sums would be asked from the legislature. These pledges were not kept, said the governor, nor had promised savings resulting from a joint board of higher education been effected.

Incesses Asked Each Biennium
The veto message continued: "On the contrary, our higher institutions of learning have come to each succeeding session of the legislature and requested additional appropriations, and although the state board of higher education has now been in operation for several years, it requested from the recent legislature the same appropriation that was granted during the last biennium.

"This appropriation, as already indicated, totals $1,181,173.00 and is squarely in the face of the rules of the lower house of the legislature and the spirit of our constitution in that it is made in a lump amount instead of being itemized.

"With the hope that in view of the tax situation confronting the state—a situation so acute that people are unable to pay their taxes—and in view of the unemployment situation confronting the state—a situation so grave that bond issues are being proposed to relieve it, the board would be agreeable to a substantial reduction. I suggested, at a conference with the state board of higher education on Tuesday last, that it accept a cut of $500,000.00, pointing out to the board that this cut would represent only five per cent of the total amount of the salaries enjoyed by the board, as heretofore indicated the total sum of $1,181,173.00.

"After taking the suggestion under advisement, the state board of higher education has seen fit to reject it, and consequently I find myself compelled, in the interests of the people to veto $500,000.00 of the $1,181,173.00 provided for in the bill hereto attached."

Seventy Attend Loyalty Class Special Dinner

Seventy persons attended the covered dish supper and program held at the church Tuesday evening by the Loyalty class of the Calvary Baptist church. The principal feature of the program was the three-act play, "The King and His Family," presented by the following: Ed Schunke, Mr. and Mrs. William Foster, Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Pickens, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Bingenheimer and Mrs. Will Pickens. Games and a reading by Mrs. Foster also contributed to the program. D. R. Peterson is teacher of the class, having held that position for the past seven years. Mr. Schunke is president and Mrs. Mack Sachler is secretary.

MISS LINA HEIST CRITICALLY ILL

Condition of Miss Lina Heist, Salem high school teacher, was reported critical yesterday, and when no change for the better was noted during the day, hope for her recovery was practically gone. Miss Heist is suffering from bronchial pneumonia, and Tuesday night her condition was so grave she was kept alive by administration of oxygen, rushed from Portland. She conducted her German classes at the high school through last Wednesday, when she had to remain at home with what was reported to be a severe case of influenza.

Miss Heist is one of the oldest teachers in point of service in the Salem system, and also one of the most popular with the students. She was graduated from Willamette university in 1913, receiving her B.A. degree in German, which she taught in the high school here until the world war, when she was switched to history. German classes were reinstated in the school last fall, with her as instructor.

She started service in the schools here in the fall of 1915, serving continuously with exception of a part of a year's leave of absence for a trip to Europe. She resides here with her sister, Mrs. W. W. Emmons. A twin sister, Lulu, who teaches in Portland, is here with her. Another sister, Laura, is a missionary in India.

WRIGHT TELLS NEW IDEAS IN BUILDING

Mr. Wright pleaded for naturalness in construction. Said he, "make the building look as though it grew there, make it appear a good place to live; get away from 'walling' out the outside, rather make the walls screen arranged about interior space and to do this use glass through which sunshine may pour; get away from the 'box with holes in it' idea of a house."

Mr. Wright explained the reason "fall down" during the earth quake. It was built upon a mud foundation and so constructed that it had plasticity and moved with the shaking earth. The Japanese people would not leave the shelter of the building whose god had so protected it, and, smiled Mr. Wright, "it was the god of common sense which protected that building."

"The principle of modern architecture is devastating and destructive in its construction," said Mr. Wright, "and it is little wonder that the present established order is afraid of it. This principle will have to be accepted slowly, a few here and there until it spreads in the course of 10, 15, or more years and it will come from the top down," he concluded.

"Woman Hungry" now at the Capitol theatre has the appeal of human relations and human emotions produced in such manner as is unusual. A civilized man buys his wife, a very lovely girl, who finds herself the pawn among three apparently uncouth men. Love comes to the two on slow wing and with the intervention of many experiences, all of which are more or less preposterous.

The lovely girl is Lila Lee, the man who buys her is Sidney Blackmer. There is apparently much of possibility in these two but little is done with their ability.

The photography is interesting and attractive, all of it being done in technicolor.

HIGHER EDUCATION BOARD HAS REPLY

this matter and to state that the board is in entire accord with your policy to save a substantial amount of the appropriations by administering the institutions with the most rigid economy consistent with sound business judgment.

"You object that the amount appropriated . . . is in a lump sum. The board's request that the amount should not be segregated was made with the express purpose of effecting economies as outlined above and is in strict accord with the act creating the board."

"There are three ways in which economies may be effected. One, by more efficient management of the educational plant, secondly, by avoiding unnecessary duplication . . . and thirdly, by the elimination of some of the existing educational work of the institutions. All of these matters have been carefully considered by the survey provided by the legislature two years ago. This survey, carried on by nationally known authorities under the direction of Dr. Arthur J. Klein, of the United States office of education at Washington, D. C., has not been received and may not be received for a few weeks. . . ."

W. U. DEBATERS WIN ON PROHIBITION QUESTION

Amendment has caused the circulation of poisonous liquor. Prohibition infringes on the personal rights of the individual. It is immoral to be drunk but not to drink. Public opinion is not for prohibition and without this factor, prohibition cannot be enforced. Prohibition came into being through a "war trap" since it was voted on at a time when the people were interested primarily in war and cared little for prohibition.

Assent no Better Plan Available
The negative side of the case, upheld by Willamette students, maintained that it was up to the affirmative to carry the burden of the proof by supplying a better plan. "The purpose of law," said Harland, "is to protect the rights of society." His and Campbell's points were that prohibition solves the problem of the saloon and that any other solution is inadequate.

Under the first point, Harland referred to the increase of production and efficiency in industry, the raised standard of living as a result of prohibition, and the improvement of social welfare.

Campbell maintained that moderation never moderates. Only three plans must cope with the liquor problems: saloons, prohibition, modification. In preference to modification there are

WOMEN SHOULD LEARN USES OF MAGNESIA

To women who suffer from nausea, or so-called "morning sickness," this simple measure is proving a blessing. Most nurses know it and it is advised by leading specialists.

Prepares a small quantity of finely cracked ice—about a wineglassful. Pour over it a teaspoonful of Phillips Milk of Magnesia. Sip slowly until the mixture is gone or you are entirely relieved. It is seldom necessary to repeat the dose to end sick stomach or any inclination to vomit.

Its anti-acid properties enable Phillips Milk of Magnesia to give immediate relief in heartburn, sour stomach, gas. Its mild, but effective laxative action assures regular bowel movement. Used as a mouthwash it helps prevent acid erosion and tooth decay during expectancy.

With every bottle of Phillips Milk of Magnesia, come full directions for its many uses. All drug stores have the 25c and 50c sizes. Demand the genuine, endorsed by doctors for over 50 years.

"Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of the Chas. H. Phillips Chemical Co. and its predecessor, Chas. H. Phillips, since 1875. Adv.
