GIRL SCOUTS GET LEADERS COUNCIL

Captains, Lieutenants to Meet for Discussion Of Problems

Organization of a leaders' council for Girl Scout captains and lieutenants of Salem and vicinity was formed yesterday, with Mrs. E. A. Collier of Salem named chairman and Miss Jasmine Lundquist of Chamawa, secretary.

The group will meet the last Wednesday evening of the month at 8 o'clock at the Y. W. C. A. club rooms.

This is the first move to form a leaders' organization since Girl Scout work was revived in the county; however, six captains were present at the meeting held yesterday at the home of Mrs. H. R. White. Scout troops are now functioning in Kelsier, Chamawa and Englewood and Leslie junior high school here.

Plan to Discuss Common Problems

The purpose of the leaders' organization is to bring together the leaders that they may discuss common problems, and also to provide a better contact between leaders and the joint sponsoring committee from the American Legion auxiliary and the Business and Professional Women's club. The chairman of the leaders' group will meet with the joint committee, and in turn a member of the sponsoring committee will meet with the leaders.

Leaders also discussed plans for summer camp yesterday, and decided to hold one period at Camp Santaly this year.

Present at the meeting yesterday, besides Mrs. R. W. Clarke and Mrs. H. R. White of the sponsoring body, were: Miss Lundquist and Mrs. Florence Middleton, captains of Chamawa troops; Mrs. E. A. Collier, captain of the Englewood group; Mrs. King S. Bartlett, Mrs. Carl E. Hultenberg and Genevieve Moran, all of the two Leslie troops; and Mrs. A. Minton of Kelsier. A new troop is just being formed at Leslie.

Even Tom Kay, state treasurer, gave signs of nervousness at the lengthy discourses on the agricultural conditions over Oregon, the nation and other countries, and the personal successes of some of the speakers. He left his place at the dinner, moved to the rear of the room, and stirred to other positions frequently. The most interesting speaker to be heard was Miss Beatrice Walton, private secretary to the governor.

The first court martial in Oregon in 20 years has been ordered by the National Guard headquarters. The fact that there has been but one such move in 20 years speaks high for the department. The last court martial had to do with orders at camp in which a mutiny virtually resulted. This was in 1911. General George A. White is adjutant general of the National Guard.

Charles Gram, state labor commissioner, has been conducting a real "labor" department the last few days. His staff is busy reorganizing the headquarters, making room for the departments of industrial welfare and board of inspectors of child labor. Even "Charlie" had his coat off and

Mr. Wilson is one of the featured speakers at the fifth annual meeting of the northwest council of Young Men's Christian associations of Oregon, Washington and Idaho.

Arrangements for Mr. Wilson's appearance on the local campus have been made by four Williams university men: Hayes Beahm, president for 1929-31; E. Wesley Warren, 1931-32; Harry Stone Jr., and Roderick Chang. They are in attendance at the students' meetings in Seattle.

To date, there have been three scheduled meetings for Mr. Wilson in Salem. He will address the university students at chapel, Thursday noon, he will meet the members of the university Y. M. C. A. at an after dinner hour, and address the public at 7:30 o'clock.

Mr. Wilson was closely associated with Ramsay MacDonald and other leaders of the British labor party at the time of its organization. He is a former mayor of Berkeley, Cal., and has spent many years in the labor movement and in the field of education in the United States.

WEDDING DAY NEAR

A marriage of international interest will be that of Countess Alice Szecseny, daughter of the Hungarian Minister to the United States, to Count Bela Hadik of Hungary who are pictured here at Alton, S. Under the Occurrences and Geosip at the center of Oregon's Dome . . .

THE reaction of Governor Julius L. Meier to the agricultural banquet Friday night could not be learned, as he left early Saturday for Portland. He is thought to be resting after listening four hours to farm talk and discussion of the need for farm relief.

Suggestion to after dinner speakers may well be taken from the hints dropped by the chief executive at the banquet. He said he may become known as the "Non-Talking Governor." At least he cuts his dinner speeches very short and has refused to accept invitations to talk before numerous groups. This is a commendable move and its following by others is strongly urged.

Even Tom Kay, state treasurer, gave signs of nervousness at the lengthy discourses on the agricultural conditions over Oregon, the nation and other countries, and the personal successes of some of the speakers. He left his place at the dinner, moved to the rear of the room, and stirred to other positions frequently. GAS SELLERS CHOP PRICE VOLUNTARILY

Gas prices in Salem had a three-cent range last night, and if the distributing plants fall in line it looks like more prices are to be killed in another bombardment in the gas warfare. One downtown station was pouring the go-mixture out at 15 1/2 cents a full gallon, while others sold at 16 1/2 and still others at 18 1/2 cents.

No one seemed to be able to vouchsafe a reason for the reduction in prices, with the best one offered being that it was a move to give Salem motorists just as good a deal as the Portland dealers offer.

A number of motorists from Salem are driving to Portland with only enough gas in the tank to get there in order that they might come home on cheap gas, it was said. Portland prices have been pretty consistently two to four cents lower than those for which gas is pumped here.
