

WATER RECEDING AT LAKE LABISH

LABISH Center, April 8.—The high water of the past week which flooded the entire beaver dam section deeper than in several years has slowly receded. Large amounts of drift in the Pudding river from Parkersville to Woodburn has slowed down the flow of water. Since the lake bed has sunk several feet through tillage and the river's flow is obstructed, the flood waters have gone down slowly. The road grade near the Hayes apartment house was washed out sometime Sunday evening, and a temporary bridge was constructed Monday.

West Salem News

All city officers except Elmer Stewart were present Monday evening at the monthly meeting of the city council. The committee on sanitation and health reported that the city dump had been cleaned and all unsightly rubbish buried and that a stand pipe had been installed on Skinner street which will aid in flushing the pond caused by recent heavy rains in that part of town. Street Commissioner C. S. Ruge reported that streets have been graded and the main streets graveled. A suggestion was offered that the vigilance of road workers be not relaxed. This matter was referred to the street committee. The matter of having a clean up day for the city was discussed and the 23rd and 24th days of April were selected for this purpose. A motion carried that the garbage men be allowed until further notice to gather the city refuse without a license. The collector of water bills reported that $330.85 has been taken in for the month of February. The finance committee reported a recent trip to Mt. Angel where they inspected the new city hall and stated that they thought such a building would just meet the needs of West Salem and that the approximate cost would be $7500. A motion prevailed that the purchasing committee look into the matter of purchasing a safe or a filing cabinet for the use of the city.
