FISHING appears to be the favorite topic around the capitol these days, particularly with the combination of fine weather and approach of the season opening, April 15. H. B. Van Duzer, Portland, chairman of the state highway commission, was querying M. A. Lynch of Redmond concerning fishing conditions in the Deschutes, or how they will be about May 1. "Everything's fine," said Lynch.

Lynch has been reappointed to the state highway commission, and immediately was called here for a conference with the governor, along with Van Duzer and Charles K. Spaulding, the other members. The next session of the commission for awarding of contracts will be held in Portland April 30, it was announced.

The board of control met Thursday with two members in attendance, Governor Meier and Treasurer Kay. Secretary of State Hal Hoss failed to return from Tillamook, where Wednesday he addressed a women's club. The fine weather was declared by friends here to be the cause of his delay. He phoned he would be in his office today.

The board today will decide upon the location of the new state hospital building which will be constructed at once in Salem. The tentative location is declared to be ideal, with a hill and trees for a background, but objection was raised to the fact it would be virtually hidden from view behind the other buildings.

The state parole board held its session at the state penitentiary, which accounted for the absence of Miss Beatrice Walton, secretary to the governor, from the executive offices Thursday. She is a member of the board, which considers parole recommendations.

The state board of forestry meets here next Thursday, at which time the summer and fall work, and fire conditions and protection will be discussed.

Representative Frank E. Andrews of Portland was state capitol visitor Thursday, and among other things called upon his former colleague, James W. Mott, who now holds the position of state corporation commissioner. Mark B. McCallister, former commissioner, was also a visitor from his new headquarters in Portland, where he states his oil reclaiming machinery business is doing very well.

CLAIMS FALSEHOOD IN DIVORCE ACTION

Rehearing on Custody of 2 Children is Sought by Mrs. C. P. Schmalz

Charging that N. P. Schmalz made false statements to her in order to secure a divorce, Caroline P. Schmalz, defendant in the divorce action, yesterday petitioned the circuit court to modify the original decree, handed down January 17.

The decree gave custody of two minor children to Schmalz, and it is over their custody that effort for modification is made. The defendant alleges that Schmalz came to her last January 20 and promised to let her have custody of the two children even if the court awarded their care to him. In exchange, she asked that she withdraw her cross complaint to the suit, averring that neither would obtain a divorce if she did not do so.

Upon his promise with reference to the children, she withdrew the cross allegations. Early in March he took the children away from her and placed them in the hands of his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Reuben DeJardin, who, the mother claims, are not suitable persons to care for the children. The DeJardins refused to let the mother visit them when she attempted to do so March 17, the motion says further.

Defendant asks that there be a hearing on the matter, that she be given care and custody of the two children and that she receive $50 a month support money.
