

MONARCH OFFICE HERE PROPOSED

Ten Year Conservation Plan To Cost Five Millions Adopted by Board

voters in 1927, the expressed purpose being to provide funds to hereafter joint meetings of the state game and fish commissions will be held each month for the purpose of discussing mutual problems. This plan was suggested by John C. Vetch, of Portland, chairman of the state fish commission. It also was proposed to invite representatives of all sportsmen's organizations in Oregon to attend certain meetings of the game commission.

Attorney General Van Winkle was requested to prepare an opinion giving an interpretation of the powers and authority of the game commission under the new state game code approved at the 1931 legislative session. This opinion will deal, particularly with the connection between the game code and the new state police department which becomes effective August 1.

Earl Fry of Seaside, representing the game research department of a large powder manufacturing company, appeared before the commission and stressed the importance of water fowl.

Presentment was made by Fred Ured by Kowitz.

Chris Kowitz, secretary of the Marion county Game Protective association, urged the commission to extend its program in connection with providing holding pens for Chinese pheasants.

The commission adjourned to meet in Portland today. Although no mention was made of this meeting with relation to the selection of a new state game warden, reports were current that Senator Edward Miller of Grants Pass was being considered for this office. Mr. MacLennan has been acting as state game warden since the removal of Harold Clifford more than a year ago.

Among other persons who will be affected by the resignations, are Arthur Fish, chief of the law enforcement division of the commission, and seven deputy game wardens.

In asking for the resignations, members of the commission indicated that they would be in a position to bring about a complete reorganization of the working personnel, reduce the expenses, and increase the efficiency.

New members of the commission are Marshall Dana, Portland, Irving Vining, Ashland; Carl Silven, Baker; Matt Corrigan, McMinnville, and Dr. J. C. Vandervort, Bend.

Aside from officials of the game department residing here, Ben Claggett of Salem is the only Marion county resident effected by the wholesale housecleaning. Claggett was appointed a deputy game warden four years ago and has served for the Marion-Polk county area. He had the recommendation of various sports organizations when appointed.

Stewart Better After Injury in Baseball Game

TURNER, April 13—The baseball season opened for the high schools, Turner and Astoria, by playing their first game Friday afternoon at Turner on the Gray Digger diamond southwest of Turner.

Health Officer Warns Against Measles Flurry

With a flurry of measles evident in several parts of the county, extra precautions should be taken with colds, Dr. V. A. Douglas, county health officer, warns. Measles usually start with symptoms resembling a cold, there being coughing, watery eyes and running nose.

This continues for four or five days before there is any breaking out. Because of similarity to colds in the early stages, it is advisable that parents keep from school children with colds.

FIRE FINANCES NEED REVISION

Trindle Will Rule Funds in Two-Mill Levy Usable For Equipment Only

buy needed equipment for the general station and to provide funds to erect three subsidiary stations and to equip them. The fire committee in the council has gone farther and has provided from year to year that sufficient moneys be diverted from the two-mill fund to maintain and operate the new stations as they were opened. Moneys received under the regular city budget apart from the special two mill tax, have gone to operate the main station.

Back of the fire department financial status is some apparent bad-feeling in the city council over the way the affairs of the department are handled. One faction in the council thinks too much money has been spent on the department and has asked for the legal opinion, soon to be given, as a means of checking out. The fire department committee claims that operation of the three subsidiary stations is imperative and justifies the expenditure from the two-mill special fund on the grounds of necessity.

Following the meeting of the First M. E. church Men's Brotherhood at the church this evening, an important session of the official board will be held on call of Walter Winslow, chairman. It is urged that every member of the board be present at this session.

Judge George Rossman of the supreme court will be the principal speaker at the Brotherhood conference, beginning at 6:30 o'clock. There will be special music. This will be the last meeting for the year. H. F. Shank is president of the Brotherhood.

The meeting of the official board is scheduled to start promptly at 8 o'clock.

RULING MADE UPON TEXTBOOK MEASURE

Free textbooks, limited to the expenditure of $1.50 per capita, may be provided pupils of grade schools next fall, provided the budgets for such expenditures are voted upon for the present school year, according to an opinion handed down by Attorney General VanWinkle Monday.

Districts voting budgets in June for the coming year probably will carry items for textbooks. Those voting in October for the next year, the opinion rendered, cannot include the item.

The state superintendent of schools has suggested that any district desiring to make use of free textbooks next fall, make provision for holding its budget election before the fall term starts.

HORSE MAY BITE ONE MAN, RULED

LOS ANGELES, April 13—(AP)—The municipal court here today ruled that a horse is entitled to one bite of human flesh, having equal rights with a dog.

Judge Lucius E. Green so held in denying Harry Goldstein, junk collector, a claim for $725 damages from the stable owning the horse Goldstein rented the animal August 6, he said, and as he attempted to take the bride, the horse bit his hand injuring it so he could not work for a month.

Defense attorneys held no proof was established that the horse was vicious and since courts previously held a dog was not vicious in the eyes of the law until he had bitten more than one man, urged the horse should have like consideration.

The judge agreed.

MARRIAGE TEMPLE HEAD KNOWN HERE

Mrs. E. A. Kenney of 1580 Center street has received a copy of the Los Angeles Times Sunday magazine section of several weeks ago, in which she finds an article telling about an innovation in marriage temples created by her sister, Mrs. Kathryn Baird Sullivan, prominent among the organists and music directors in the west.

The temple, known as the "Hollywood Wedding Chapel" was dedicated about the middle of March and is the first thing of its kind constructed in the country. It is located in Hollywood, where Mrs. Sullivan has been for the past three years, and is a chapel in connection with Mrs. Sullivan's own home which was specially constructed and is not unlike to service of launching brides and grooms happily on their marital ways.

Mrs. Sullivan, the article says, got the idea from her long years of service as organist and choir mistress, and her requests to play for so many weddings. So she became a "wedding consultant," and so in addition to providing a charming place for the wedding and music, she also takes care of many other phases of the preparation. Six marriages were performed in the chapel the day it was opened.

ASHLAND BANK ROBBER SLAIN

Drug Store Clerk's Shot is Fatal to J. R. Albright, Former Farmhand

and robber was in hiding under an old culvert building across a creek in a canyon at the edge of the city. The robber disappeared into the canyon following the gun battle in which his companion was slain and the old building was quickly surrounded. He was not found there, however.

One hundred dollars in silver stolen from the bank was scattered about the street but $250 in bills was not recovered and police believed it was in possession of the fugitive.

Ran When Alarm Began to Sound

The two men entered the bank just at closing time today. They locked the front door behind them, ordered employes to stay where they were and scooped up all the money in sight. Then, as the bank's burglar alarm sounded, they dashed out through the back door.

In a nearby drugstore Hugh Bates, a clerk, seized a rifle when he heard the alarm and together with his employer, W. H. McNair, who was armed with a pistol, and Fred H. Johnson, an unarmed customer, ran out into the alley where they met the robbers.

Albright opened fire and Bates returned it, killing him instantly. Before he could fire again the second robber fled across vacant lots and plunged into the canyon.

A man who gave him name as Herbert Eaton, Portland, was removed from the northbound stage at Talent and held as a suspect in the robbery. The stage driver said Eaton had boarded the stage here shortly after the robbery.

Police said Eaton told them he had come from a Klamath Falls laundry today. Some of the money found on the dead robber was in a laundryman's bag. Several witnesses, police said, claimed they saw Eaton in the vicinity of the bank shortly before the robbery.

HIGHER EDUCATION MEETING ATTENDED

Three of the faculty of Willamette university are attending the conference on higher education for the Pacific northwest at Eugene Monday and Tuesday of this week.

They are President Carl G. Doney, Dean Frank M. Erickson and Dr. S. B. Laughlin of the economics and sociology department. The conference is held under the joint auspices of the United States bureau of education and the University of Oregon.

Visiting speakers are William John Cooper, U. S. commissioner of education; George W. Zook, University of Akron; Ben Wood, Columbia university, and Clifford Woody, University of Michigan.

At the opening meeting, Monday morning, President Doney presided over the subject, "Adjustments to Meet the Needs of Able Students."

The other meetings are as follows: Monday afternoon, "Personnel Work," President W. J. Kerr, Oregon State college, presiding; Tuesday morning, "Aptitude and Other Tests," President J. A. Churchill, Ashland State Normal college, presiding; Tuesday afternoon, "Improvement of College Teaching," State Superintendent C. A. Howard presiding, with Frank M. Erickson of Willamette leading the discussion.

A banquet was held Monday night at which President George W. Zook was the speaker. Tuesday night an illustrated lecture will be presented by Ben Wood of Columbia university, on the Pennsylvania study charts.

LESLIE GROUP TO ATTEND PLAY DAY

For the first time Salem schools will be represented at the annual high school play day, to be held on the Oregon State college campus April 25, when at least 75 girls from Leslie junior high school will attend. Leslie is the only Salem group planning to go.

The event is sponsored by the women's physical education department at the state college and in addition to a round of play events in which every girl finds something to her liking, competitive sports are enjoyed. The only competition between schools is the posture contest, in which every girl is entered. The school with the highest average of attendants with good posture wins the contest, which last year went to Woodburn high school.

The Leslie girls have already chartered school buses to take them to Corvallis for the day. They will be accompanied by Mrs. LaMoine R. Clark, the principal, and Miss Eleanor Tonsing, physical education instructor. Several mothers are also planning to attend, and some will drive the students over in their automobiles.

This is the fourth annual play day at the college.

FREEMAN TO RISK HIS TITLE TONIGHT

CLEVELAND, O., April 13—(AP)—Tommy Freeman, world's welterweight champion, will engage in his first defense of his title tomorrow night by meeting the sharp-shooting young negro, Young Jack Thompson of Oakland, Calif., from whom he won the crown here six months ago.

They will meet in a 15-pound battle to a decision at the welterweight limit of 147 pounds.

Because of an unpopular decision resulting from their first championship engagement, a new policy in rendering decisions will be introduced tomorrow night. Two judges to be named by the Cleveland boxing commission at the ringside, will cast their votes at the end of the contest, and unless they disagree, the referee will have no voting power. Heretofore, it has been the practice to use only a referee.

MANY DEAD IN TUNNEL BLAZE

Seven Known Victims, and 18 Firemen Missing, Along With Others

A score of doctors, every bit of respirator apparatus in the fire department, and hundreds of firemen labored around the shaft.

More than 25 firemen were overcome in the gassy inferno. They could work only a few minutes each, though equipped with gas masks.

Back in the incomplected bore, which is nearly two blocks in length, a group of laborers—part of the night shift on duty when the fire began—buddled for safety in an air chamber. Whether they were dead or alive was not known.

Oxygen tanks were used almost as fast as ambulances could bring them. Emergency calls went out to Chicago hospitals for additional ones, and for all available doctors.

A policeman hurrying to the scene was struck by an ambulance in a collision that occurred on May Day Street.

A block and a half away from the tunnel entrance, at the busy intersection of 22nd street, Blue Island and Ashland avenues, a crew of men set to work to dig through to the tunnel below. They hoped to let in air which would clear the bore of its fumes.

Attempts to vent it through blower pumps at the entrance failed.

The fire broke out in sawdust shavings piled around a bulkhead set in a few feet from the tunnel entrance. It was thought started by spontaneous combustion.

Chicago radio stations broadcast an appeal to the United States bureau of mines and to the Illinois mine rescue station at Springfield for their rescue squads.

A seventh man died a few moments after being brought to the surface. He was believed to be a fireman.
