

HAWLEY SILENT ON HIS CHANGE

Thinks G. O. P. Will Elect Speaker; Predicts Win for Hoover Again

discussing several matters of vital interest to his constituents; however, he made a few observations for Statesman readers while a garden hose worked away to prove that the grass really was green.

Predicts Hoover Will Be Re-elected

To "What do you think of Hoover's chances for reelection in 1932?" his reply was:

"I think Hoover will not only be nominated again but he will be elected. Yes, in the face of business conditions. Hoover is not responsible for them, and the entire country would have been in much worse shape had the president not handled affairs with great wisdom indeed."

"Business conditions over the country? Things—look better through the east; there has been a big pick-up. And with the east brightening up, the rest of the country is going to."

Congressman Hawley said he was confident that Roseburg will get the veteran's home. A delegation from the city met him in Portland yesterday as he was enroute from Washington.

Asked if he thought a tax increase was imminent, Mr. Hawley said the situation looks grave, and intimated that this is one of the things he wishes to discuss in his formal statement today.

Will Make Trips Over the State

He plans to spend a great deal of time this summer out among the people of the state, studying conditions and meeting with various groups. When he is not on such trips, he will be at the home here, where Mrs. Hawley will remain for the summer.

Canonization of the Willamette as far as Eugene, and at least some means of opening the river, will be one of the major problems to which he will give his attention.

And the river matter is a giant problem, he indicated.

On preliminary survey of engineers, decision was reached that improvement of the river will cost more than the commerce will justify.

"The problems for us is to prove that commerce will justify the cost," Mr. Hawley said, adding that he doesn't know the answer but hopes to before he is Washington-bound again.

BUTLER OUTLINES IDEAS FOR POLICE

$100 a month. They could be extensively trained and drilled, be added, provided with motorcycles or automobiles, each equipped with a radio receiving and sending set, and sent out to blanket a state without prohibitively increasing police costs.

Butler said he would add an extensive detective division and an especially motorized unit for chasing bandits. In addition each police headquarters would be provided with teletype apparatus capable of flashing news to other stations throughout the state.

To cap off the plan, the non-commissioned men would be required to enlist for a four-year term and remain unmarried. In order to free this force from political meddling, Butler concluded, the entire force should be under control of a police commissioner, appointed from non-political ranks for a ten year term.

The marine general said he had had such a system in mind ever since he served as director of public safety in Philadelphia in 1924 and 1925.

Butler emphasized today he had no intention of remaining in Oregon as head of the police force there but that he would go primarily as a consultant.

Roadmaster Frank Johnson rushed 12 trucks out to spread gravel over the fill. All other work had been completed Thursday night.

The trestle which is now open, over 1800 feet long, furnishes the missing link in the million dollar highway into the Labish district. The trestle crosses Pudding river and at the same time leaves a massive dam of beaver dam land available for tillage.

The roadmaster hoped to have the trestle completed last fall, but work had to be given up when the beaver dam land insisted on sinking in the long fills approaching the trestle.

name of "Gimlet Eye." For his work at Brest, France, during the world war, he earned the name of "Old Duckboard," and in Philadelphia it was "Butler, the Cop." He said he liked the name.

A steady, unremitting drive was made against speakeasies, disorderly places, gambling houses and the haunts of the criminal element. On taking command, he ordered the city to be cleaned up in 48 hours and when it was not done to his satisfaction police roads began to fall. He demanded greater cooperation from citizens and in many cases got it.

SALVATION ARMY VICTIM OF THEFT

ROSEBURG, Ore., April 24.—(AP)—A warrant was issued today for the arrest of Charles Nance, 29, who allegedly sold property belonging to the Salvation Army after he had been befriended by that organization.

Nance first appeared two months ago. He was fed, clothed and given a job on a farm. He returned again recently and when Envoys and Mrs. B. R. Stufflebeam, corps commander, were called away on business they left Nance in charge.

During their absence Nance conducted rummage sales with great success.

When the corps officers returned home yesterday they found their clothing, personal effects, wood and money gone.

Nance also was gone.

O. E. Palmateer's team made the greatest contribution to the membership, with the other captains and their men coming in the following order: Lyle Dunsford second, Dr. B. F. Pound third, Vie Mackenzie fourth, Douglas McKay fifth and Carl Gabrielson sixth.

The Legion hopes to better the contest mark and have 900 paid up members by its regular meeting Tuesday night.

DAIRYMEN OUT FOR OLEO LAW

lature for its fair treatment of the dairymen and farmers.

"The fight upon which we are about to enter is one that will necessitate courage," Mr. Miller said. "The report has gone out that it is the poor man who is fighting for oleomargarine. This is not true. It is the oleomargarine interests that are attempting to thwart the dairymen in hope of obtaining larger profits. This is a time for militancy if we are to protect our own interests. Our cause is righteous and we should win."

James O'Shea of Roberts, Montana, national secretary of the Farmers' Union, reviewed briefly the activities of the Montana legislature in imposing an oleomargarine tax.

O'Shea charged that more than five million pounds of oleomargarine was consumed in Oregon in 1930, with the result that approximately 30,000 cows were displaced.

"What you dairymen should do," continued O'Shea, "is to launch a counter referendum petition campaign increasing the oleomargarine tax to $1.50 a pound." Another suggestion was offered that oleomargarine be banned from the state altogether.

Importance of the dairy cow was stressed by J. D. Mickie, state dairy and food commissioner.

"The dairy cow is the mortgagee and bread basket of the country," said Mickie. "The dairymen are paying 16 per cent of the taxes, and they certainly are entitled to protection. If we are to win this fight we must have a militant and courageous organization increasing the success of the referendum is up to the farmers and we must make every effort to inform the voters."

G. H. Ward of Tillamook county reported petitions containing more than 10,000 signatures would be presented to the merchants of that district urging them to taboo the sale of oleomargarine. He said these petitions already had been completed.

"This should be an indignation instead of a protest meeting," declared H. R. Richards of Wasco county.

Butler Presided

On Slim Margia

"The big interests would take our bread and butter," continued Mr. Richards, "without giving us anything in return. It is now time in the fight against the 17 cents per pound to produce butterfat and they are selling this product on a two cent margin. We represent a billion dollar industry, and we should have protection. Unless we rise and protect our heritage our farms will be destroyed."

Walter Russell of Yamhill county referred particularly to the unsatisfactory agricultural conditions due to the existing business depression. Eben Ray of Polk county presided at the meeting preceding the election of the permanent chairman.

Friday's meeting was sponsored by the Farmers' Union, but was attended by members of many other organizations. Virtually all of these organizations, including the state grange, have joined in the fight against the proposed referendum.

The referendum attacking the oleomargarine tax was filed by Mrs. Alexander Thompson of Portland, on behalf of the Oregon Anti-Food Tax league.

The part of Mr. Beers will be played by Leon Norris.

The deal is now the property of Mrs. C. N. Evans, daughter of Oliver Beers, and granddaughter of Alanson Beers, whose home is at 165 North 25th street, Salem, and whose mother, the widow of Oliver Beers, lives with her. The land is connected with a family that homes large in early Oregon history.

Also, when Wesley Janks, another student, represents Rev. David Leslie in the same scene and in others, he will have the use of the sermon case that were used by the original David Leslie. Perhaps other articles belonged to the Leslie family, including a quadrant, will appear in this scene. These articles are now in the possession of Lewis Robert, son of David Leslie.

The second Mrs. David Leslie was a Judson. The Judsons were famous in mission circles. Ernest Denning, a Willamette junior, plays the part of Mr. Judson who appears in the scene with Leslie.

Darlow E. Johnson, head of the committee on properties, is looking for additional ancient relics, for use in the presentation of the pageant. Also, one of the students is searching for articles of wearing apparel worn by the missionaries and pioneers. Any one interested and able to help may communicate with Willamette university. The telephone number to call is 6734.

Paul Williams Company Loses Oregon License

James Mott, state corporation commissioner, Friday revoked the license of the Paul E. Williams company to operate in Oregon. Evidence placed before Mott indicated that the company had failed to obtain securities purchased by its customers.

Records show that the entire investments of the company in Oregon total between $60,000 and $80,000. Oregon investors in the company are fairly well protected, Mott said.

A close race between Charles Campbell and Roy Harland for the presidency featured the election of officers of the Associated student body of Willamette university for the next year. Because of the lack of a majority for either candidate, another election will be held early next week for the president. The successful candidate for president will take the place of Warren McMillin who fills the office this year. Mr. McMillin is a graduate student of the university Liberal Arts college and law school.

Miss Helen Stiles will be first vice president of the student body next year, according to the results of the election. This year, Miss Stiles has worked as manager of the homecoming play and is now manager of the junior play "A Scrap of Paper" which will be presented May 2. She is a non-president of the 1931 Willamette chapter of the Alpha Phi Alpha sorority.

Farm Board to Continue Work Stone Asserts

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 24.—(AP)—James C. Stone, chairman of the federal farm board, told the American Cotton Manufacturers association here today the board intends to continue attempting to improve agricultural conditions in accordance with provisions of the agricultural marketing act.

"The idea seems to prevail in the minds of some men handling farm products that the farm board is out to destroy their business," he said. "We are not trying to destroy or injure anybody's business, but we are trying to help improve conditions in agriculture in accordance with provisions of the agricultural marketing act and we are going to continue doing just that."

Missionary is Suffering Rare Dread Disease

CLEVELAND, Ore., April 24.—Suffering from distomatiasis, a dreaded and rare disease of the Orient, the Rev. Ralph Thurber lay in city hospital here tonight, uncertain of his fate, but anticipating death within a month.

Officials of the hospital said the diagnosis of Mr. Thurber's ailment was definite but they and consulting physicians were puzzled by the case.

Mr. Thurber said he undoubtedly contracted the disease while he was recently a missionary in Korea, but it was caused by eating fish containing parasites which attack the human liver or lungs and that generally distomatiasis is fatal.
