Cuba, Spain and Germany Experience Trouble With Agitators

Union square were gathering places not only for communists and radicals but also for patriotic organizations and at Boston children.

Several arrests were made in Cleveland as a result of minor disturbances in public square where a demonstration of the start of the "hunger march" of 75 delegates of Cleveland's unemployed workers to the state capital.

In Boston Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr. assailed communists while a few hundred yards away communists gathered from all over the state to hear their own orators condemn the "bourgeois."

Detroit's demonstration was orderly. Police in other cities found little occasion for action. At Washington no particular precautions were taken, and the day was without incident.

Minor communist disorders occurred in most of the larger cities of Canada. Attempts to hold meetings and parades were frustrated in Montreal, Que., and Port Arthur, Ont., the police freely swinging their batons in dispersing the demonstrators. At Toronto one constable suffered injuries that caused his removal to a hospital, another was slightly injured and three demonstrators were arrested.

PAPER MILL CUTS PAY 10 PER CENT

A ten per cent reduction in wages all down the line went into effect May 1 at the plant of the Oregon Pulp and Paper company. All employees were affected by the reduction which is the second within a year. A similar cut was made last July.

Falling prices for the mill products necessitated the wage reductions. The mill is running full time, giving steady employment to all workers, and the regularity of the work is considered as something of an offset to the reduction in per hour rates of pay.

Paper mills over the country have been battling against overproduction. Many of the newspaper mills have had to shut down or run on curtailed time. The mills at Oregon City have suffered in this respect due to lack of orders for newspaper. The Salem mill, manufacturing bond papers, nansias, ledgers, etc., has kept its order file well filled and its plant operating at capacity where some mills have had to shut down. At the present time goods are moving out freely, though at prices which show scant profit margin.

Don't miss a good laugh in "Laugh and Get Rich," with Edna May Oliver playing the lead, and supporting her Dorothy Lee and Hugh Herbert. It is playing for the last time today at the Capitol.

You will remember Mrs. Tracy Wilder in the play "Cimarron," the good lady with the officious manner whose stock session was "Oh, my land yes!" with much ranting the scalp it her voice? She was Miss Oliver, she is just as funny in "Laugh and Get Rich." The audience certainly appreciated her Friday afternoon.

There is nothing spectacular about the show but it has several episodes in it which will make you remember it. One is the dancing of the "Virginia reel" with Miss Oliver, a bit intoxicated, leading it.

Rebels Continue To Hold Position

In preoccupation over their own troubles, the public has almost forgotten the revolt against the government in the Madeira Islands. The rebels were believed to be still occupying Funchal against the advancing forces of the naval expedition.

Reports of government origin said that the loyal troops were consolidating their positions over a 30 square mile area preparatory to marching on Funchal. Their area of operations extends from Alentejo, 20 miles northwest of the city, to Pancel, 13 miles northeast.

LINDBERGH FINALLY FINDS QUIET PLACE

Noted Family ten Miles off Beaten Track in Back Hills, New Jersey

PRINCETON, N. J., May 1. — (AP) — Far from crowded streets, photographers' flashlights and curious admirers, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh has found at last a quiet retreat, an ancient white farm house, snug in the back country hills of New Jersey.

For six months or more the Trans-Atlantic solo flyer with his wife, the former Anne Morrow and their infant son, has lived there in happy seclusion, off the highway and ten miles from the nearest town.

Green-shuttered and colonial, the two-story home was leased last November from Harold M. Van Horn, Trenton manufacturer. It was revealed today by persons in Princeton who knew of the deal.

It will be the Lindbergh abode until completion of their new house in the Sourland Hills, five miles from Hopewell, it was reported.

A sign "private road" and a tin mail box unidentified by any name stands at the entrance of the house. No wall or thick-set hedge, but a plain white picket fence surrounds the residence.

An unkempt stable field nearby is marked for airplane landings. A 100-year-old kitchen from an old farmhouse has been remodeled for use as the Lindbergh living room, and an antiquated kettle on a crane hangs in the original fireplace.

The new house at Sourland Hills is on an estate of some 360 acres, purchased last November. The house, it is estimated, will cost about $50,000. Of field stone from the New Jersey hills, it will set back more than a mile from the public road on the second highest peak in New Jersey and, it is reported, the hardest to get at. The site, it is believed, was selected for construction of an airplane landing field.

GOVERNMENT SLOW ON WAGE INCREASE

WASHINGTON, May 1. — (AP) — The federal government is going to increase wages of its employees only when required to do so by law.

Following a decision by Secretary Wilbur and Attorney General Mitchell to freeze wage increases to workers in the interior and justice departments, an announcement was made at the White House today that such a policy would be adopted generally in the next fiscal year.

Certain classes of employees receive automatic increases through the civil service law and amendments to departmental appropriation bills.

The announcement said the government has no intention of reducing any one's wages and will not lay off workers although, in some departments, work has slackened.

was president of the state association of county judges. He was also president of the Mt. Hood loop highway association.

His lodge affiliations are Mason, W. O. W., Royal Arcanum.

In business Holman has been one of the proprietors of the Deane & Holman, book binders; president of the Portland Box company; and interested in the Portland Ice and Storage company. He has a farm in Clackamas county near Molalla where he passes considerable time.

In 1924 and in 1928 he was unsuccessful candidate for mayor of Portland. In his last campaign he ran on a platform of opposition to Peppo and the Oregonian, but he had the active opposition of all Portland newspapers. He was prominently identified with the Joseph campaign from its inception, acting as manager. After the latter's death Holman led the swing to Julius L. Meier, spurning the honor for himself.

In the deadlock over the membership of the Portland port commission between the legislature and the governor early this year, the final solution was the acceptance of Holman as a member of the board at the insistence of Gov. Meier.

Family Needing Cook Stove is Charities Word

Emergency call for a cook stove, to be used by a needy family of five members was issued last night from headquarters of the Associated Charities here.

The mother of the group is now preparing all the family meals on a heating stove, which is passable but anything but convenient or satisfactory, according to Mrs. Mae Young Carson, Charities secretary.

Mrs. Carson also calls attention to the food sale which the organization is holding each Saturday at 139 North High street, in effort to add a few more dollars to the cause of the poor. Anyone who can is invited to donate cooked foods.

EXPLOSION DEATH TOLL FIXED AT 45

Thirty-eight of the bodies were identified. Cause of the blast was not determined although it is believed to have occurred in the torpedo loading room. It was heard for miles and shattered windows over a wide area.

The hospitals here and in Nich Theroy, a fashionable suburb just across the river, were taxed to capacity with the injured victims. Four hundred workers were in the plant at the time.

LAWYERS APOLOGIZE FOR UKELELE STAR

LOS ANGELES, May 1. — (AP) — CHITON A. "Ukelele" Ike Edwards, screen comedian, caused his attorneys to apologize to his wife and to the court at the superior court hearing today of his divorce suit.

"You are afraid to let the truth come out," Edwards stated as he angrily faced his wife, Irene, from the witness stand.

For the next half hour the actor's attorneys addressed both the court and the defendant's attorney, apologizing for their client's remark.

Mrs. Edwards, testifying earlier in the day, denied she had appeared at an Agua Caliente hotel party in pink and blue pajamas owned by Austin J. Young, blues singer, as Edwards charged.

Edwards asks annulment of a property settlement between himself and his wife in addition to the divorce. The trial will be resumed tomorrow.
