Heads Woman's Club

Mrs. J. M. Devers was elected president of the Salem Woman's club Friday afternoon at the regular annual election. Mrs. Dev-ers succeeds Mrs. David Wright.

Other officers elected are Mrs. Ivan Martin, vice president; Mrs. Fanny Brown Tibbets, secretary; Miss Eula McCully, financial secretary; Mrs. Mary Bayne, treas-urer: Mrs. Frederick Crosby, parlimentarian; and Mrs. Harry Weidmer, director.

A test vote was taken concerning the question of meeting on Friday or Saturday afternoon. and the vote was two to one in favor of Saturday. A final vote will be taken at the next meeting. New drapes and rearranged windows in the clubhouse were enjoyed for the first time Friday afternoon. Mrs. Ida Niles, chairman of the house committee and her workers were responsible for this improvement.

Mrs. W. D. Clarke, chairman of the Oregon Products contest committee, announced that Mrs. Clifford Mudd had been awarded the prize for the best talk made in the local club during the contest conducted by the state federation of Women's clubs. The district prize of $25 has not yet been awarded.

By an invitation from the club the Etokta Woman's club, the Liberty Woman's club, and the Salem Heights club will be spe-cial guests for the next meeting.

At the conclusion of the business meeting a delightful musical program was given in com-pliment to "better music" week under the direction of Mrs. M. D. McCallister and her committee. The opera Lohengrin was sketched by Mrs. T. S. Roberts in interesting fashion and special music illustrated the musical story. An added attraction for the program was a talk by Ralph Schomp, art director of the Shakespearian play, "Cymbeline" on sixteenth century costumes and these were illustrated by a parade of several of the main characters dressed in the costumes which will be worn in the play. James Beard, director of the play, introduced the charac-
