Hearted" in England, Robin Hood became an outlaw because he shot one of the King's deer. A great many others punished severely by the wealthy men of influence for some small crime such as debt. These men felt they were punished unjustly, so they formed a company and lived in Sherwood forest. They robbed the rich travelers and gave the gold to the poor and distressed.

The scenery was in green, they live in the greenwoods and dress in Lincoln Green. The girls and boys in both plays gave splendid rendition and reflected great credit on those who coached them. Clyde Hoffer gave the story of the plays prior to the rendering of them,

Refreshments were served by Mrs. W. E. Savage, Mrs. J. C. Reynolds and Mrs. Joe Bartruff, committee. The next big affair at Keizer will be the graduation exercises May 19.
