MILK PLANT TO OPEN SATURDAY

"Producers' Pride" to be Official Brand of new Organization Here

"Producers' Pride" will be the official brand for the new high test milk which will be offered to Salem consumers for the first time on Saturday morning, May 16. "Producers' Pride" represents a realization of the dream of many dairymen of the Salem territory who have for a long time looked forward to supplying Salem residents with high grade milk produced under the most sanitary conditions and delivered by the producers' own organization.

The new producer-owned distributing plant on South High street will receive its first consignment of milk on Friday and many Salem people will have the milk in time for breakfast Saturday morning. Much effort has been put into new plant.

Neither effort nor expense has been spared in fitting up the new plant with the highest type and most sanitary equipment. From the time the milk leaves the cans in which the producer brings it to the plant it is not touched by human hands or exposed to the air until it is delivered to the consumer.

The milk is first emptied into a large covered vat and then is carried into the pasteurizer, where it is agitated by huge aluminum paddles and forced against the sides of the tank which is heated to a high temperature. The old coil type pasteurizer in which milk was often overheated, is held responsible for the "pasteurized taste" to which many people object.

The new Burrall Spray pasteurizer in use in the Producers plant is so arranged that the milk is never overheated. From the pasteurizer the milk is carried by covered pipes to a covered, dust-proof cooler and to the bottling machine. The only time that the milk is ever exposed to the air is for a space of about one foot where the bottles pass from the bottling machine to the capping machine.

All equipment is so arranged that it can be thoroughly cleaned and steam sterilized. Plan to produce Butter, Ice Cream. The Producers company will place on the market its own butter and ice cream, which will be sold under the same "Producers' Pride" label.

R. W. Clark, president of the Producers organization, announces that H. W. Curtis will be in full charge of the management of the plant. Mr. Curtis was for some time connected with the Salem Sanitary Milk company and had charge of the ice cream department there. Miss Florence Snodgrass will be in the retail store, where milk, butter, cream, cottage cheese and ice cream will be sold.

All of the milk is produced in inspected dairies and the local plant will sell Grade A, both raw and pasteurized.

FUNERAL THURSDAY FOR LOUIS ADAMS

Former Silvertown Mayor and State Senator Dies Tuesday Forenoon

SILVERTOWN, May 12.—Funeral for Louis J. Adams, former state senator and former Silvertown mayor, will be held Thursday at 1:15 p. m. from the Jack and Ekman chapel here in charge of the Odd Fellows. Concluding services will be at the Portland Crematorium.

L. J. Adams, aged 69, died in his home in Silvertown at 11:45 a. m. Tuesday after being bed ridden since an attack of paralysis which he suffered last January 24. Mr. Adams was well known and liked by citizens of Marion county.

Born in Portsmouth, Ohio, January 30, 1865, Mr. Adams received his preliminary school work and graduated from Smith college there and came to Silvertown in 1884. Here he continued his education through a correspondence school of the University of Michigan and at the same time reading law in the office of the late Judge George G. Birmingham in Salem. He was admitted to the Oregon bar in 1897.

Mr. Adams married May Coolidge, daughter of the early Silvertown pioneer, on September 5, 1888. His wife died in 1900.

CLUB PRESENTS SCHOLARSHIPS TO NAVIGATION

Three Young People who led in 4-H Work Rewarded at Kiwanis Meet

Russell Beardsley of Salem Heights, Catherine Dallas of Liberty and Florence Wagoner of Eldridge each received yesterday, scholarships from the Salem Kiwanis club for a two weeks' course at Oregon State college this summer. James Nicholson, Kiwanis president, made the presentation speeches to the three young people who were outstanding among 4-H club workers in the county this year.

Paul V. Maris, director of extension work from Oregon State college, said that 700,000 boys and girls in the nation were engaged in 4-H club work. In Oregon there are 15,365 registered members, enrolled in 1714 different clubs. During the past year they completed 13,582 projects which had an estimated value of $88,000.

The young people were introduced to the club by W. W. Fox, superior of 4-H club work in this county. Led Demonstrators Cake Baking Work.

As a feature on the program, James Sjvanger, of Salem, gave a cake baking demonstration. Among the young people who attended the luncheon were Eleanor Johnson, Hubbard; Eulalia Neal and Myrtle Rabens, Silvertown; Gordon Conrad, White school; Lawrence Gooley and Louise Oswald, Mt. Angel; Ida Belknap, Sidney; Eloise Johnson, Woodburn; Louise Longwell, Martha Bratt, Aurora; Edith Zehner, and Porter Watts, Sidney; Bonita Radford, Bethel; Eloise and Ruth Bennett, Kelso; George Heusser, Monitor; Russell Miller and Clinton Page, Farris Gap; John Schmaltz, Florence Smith, Gilbert Burch and Marie Seifer, Margaret Weisenfels and Helen Froemel, all of Mt. Prize winners unable to attend the luncheon were Harold La Duke, Salem Heights; Maxine Albus, Aumaville; Alice Cunningham and Helen Daesch, both of Liberty; Linda Voget and Gladys Ingalls, both of Hubbard.

DREDGING AID TO NAVIGATION

River at Zero but Boat is Carrying Heavy Loads; Low Stage Early

While the Willamette river now stands at the zero mark here, transportation is being carried on more readily than at a similar stage last year because of improvements in the channel. A. S. Johnson, manager of the Salem Navigation company, said yesterday that dredging done last year had been affected during the winter since there had been little high water during the winter to pile up new bars in the channel.

The zero stage reached at the river here this week has come much earlier than in 1920, when the zero mark was not reached until June 15. Johnson predicted yesterday that the river would stay at this level for a month at least due to melting snows in the mountains. May Continue for About 45 Days. If the weather cools noticeably throughout the remainder of the month, river transportation may be kept up for 45 days, Johnson thinks. In 1920, the boats were taken off the river on July 4 and traffic was not resumed until November 17.

Cargoes have been heavy of late, on some trips the Northwestern Salem Navigation company boat, taking 200 tons. Up-river shipments also have been quite heavy. Yesterday the Northwestern brought 130 tons of commodities to Salem. Wool shipments down river have been heavy during the last week.

Obsolete Light Globe is Basis Of Novel Vase

STATTON, May 12.—H. J. Rowe, manager of the Mountain States Power company and former owner of the plant here, has recently made some vases which for originality and beauty would be hard to surpass. They are made from an obsolete type of street light globe. The globe is 10 inches in height and three inches across. It sits in a wood holder. This holder is in four pieces and is mounted on a brightly painted wood base.

The globe just fits into this and the whole has the appearance of a large tulip, held in place by four long leaves. The wooden holder is of leaves, are gilded, which gives the vase a decided richness. Those who have seen these vases are most enthusiastic about them.
