

BARNES CIRCUS IS HERE TODAY

Shows at Olinger Field at 2 and 8 P. M.; Three Trains in Early

CIRCUS DAY AT A GLANCE
ARRIVAL — Aboard three special trains over the Southern Pacific railroad, early Saturday morning from Albany.

PERFORMANCES — Doors open 1 and 7 p. m. On account of the length of the show, performances start promptly at 2 and 8 p. m.

FEATURES — The Gretoria Troupe, European high wire artists and immense spectacle "Persia" and the Pageant of Pekin.

CIRCUS GROUNDS — Olinger athletic field.

TICKETS — On sale beginning at 9 a. m. today at the Central Pharmacy, 410 State street. White ticket wagon continuously accessible for purchase of reserved seat tickets at the show grounds. Red ticket wagon open simultaneously with the big show doors.

DEPARTURE — Via Southern Pacific railway at midnight for Vancouver, Wash.

About the time the milkman is making his rounds this morning, three special trains bearing the Al G. Barnes circus, one of the world's largest amusement organizations, will reach Salem over the Southern Pacific railroad from Albany.

Without any halts or perplexing delays, the huge baggage wagons, cages, dens, floats and other equipment will be transferred to the show grounds at the Olinger athletic field. Twenty-two tents, covering 12 acres of ground, are needed to house the big show. A large circus, like an army, moves on its stomach, and the first tent to be erected will be the dining department.

Big Top Impasse
Bundle of Canvas
With breakfast over, the work of erecting the tents will go forward with renewed vigor. The "big top" among the largest spread of canvas ever erected here. It is 203 feet in width and nearly 500 feet in length. It is chiefly supported by towering center poles, larger than the masts used on the largest sea-going vessel.

The menagerie tent, the dressing rooms, stable and blacksmith tent, the barber shop and dozens of other "tops" will nose into the air. And within the space of several hours after the arrival of the first wagon on the show grounds, the once barren lot will, like some Aladdin touch, be transformed into a bustling and bustling city of tents.

There are hundreds of performers in this season's circus, and equally as many trained animals. Scores of superbly schooled horses representing Europe's finest equestrian acts form a big new feature; another includes 40 dancing horses and 20 dancing camels, including many Hollywood beauties.

The glorious fairyland spectacle "Persia" and the Pageant of Pekin serves as a prelude to the circus proper. This spectacular extravaganza far exceeds in magnificence, brilliancy, gorgeousness in beauty, the glories of any spectacle yet staged by this circus.

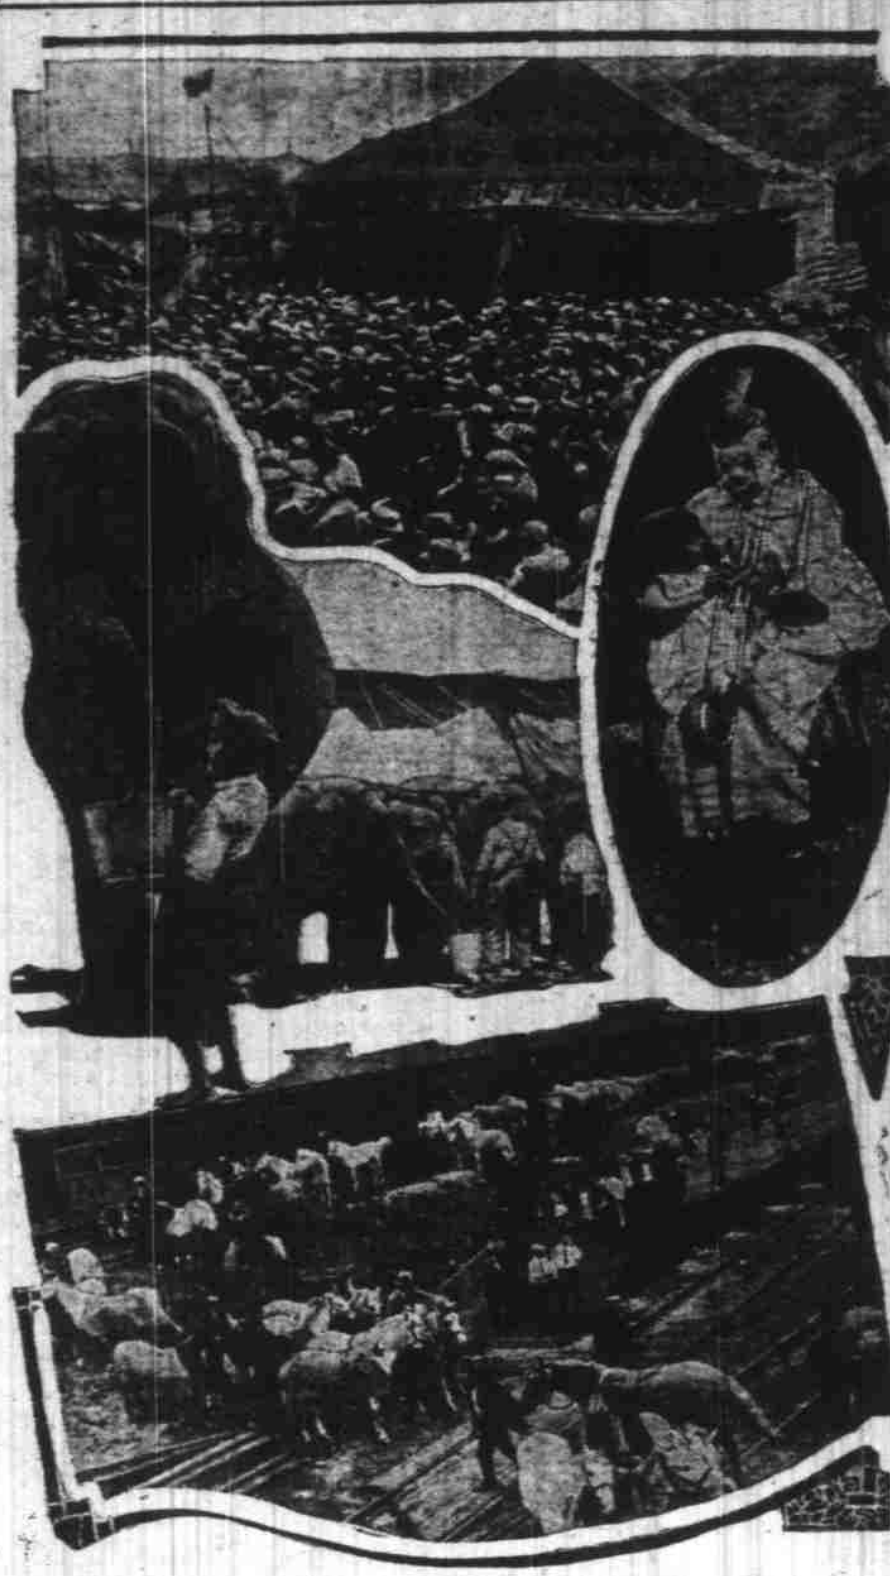

Almost a trainload of scenery, paraphernalia, electric lighting, tumes, marvelous lighting effects and astounding accessories are carried. There will be upward of 1000 men, women, horses, elephants and camels, including 100 beautiful dancing girls, great orchestras and golden-toned organs. The magnificent wardrobe represents an expenditure of $70,000.

Performances will be given at 2 and 8 p. m. Doors to the big show will be opened an hour earlier to permit an inspection of the world's largest traveling zoo, or to enjoy a concert of popular and operatic music by Prof. Hedrick and his military bands. Reserved and admission tickets are on sale at the Central Pharmacy, 410 State street. The white ticket wagon at the show grounds will be continuously accessible for the sale of reserved seat tickets. The red ticket wagon will open simultaneously with the opening of the main show doors. The circus will depart at midnight over the Southern Pacific for Vancouver, Wash., where it will exhibit Sunday.

- WARNER BROS. ELSINORE Today—Ramon Novarro in "Daybreak."
- WARNER BROS. CAPITOL Today—Zasu Pitts in "Finn and Hattie."
- THE HOLLYWOOD Today—Jack Oakie in "The Gang Buster."

Today for the last time you will see Ramon Novarro in "Daybreak" at Warner Bros. Elsinore theatre. This play is characterized as a "smart, gay, Continental romance" and that is quite what it is. In every line it has the Continental view of love and Ramon Novarro excellently interprets the ruthless philandering of good looking young bloods of His Majesty's guards.

tion of Prof. Campbell for the past 12 months and the results of their work were splendid to see. Quick response to the baton, splendid rhythm and interpretation made the numbers presented a thrill for the orchestra. Many of the small musicians were not able to get their feet on the floor they were such good people.

One number played by the orchestra was composed by Prof. Campbell and it was effectively done and enthusiastically received by the audience.

Between numbers, Pres. Riley briefly outlined the work of the community clubs and pointed to the fact that the programs presented in these clubs were going far toward giving peace and self assurance to the young performers who without the community club programs would perhaps never have an opportunity to develop these much needed qualities.

In addition to the programs presented, Pres. Riley pointed out that the work of the federation was charitable and educational as well. The idea of the community club is spreading and receiving greater support each year according to Pres. Riley.

At the close of the program Pres. Riley especially thanked Mary Swartz, district manager of Warner Bros. theatres in the northwest, who was present for the community club talent program Friday night and personally assisted in making the program move smoothly back stage.

As a gesture of community cooperation the University of Oregon band came up to Salem and played before the theatre just before the community talent program began. A dinner was given the band at the Argo at 6 o'clock.

400 ATTEND WHEN CONVENTION OPENS

Hardwick, state finance chairman, in her report given at the business session held in the chamber of commerce rooms in the afternoon. It was urged that each club endeavor to cut expenditures to a minimum in order to refrain from calling upon members or citizens of the respective towns for financial assistance.

The executive council went into business session again at the Gray Belle in the evening when the members met there for dinner. Following this all delegates and club members were entertained at a formal reception at the Masonic hall, with Mrs. Mona Yoder, president of the Salem club, presiding. Luncheon is given for Non-Members.

Those not members of the council were entertained at a luncheon at noon at which Mrs. Mary Purvine of Salem presided.

The program today will be featured by the election of officers and the official visit of Mrs. Jane Ogle of New York city, national field secretary.

Politics is playing an important part in the "third house" sessions of the convention. Echoes of last year's convention at Medford are ringing in the discussions. At that time the group known as the "younger element" nominated Miss Gash, the present president, from the floor in the face of opposition from the "old guard," led by Dr. Mary Purvine of Salem and Miss Glendora Thompson of Portland. This year supporters of Miss Gash are working for her reelection, while rumors of various opposition candidates are rife. Rumor has it that Salem is slated for two offices, one to be the state treasurer.

Loyal Bereans Entertained by Lossing Group

Recently the Loyal Men and Women's class and the Loyal Berean class of the Court street Church of Christ entered into a contest, the winning class to be entertained by the losing side.

REQUESTS IN BUNCHES COME FOR PHOTOGRAPHS OF MICKEY MOUSE

Who is the most popular, Little Orphan Annie or Mickey Mouse? This is the question bothering The Statesman just now.

A few weeks ago Annie had a birthday and dozens of her admirers have sent congratulatory letters. For the moment it looked as though Annie was the most attractive of The Statesman's comic family.

But a few days ago Mickey Mouse licked Creamo Catena, the big cat, and so soon did requests come in for his picture, that Mickey arranged with a photographer to prepare as many as the fans wanted.

All week The Statesman has been receiving requests for Mickey's autographed photo until it looks as though Annie would have to look to her popularity laurels.

More pictures of Mickey are still available without charge to those who will write The Statesman for them. A special Mickey Mouse morning show is given each Saturday at 10 o'clock at the Capitol theatre. This week Sol Dolgin, who handles the Mickey Mouse club, promises the best program in weeks. Remember, the show starts at 10 a. m.

PEOPLE... who are news

wasn't going to be caught short again.

THE secretary of the treasury is a statuesque and imperious little man, given to slow talking and having for his hobby a collection of paintings by the masters. Seated at his large flat topped desk in the treasury department, he enjoys a chat with callers when there is time. His favorite smoke is a short thin cigar.

Innumerable rumors of his resignation from the cabinet draw the same quiet denial every time. Time and again, too, he has given patient assurances of his well-being to newspapermen tracing reports of his being hurt or ill.

ON fair days he walks the several miles from his luxurious apartment to the treasury department. Finance has been his vocation since entering his father's bank in Pittsburgh some 50 years ago.

Despite his 76 years, he works a long day. Occasionally the tedium is interrupted by a visit to a downtown barber for a shave and to have his whitish mustache trimmed.

A time back it was told how he would visit a shop several times a day until he found his favorite barber. He waved aside suggestions the chair might be reserved.

Sometimes his assistants are gone before he leaves the office around six. One day Mr. Mellon sent a secretary to summon an aide for conference, but the man had called it a day at the usual hour.

Receiving the word, Mr. Mellon looked from his window over a park nearby and said plainly:

won by a small margin, was entertained at the church parlors Thursday evening by the Loyal Men and Women. Geraldine Schmoker and the Benner family entertained with music and readings after which a treat of strawberries and cake and coffee was served by the Loyal Men and Women.

ROSARY TODAY FOR MRS. K. DERANLEAU

Recitation of the rosary for Mrs. Kate Deranleau, 68, will be said with the Rev. J. R. Buck officiating, at the Salem Mortuary chapel at 7 o'clock tonight, instead of at a later hour as announced yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Deranleau died at the family home, 1985 Edgewater street, West Salem, Friday morning after a lengthy illness.

She was the wife of Lucien Deranleau. They celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary two years ago, when all their children were at home. The couple had lived in West Salem for the past 13 years.

In addition to the widower the following relatives survive: Four daughters, Mrs. Mary Cornier of Wilmar, Can., Mrs. Anna Forcier of Tilena, Can., Mrs. Catherine E. Clark of Victoria, B. C., and Mrs. Geneva E. Cole of Portland; two sons, Henry R. of Richland, Wash., and Arthur J. Deranleau of Pinnacle, Mont.; two sisters, Mrs. Emma Deranleau of Seattle, Wash., and Mrs. Charlotta Daniels of Crawford, Neb., and one brother, Albert Le Blanc of Couer d'Alene, Idaho.

The funeral will be held Monday morning at 8:30 o'clock from St. Joseph's Catholic church, the Rev. Buck officiating. Interment will be in St. Barbara's cemetery.
