Have Big Picnic—Thirty members of the Rock Point school joined with the Shaw pupils yesterday for an all-day picnic in observance of the end of the school year. Mrs. Mary L. Fulkerson, county school superintendent, spent part of the day with the pupils. At noon parents gathered with the children and provided baskets for a big picnic luncheon. A program, featuring considerable health work, was held in the morning and in the afternoon sports and a baseball game were the main order. Sublimity public school has invited Shaw and Rock Point to attend an eighth grade graduation program there tonight. Diplomas to grammar school graduates of all three schools will be presented by Mrs. Fulkerson.

PLAN OF DONATING BOOKS NOT LOCAL

A few persons are apparently misconstruing action of the Salem school district in asking students and parents to cooperate in placing the new free textbook act on a saving basis next fall by donating to the district books now owned by the students and which will be in use next year.

Reports to that effect were given Supt. George Hug yesterday morning when he met with principals of the various schools to determine with what response the request is being met.

"The move to ask district patrons to turn books into the district at the end of the present school year is not local, but statewide, and was first suggested by the state superintendent's office," Supt. Hug said yesterday in emphasizing that the district is not seeking to "put anything over the public."

Contribution of the textbooks now used and to be in use next year will simply lessen the burden on the school district and consequently on the taxpayer, the superintendent pointed out. As it

VEGETABLES WILL COUNT FOR MONEY

Good news for the kiddies! And a chance to do a good turn for the needy.

Here's why and how: Out on State street, at Taylor's beach, the Browning amusement carnival is holding forth this week. That means: ferris wheel, merry-go-round, slideshows and whatnot.

Here in town, and out in the country, plenty of people are going hungry. "Bill" Browning, of the amusement company, manages every year to help along the poor folk through contributions to the Associated Charities.

This year, a new method of aiding the needy has been announced.

Browning has offered to throw the carnival open to all children Wednesday afternoon and night. They may ride on the ferris wheel, merry-go-round or other attractions with monetary cost—provided they bring along a jar of fruit, some vegetables or old clothing.

Anything that may be used to aid the less fortunate of the city will be accepted from youngsters as money for that afternoon and night.

The articles so collected will be turned over to Mrs. Mae Young Carson of the Associated Charities, who will distribute them to the poor.

LINEN MILL PLANS NEAR COMPLETION

Word from parties officially connected with the reorganization of the Oregon Linen Mill company yesterday indicated that the plans for getting the new Salem Linen Mills organized were almost completed and that formal announcement could be looked for very soon.

Sale of $33,000 worth of bonds to fund outstanding indebtedness against the original mill has held up the proposed transfer of assets from the old company to the one which is to be organized.

It is known that Governor Julius L. Meier has pledged himself to do everything in his power to put the reorganization through but Governor Meier would issue no statement yesterday when questioned on the progress of the deal.

Some orders for the new company have been received and a tentative order for 50 tons of flax fibre has been placed with the state board of control, but fulfillment of these orders awaits the outcome of the bond sale.
