

DEDICATE BELCREST PARK

Memorial Burial Ground to Be Opened Officially On Saturday

Belcrest, Salem's new $300,000 memorial park, will be officially dedicated on Saturday, May 30, in ceremonies which will mark the opening of one of the finest memorial parks in the west.

Although the ground has been in use for the past 18 months it is not completed, as a portion of the 19 acres of ground has not yet been seeded. Most of the park however is in perfect condition. One feature of the Saturday service will be the opening of Belcrest chapel which has just been completed.

The chapel building contains 43 rooms, including the living quarters of the resident superintendent. The chapel proper has a seating capacity of 50 in the main auditorium and 15 in the smaller family room adjoining. Perfect ventilation is maintained by a circulating air system which keeps the room at an even temperature no matter what weather may prevail outside.

A lofty cathedral ceiling with beams of light driftwood gives an air of space in the chapel. Woodwork is finished in dark driftwood and hangings are of rose velvet. Swatches from fixtures held the golden tinted globes and the light from outside comes through windows of cathedral glass and stained glass.

Refrigeration System
Used for services conducted in the chapel are carried to all parts of the park by means of a broadcasting system, controlled either from the main office or from the chapel. The system is furnished by an electrovalve which is controlled from the same sources and can be broadcast to all parts of the park. A microphone in the office makes it possible to call any one in the park.

Both the chapel and equipment buildings are of brick with roofs of slate and all the woodwork is of oak. Rest rooms for men and women are in the building and in the commodious office is a place for all records.

The contract has been let for a tile pool to be built across the drive in front of the chapel and a tile drainage system constructed near the chapel entrance.

An elaborate irrigation system is in operation to keep the park grounds in perfect condition. Water is pumped from the Willamette river and raised a distance of 8000 feet. "Memory Lake" forms the storage basin for the water which is then pumped through the pipes which carry it to all parts of the park. It is planned to plant white swans on this lake and the grounds around it will be landscaped.

Just south of the lake are the flower gardens and nurseries where a large supply of blossoms may be raised. Flowers on each grave are changed every Saturday. This is a part of the perpetual care provided by the association.

In case of emergency water may be secured from a deep well and pumped through the irrigation pipes. Huge sprinklers scattered over the park are kept going constantly in warm weather so that the grass is always green.

No Tombstones To Be Permitted
No monuments or tombstones of any kind are permitted. Each grave is marked by a bronze plate set into the ground.

A large white pergola at one side of the park overlooks the valley and from its flowered recesses one may get a most inspiring view of the mountains in the distance. At another side of the park is the dovecote from whence come the trained white doves which are an important part of the Belcrest picture.

Saturday the official dedication program will be given. A special orchestra will play between the hours of two and six in the afternoon and the music will be broadcast to all parts of the park. Uniformed attendants will be on hand to guide visitors over the park.

Belcrest is a non-sectarian association, owned and controlled by plot owners. Offices are in trust in a Salem bank. Officers

"THE LITTLE CHAPEL" AT BELCREST, SOON TO OPEN

Attractive building where burial services will be held at Belcrest Memorial park, which will be dedicated Saturday. The chapel, construction work on which has just been finished, will be opened as a feature of the dedication program.

In charge of the park are J. H. Callaghan, director of sales, W. E. Scandling, director of service, J. H. Laddlaw, director of records and finances, and F. E. Wilson, resident superintendent.

Arrangement has been made for funerals to make the trip to Belcrest every hour beginning at 9:15 o'clock Saturday morning.

Enigma Probing
More Departments
At yesterday's meeting of the board of control, Enigma was authorized to join with State Treasurer Holman in an investigation of bids for butter wrappers and other state supplies requested by various state institutions.

During the past few days Mr. Enigma has conducted an investigation of the state school for the blind. It was said that several complaints were lodged with Governor Meier with relation to the operation of this institution. Both Enigma and Holman made an inspection of the blind school this week.

Whether there will be any changes in superintendents at the several institutions under the board of control, probably will depend largely upon Enigma's findings. His investigations were said to have been thorough, and every phase of the institutions were subjected to scrutiny.

There had been some discussion among officials relative to placing Enigma in charge of the state flax industry, but it was reported that he did not relish that position. Lee Dymitt, formerly foreman of the state flax plant, is temporarily in charge of the prison industries.

The program presented was as follows: welcome, Catherine Stout; "The Jolly Farmer's Club," fourth grade; "Woodland Voices," chorus; recitation, Lillian Glover; "Lost Trouser," a skit; "The Rheumatism," fifth grade; "The Setting Hen," Herbert Lulay; John's Essay, commencement play; "I Passed by Your Window," graduates; presentation of diplomas, Mrs. Falkerson.

TOAD NOW IN SCHOOL Likewise Musical Cricket, Turtle and Frogs PUPILS VIEW NATURE

A musical cricket, a real horned toad, frogs, a hard old turtle, and a number of other creatures that one would scarcely associate with the schoolroom have possibly for pranks played by naughty boys are an interesting part of some of the classroom work at Highland school.

It is the first grade pupils, taught by Miss Mecie Dimick, who are learning about nature along with being taught to read, write and cipher. And what they don't know about Mr. Musical Cricket and his antics isn't worth writing about.

The animals form part of the menagerie which the students and teacher have fitted up in one corner of the classroom. Dirt and moss have been imported to the corner to form a real woodland effect for tiny creatures, and also there have been planted some make-believe trees.

The children and teacher have raised five baby frogs, all lively and busy; they have a free toad which hops about the large fly it can get; there is a huge frog which seems to be the boss of the menagerie and has a big "pen" all to himself.

The goldfish pond is something of a sorry sight to the small boys and girls, for no more swim there the horned little fish. And thereby hangs a sad tale: The mud turtle which the older boys brought for the menagerie crawled in and ate one of the goldfish and sipped the tail off the other. Now the other is no more.

About the musical cricket: he's not at all particular when he plays, nor does the fact that the children are allowed sometimes to go water back and forth disturb him in the least. And he plays.

The horned toad is the most recent acquisition, having arrived in a letter from Texas about two weeks ago. A Texas boy who was in the class last semester returned to that state, and after arrival there he sent back to the teacher the horned toad.

All the animals are fed regularly by the teacher, each seeming to require a special tidbit. Oh yes, and she will keep most of them during the summer, so the nature study may be resumed early in the fall.

In addition to study of these and other animals, many birds have been studied by the classes. Large and small bird charts have been secured and line part of the schoolroom.

Youngs have been living in the neighborhood of Van Hornesville since before the revolution and the most distinguished son of the line has never been too busy to maintain the associations of a rural childhood. A perfectly appointed school and teachers' home stand near the spot where Owen Young learned his fundamentals; modern equipment lights the streets, and the latest in snow removing machinery keeps them clear in winter—all gifts of Mr. Young.

Mr. Young does not care for strenuous physical exercise. The milking, wood-cutting and hay-making he did as a boy gave him enough training to last a lifetime, he jokingly remarks. Golf scores held no terrors; he does not care to play.

THE BATTLE OF THE LIONS!

The company traversed Africa in a motorized safari with a small army of native servants. Wild animal thrills are vividly recorded. Elephants, lions, rhinos, crocodiles, apes, reptiles, tigers, zebras, giraffes and many other species of the African animal kingdom were the actors in these vivid sequences.

Aurora Charters Bus For Would Be Swimmers
AURORA, May 28—Taking advantage of the free swimming and life saving lessons, the Red Cross and the Y. M. C. A. in Salem are offering to several hundred people, twenty-four active young boys and girls from Aurora registered Monday night for the swim.

The school board, Albert Ehlen, Arthur Kraus and Ezra Hurst secured a license for the old school bus and it is being used each night to transport the young people to Salem and return. A fifteen days license for

But the order of the commission above quoted establishes the unreasonableness of the continuous employment from day to day without the required hours for rest between such days.

In another opinion the attorney general held that the state board of health has authority to investigate and determine whether such workaholics are injurious to life and health. If it is, the attorney general held, the board of health has authority to adopt such rules and regulations as are necessary for the proper protection of health and life. This opinion was requested by Frederick D. Stricker, secretary of the state board of health.

DUNHAM ASSIGNED CANAL ZONE POST

Major George C. Dunham, medical corps, U. S. Army, a former resident of Salem and at the present time stationed at Carlisle barracks, Pa., has been assigned to duty at Balboa Heights, Canal Zone, and will sail from New York City for Panama on U. S. Army transport scheduled to leave that port on about June 11, 1931, according to information received from the war department through Ninth corps area headquarters at the Presidio of San Francisco.

Major Dunham is a member of the general staff corps, eligible list; a graduate of the army war college, '26, army medical school, '17. He received an M. D. degree from the University of Oregon, '14; Dr. P. H. Johns Hopkins University, '21; was an honor graduate of the London school of Tropical Medicine, '22; and received an A. M. degree from George Washington University '25.

Lasswell Goes To Accept New Job in Seattle

Jerry Lasswell, who came to Salem as manager of Warner Bros. Capitol at the time the local theatres were taken over by Warner Bros., and who has made a genuine circle of friends in his short time here, will leave Warner Bros. Saturday morning to accept a position with the Columbia Advertising company of Seattle.

Mickey Mouse NOTES

What a swell time we all had last week, and that's only a sample of what we're going to have when we get our new Mickey Mouse club that we have started.

In case it is not understood, every old member of the Mickey Mouse club has to join over at the new Warner Bros. Mickey Mouse club. Also the age limit has been extended to fifteen years of age.

If you haven't a membership blank get one now at Williams Self Service or Miller's Dept. store.

It was nice of them to make the contest only for Mickey Mouse members, so let them be real hustlers and know how to win contests. Prizes will be on display at our club meeting this Saturday. The prizes will be given out June 6. They are roller skates, tennis racket, tennis gloves, playground ball, five pair of tennis shoes, five baseballs, and many other prizes.

How would you like a picture of Mickey Mouse? Here's how you have to get it. Put your name and address on an envelope, with a stamp on it and take it to The Oregon Statesman, or mail it and you will all be sent a picture of Mickey Mouse with his name signed on it.

More entertainment is wanted and that means that we want every one of you that can entertain in some way to leave your name in the box office or with the Mickey Mouse secretary.

CONTRACT LET ON CELL DOORS

Governor Chides Hoss who is Absent for Failure To Attend Meeting

Governor Meier, at the opening of a state board of control meeting Thursday, criticized Hal E. Hoss, secretary of state, for not being present.

"This state business is not baby play," Governor Meier remarked.

Discussion followed in connection with holding meetings of the board on the first four days of each week.

"In a statement issued several weeks ago," continued Governor Meier, "I made it plain that I would be in my office the first four days of each week. There is a lot of state business to transact and some action should be taken so that meetings of the board will be held regularly."

Rufus C. Holman, state treasurer, replied that he would make his appointments conform to those of Governor Meier.

Holman continued that he intended to conduct a thorough investigation of state-owned farms to determine whether they were feasible and profitable. He said he would report his findings at a subsequent meeting of the board.

The 1931 legislature conducted a similar investigation, but no action was taken toward eliminating any of the present farms operated by the state.

The contract for installing 180 cell fronts for the new state penitentiary will be let this Saturday as we're all going to have a real time.

Itentary cell block now under construction was awarded to King Brothers of Portland. The fronts will be of tool steel and all of the work, with the exception of the installation will be made by prison labor under the direction of the manufacturers. The contract was for $19,885. The second low bid was $31,000.

The contract for the cell fronts has been before the board of control for several months, with the controversy centering on whether sliding or swinging doors should be used. Henry Meyers, ex-supervisor of the prison, favored the sliding doors. The present contract calls for swinging doors, which were said to be acceptable to James Lewis, the new superintendent of the prison.

E. B. Withrow of Portland will be employed as inspector in connection with the new wing of the eastern Oregon state hospital. The contract for this wing was awarded two weeks ago, and work will get under way within the next month. Withrow will receive a salary of $250 a month.

The board deferred action on a lease for 308 acres of land which it was proposed to operate in connection with the state penitentiary. The rent was fixed in the lease at $600 a year. Carle Abrams, secretary of state board of control, said he considered the rental too high, when compared with the cost of farm land in the Willamette valley at the present time.

The work of installing the new cell fronts at the penitentiary will begin once the contract provides that the work shall be completed by October 1. The new cell block will accommodate approximately 320 prisoners, and will relieve materially the crowded conditions now existing in the prison.
