Federal Farm Head States Stabilization Effort is Fully Justified

dumped on the market if the price had declined a cent or two.

Admitting the stabilization operations had resulted in losses of federal funds, he said:

"Beneficial results from both cotton and wheat stabilization activities to farmers and the country as a whole are many times over any losses that may be sustained by the revolving fund."

Puts Large Amount On Credit Side

Figuring the stabilization operation in a more concrete way, Stone said $100,000,000 could be entered on the credit side of the balance sheet, representing the difference between the world price and the price of all American wheat sold from November to the end of the crop year.

"When on the debit side, suppose we lose in the sale of the wheat twenty-five, thirty or even fifty million dollars, I have never seen the time when I would not swap fifty millions of dollars for one hundred million."

Summing up stabilization activities, the chairman said: "Our experience convinces us that these can be resorted to only as temporary remedies and cannot cope successfully with continuous overproduction of a crop of steadily mounting surpluses."

Dr. Charles Kipfer, Swiss scientist (shown kneeling, right), is removing the precious instruments and clothing from the interior of the huge aluminum ball in which he and his associate, Professor Auguste Piccard, ascended to the record-breaking height of 10 miles to make observations in the "stratosphere." Professor Piccard is inside the queer ball, handing out articles to his assistant. The intrepid aerial explorers landed safely on a glacier near Ober Gurgl, Austria, in the Tyrolean Alps. This picture, the first to arrive in the U. S., shows the adventurers surrounded by natives of the area.

speaker, with a program of "athletics for all."

Under the guidance of "the old man," football receipts have built three athletic buildings and a golf course at the University of Michigan. Yost snorts at mention of "over-emphasis," and points to the athletic plant football has built at Ann Arbor.

Yost is a strong advocate of physical training for everybody. The Grand Rapids alumni sent him a set of golf clubs two years ago, and he's still threatening to become a golfer.

THE OLD MAN

"THE OLD MAN" will demonstrate "old 83" any time, anywhere. He developed that play, and he loves it. It is a fake line back which finally develops into a lateral pass and a run around end, after the play apparently is stopped. Yost claims it never has been correctly diagrammed by scouts.

As long as Michigan has Fielding H. Yost, there will be no need for keeping athletic records. He has a photographic memory, and can fill in dates, names, scores and previous records of Michigan's past 30 years. He has read everything written on Customer's last stand, and is an ardent student of military strategy.

CUPID SPANS 20 YEARS

MR. and MRS. DUD STILLMAN AS MRS. JAMES A. STILLMAN WITH HUSBAND IN 1928. When immediately after winning a final decree of divorce from James A. Stillman, New York banker, Mrs. Anne U. Stillman married Fowler McCormick, heir to the harvester millions, society gossip set up and began to look about for a motive. Why, they ask, should a 51-year-old woman marry a man twenty years her junior? Not for money, because they're both very rich. Level. There has been for years a strong bond of sympathy between McCormick and the woman who is now his wife. A staunch friend of her son "Bud," with whom he was at Princeton and for whom he acted as best man when he started society by marrying Lena Wilson, his mother's servant, Fowler McCormick helped Mrs. Stillman through the ordeal attendant upon the sensational trial in which the paternity of her son was the point at issue. His championship of Mrs. Stillman at that time and his subsequent efforts for her happiness leave no room for doubt as to the motive that was behind the May-December marriage.

WHOLESALE RADIO REVOCATION FACED

Corporation Fails in Move To Prevent Hearings; Monopoly Charged

WASHINGTON, June 12 (AP)—The Radio Corporation of America today failed in its attempt to prevent the radio commission from holding hearings which may result in revocation of the 1,493 licenses held by corporation subsidiaries.

Justice Bailey of the District of Columbia supreme court denied the subsidiaries an injunction to prevent the hearings, set for next Monday, but kept the case upon the docket. He explained that developments might warrant the injunction at a later time.

The commission will have before it the question of whether the radio corporation violated anti-monopoly provisions of the radio act in making a radio tube contract which violated anti-trust laws. Under the radio act the commission must refuse licenses to concerns which have attempted to monopolize radio communication.

Subsidiary Firms Will Face Probe

The anti-trust decision was made in a Delaware federal court and upheld by a circuit court of appeal. The commission then fixed the hearings as test cases on a number of licenses held by the National Broadcasting company and three other subsidiaries of the corporation.

Dealers who signed the contract agreed to purchase their radio tubes from the corporation and the result was that it had the greater part of the tube business.

Commission counsel argued that the contract was a violation of the act because of the importance of the tube to radio communication.

Justice Bailey said he felt he should not interfere with the commission at present but that if an adverse decision threatened "irreparable injury" to the radio concerns pending an appeal, he might interfere.

Louis Titus, counsel for the subsidiaries, said Justice Bailey's ruling protected the position of the radio corporation.

EARNHART CRASHES BUT NOBODY HURT

ABILENE, Tex., June 12 (AP)—By expert handling of her autogyro, Mrs. Amelia Barhart Putnam, veteran woman flier escaped injury today and avoided striking a crowd of spectators when she was forced to set the ship down in an automobile parking lot.

Her mechanic, Eddie De Vaught, also was unhurt.

The aviator was attempting to take off from the Abilene airport continuing her flight eastward from California, when the mishap occurred.

When she saw she had not gained sufficient altitude to clear a line of parked automobiles, Mrs. Putnam sent the "Flying Windmill" down steeply to an area clear of spectators and stalled the motor. Wings of the craft grazed three cars, denting the tops and breaking the windshield of one. The automobiles were not occupied.

"Possibly I did not take a long enough run," the aviator said, "but the distance was ample for the giro under ordinary conditions. With any other type plane the accident would have been more serious, I am sure. No other type of ship could have been pulled down so sharply into so small a space."
