McNary, astute politician has been pulling wires for months to see the home nestled in Rose burg and if he falls down it will be another notch in the gunstock of anti-McNary men although the senator holds his term for so many years the political effect will have worn off before the next election.

Effect on Hoover Is Also Claimed

Opponents of the Roseburg lo cation say that placing the home lighter crop but other eastern at Roseburg would be a severe boomerang on Hoover although enlarged production. it is hard to see that so small a matter, from the national standpoint, would have much effect one way or the other, on the president. The national hospitalization board was agreed upon and appointed Daylight Round after the Forbes scandals in the Harding administration. The avowed aim was to take location of soldiers homes out of politics. The Eugene home proponents claim Hoover has broken faith with the board and with the nation in using his influence to favor the Roseburg case. They assert the reason Hoover wants the home at Roseburg is solely to help his good friend and staunch don, completing the round trip Republican backer, Mr. Hawley.
