

Junior Teams Battle Today at Chemawa for County Title

BREAKS LIKELY TO DECIDE WIN

Salem and Silvertown Evenly Matched; Vivette and Lefler may Hurl

With the teams as evenly matched as two peas from the same pod as nearly as could be observed from their first two games, breaks will probably decide today's game between the Salem and Silvertown American Legion Junior baseball teams, scheduled for 4 p. m. on the Chemawa Indian school diamond, outcome of which will determine the county championship.

Vivette for Salem and Lefler for Silvertown will probably be the opposing moundmen although this is uncertain as Perrine of Salem and Susee of Silvertown pitched tighter ball in the second game of the series than Vivette and Lefler did in the first one.

Coch "Frisco" Edwards of the Salem team is confident that Silvertown will get fewer hits off Vivette today than it did last Saturday, and believes his team will be stronger with Perrine on first base.

Edwards has been coaching his boys this week on what sort of pitches to throw, and is looking for a better performance along that line which was the team's chief trouble here Sunday. Want Large Crowd To Support Salem

Members of Capital Post No. 9 are doing their best to turn the tables on Silvertown today in the matter of support, in which Salem was somewhat shaded the first two games, even the one here which saw a bigger Silvertown crowd than Salem.

Oliver B. Huston, head of the local post's athletic committee, estimates there were three times as many Silvertown supporters in the crowd than Salem backers.

Aside from the question about selection of pitchers, lineups today will probably be the same as those of last Saturday except that Filinger's hitting ability may land him a starting berth at shortstop for Salem.

Farmers in Orangeburg, S. C., last year shipped 36 carloads of hogs. To date they have shipped 25 in 1931.

HIGH SCHOOL GOLF STORY PUBLISHED

SILVERTOWN, June 17.—The June issue of Golfers magazine, published at Chicago, carried an interesting story of the Williamette Golf League which was organized at Silvertown several months ago under the direction of James Manning, high school faculty member. The article was written by Richard Spring of Silvertown, who has become a frequent contributor to magazines.

The magazine article carries the story of how the league was organized to meet the demand of youthful golfers who craved competition and tournament play. Several weeks ago, completing the season, the Silvertown high school golfers brought considerable mention to this community by winning fourth place in a statewide golf meet held at Eugene under the auspices of the University of Oregon.

CURT COMMENTS

It's a mean thing to do but we've decided to clamp the old smooth-working Jinx on Silvertown today and so we hereby pick Silvertown to win the junior final game at Chemawa. If any of you don't get that, you can't be a fan. We haven't been pursuing this column more than a year. We used to pick the opposing teams right along and the home teams nearly always won.

Outside of that we haven't an idea on the subject, except that we think Salem has the better pitching and Silvertown—hope we're proven wrong about this too—stronger hitting.

About the fielding we can't say. Salem we think has more speed in the outfield, Silvertown is stronger on one side of the infield and Salem on the other.

Both teams have had the benefit of excellent coaching by men who know both baseball and how to get it out of the youngsters. Which reminds us of an incident which occurred a while back when Frisco was experimenting with his lineup and had a kid in there who was a little less experienced than the rest.

This lad was on first base and seeing the basemen drop the ball on a throw to that bag, sprinted for second. The ball rolled only a few feet and he was thrown out by a big margin.

"That was a good play," Frisco told the lad when he got back to the bench. "It was all right, but you have to watch how far the ball goes. If it had gone a little farther you could have made it. But it was a good play and don't you worry about it."

No matter what happens or how tough it makes the going, we haven't heard Frisco tosser off yet to his junior tossers though he used to be tough on the semi-pro players who were old enough and experienced enough to stand it. And still he doesn't let them or let them get to feeling they are too good. He's the boss every minute on the ball field.

And we could say practically the same things about Downie.

CHARITY NEED HERE SERIOUS

Associated Charities out Of Nearly Everything and Demand Heavy

With funds gone, food gone and even clothing supplies nearing an end, desperate appeal for contributions of any nature but especially for money and foodstuffs was issued yesterday from the Associated Charities.

Drain on the charities has been extremely heavy this spring, and with virtually no funds on hand to fall back on, relief for the poor through this quarter must be seriously curtailed if not cut off entirely, the secretary, Mrs. Mae Young Carson, intimated yesterday.

A figure-picture of the work done in May by the charities and the demands on it is contained in the following report from the secretary:

Individuals helped, excluding transients, 226; transients helped, 194; articles of clothing given, 1,200; office calls, 202; calls outside office, 89; families helped, 38.

"Jana is going to see heavier demands on us than in May, judging from the first half of the month," Mrs. Carson said. Yesterday persons were fed in the free kitchen and all there was on hand to eat was string beans and coffee.

The charities has on hand about 30 cords of ash and 75 cords of second growth fir, cut by the needy who applied for food and were given in exchange for food and clothing. But now there is no more food to exchange for the wood cutting.

It looks like wood, intended for the needy, will have to be sold to pay the June rent, light bill and telephone bill unless the public comes to the rescue with cash and food, the secretary said.

Most Applicants Willing to Work. The stock of clothing for men has become so low that men, especially transients, are wearing shoes that are not mated.

"Very few of those who apply here for help, either clothing or food, are unwilling to work," the secretary said, "though it is often a mistaken impression that the people who are down and out want charity without return."

Mrs. Carson said.
