

SALEM FIGHTS CAPITAL THEFT

Chamber of Commerce Will Oppose Removal of State Offices

dairy division and laboratories in Portland. A lengthy brief was filed and a committee of the Portland chamber will write on him today. Committee is named To Protect Capital.
President Crawford appointed the following committee to represent Salem and safeguard its interests in the matter of the location of all offices and boards in this city:
J. N. Chambers, C. P. Bishop, T. A. Windshar, U. G. Shipley, E. F. Slade, W. P. Ellis, C. A. Sprague. Nearly 40 offices are located outside of the state capital, principally in Portland.

Countering the contention that people are served better in Portland is the fact that many people have business with different branches of the state government and they should be centered here where the divisions would be immediately accessible. Also, people from southern Oregon have to go through Salem to transact business in Portland offices, adding to their expense.
Endorse Roseburg For Soldiers Home
The directors also renewed their endorsement of Roseburg as the site for the veterans' home; and the secretary was instructed to advise the hospital board; also to advise the board that in case Roseburg should be rejected then the location should be thrown open to all the cities "south of the Cascades." It was pointed out that most of the state was standing behind Roseburg and wanted Roseburg to get it, and were making no effort for themselves; but if the board should for any reason turn down Roseburg then it was only fair to reopen the matter so that other cities, including Salem, which had stayed out of the contest, be permitted to present their claims.

SUMMER SCHOOL'S REGISTRATION LOW

Enrollment in the Grant and Park summer schools totaled 240 yesterday, exactly 100 less than at the end of the first day a year ago, reports Miss Carlotta Crowley, director. At Grant, 125 children attended yesterday, and at Park 115. More are expected today.
With work in the fields slow, a larger attendance than usual was anticipated, but it is possible that the two weeks period between close of regular school and opening of the summer course may have cut into attendance. Usually there is only a week's time between the two schools.

Many students who had not taken set enrollment blanks appeared yesterday, and many who had signed blanks were not on hand. All critic teachers were here and students from the state normal will start their observation today. The schools are open to children from the first through the eighth grade without charge, and are held from 8:30 o'clock to noon each morning.

OCHOCO REPAYMENT PLAN HAS APPROVAL

The estate reclamation commission Monday passed on to the bondholders of the Ochoco irrigation district a proposal of the settlers to start paying on refunding bonds of the project aggregating $1,500,000 after five years.
The commission previously had agreed that payments should start at the end of three years. The latest proposal was satisfactory to the reclamation commission.
Approximately $900,000 of the outstanding bonds are owned in California, and have been deposited with the bondholders' committee, in connection with the reorganization program.
A delegation of Ochoco settlers, headed by Donald Graham, appeared before the reclamation commission.

LIFE TERM

Convicted at Jefferson, Ohio, of the murder last year of Mrs. Clara Smith, wife of her sweetheart, Mrs. Maude Lowther, 25-year-old West Virginia mountain girl, with Indian ancestry, has been sentenced to death in the electric chair. This is the first time in the history of Ohio that the death sentence has been imposed on a woman. Her paramour, Tilby Smith, is awaiting electrocution August 27. Mrs. Lowther is shown above.

GAY WEDDING UNITES FIRST FAMILIES

The brilliant wedding of August Belmont, fourth of that distinguished name and son of the late New York financier, and popular Betty Saltonstall, Boston debutante, was one of the most outstanding and colorful events of the season in the East. The ceremony, staged in Christ Church, in Hamilton, Mass., was enhanced by the presence of the charming flower girls and beautiful bridesmaids shown above. The two flower girls at left are Josephine Munz and Jean Somers. The bridesmaids, left to right, are: Mrs. Clarence Dillon, Winifred Thorndike, Ruth Lovering, Ann Tuckerman, Priscilla Saltonstall, Martha Means, Alice Belmont, Sally Sprague and Eloise Weld. The bride and groom, sons of the first families, are shown at right.

FLAX INDUSTRY IN STATE HAS GROWN

of Salem have totaled $188,503. Prisoners' payroll in 1930 was $33,787 or 155,148 employed days at a rate of 25 cents a day.
553 grew flax in the Willamette valley who did business with the state in 1930, selling their flax here, totaled 523.
Cold as figures are, these summaries indicate the extent to which the state flax industry has developed in recent years. Like the snowball rolling down hill, it has gathered speed and size as it rolled.
More important still, in the last year it has gathered a deficit as it rolled. In 1930 $220,000 was secured from the emergency board and before that $100,000 was borrowed from a Portland bank, both courses bringing wide censure through subsequent investigation. The trouble was of course the high price contracted for the 1930 crop which turned out to be one of $741 tons average $36 in cost to the industry and calling for an outlay in August and September of $214,597. This brought the industry up on its haunches, as it were, precipitated the legislative investigation, was the most salient reason for Barram's dismissal and led to a marked retrenchment in flax acreage planted during the last spring and to hurried liquidation of existing inventories of tow and fibre with the view to providing funds to pay for the crop to be harvested this summer.

LOAN ASSOCIATION DEAL DEEMED VOID

The Federal Savings and Loan association cannot legally invest in mortgages of the Prudential Savings and Loan association, and refuse to pay the maturity certificates and withdrawal notices of its stockholders, after legal demand has been made for such payment, according to an opinion handed down by Attorney General Van Winkle Monday.
"The building and loan supervisor has authority to act and should withhold his approval of the proposed loan or transfer of funds and securities," read the opinion. The opinion was requested by James Mott, state corporation commissioner.
In another opinion the attorney general held that tuberculosis tests made by federal, state or federal-state accredited veterinarians, if performed in a manner approved by the state live-stock sanitary board, will comply with the requirements of the state statute.
"Compensation of such veterinarians making the tests cannot be allowed from the county or any other state funds," the attorney general held.
This opinion was requested by Dr. W. H. Lytle, state veterinarian.
Another opinion held that water-masters are employees of the state and are subject to the law limiting compensation for the operation of privately owned automobiles to six cents per mile. The opinion was requested by the state reclamation commissioner.

POSTAL WORKER IS CALLED BY DEATH

Miss Estelle Kaylor, 58, for many years a resident of Salem and for the past 25 years employed in the local postoffice, passed away yesterday afternoon at a local hospital.
Miss Kaylor had been seriously ill for nearly a week, and for some weeks prior to that time she had not been able to be at her desk at the postoffice. Last winter she underwent an operation from which she never fully recovered.
She leaves a sister, Mrs. I. Conklin of Marion; a brother, Frank Kaylor of Salem route five; two nieces, Mrs. Trubert Henderson, Salem, and Mrs. Claude Richards of National City, Calif.; and a nephew, Homer J. Conklin of Salem.
Funeral arrangements have not been completed. The remains are at the Clough-Barrick mortuary.

PEOPLE... who are news

der President Taft and special representative of President Coolidge in Nicaragua in trying days of 1927. On those assignments, and as governor general of the Philippines in the last two years of the Coolidge administration, he followed a characteristic method of work. He still does. It is to mass the data on the problem confronting him, then to shut himself off and study until conclusions are reached.
The absoluteness of that procedure is so accepted that neither at the state department nor at home does one dare disturb these concentrations. If President Hoover should happen to want to reach him at such a time, there's no telling exactly how he could.
Likelihood of that is remote, however.

MR. STIMSON prefers the silent hours of early morning for study. His home at "Woodley," in the fashionable Cathedral avenue section, has shown a light in his window many a time when the milkman was making his rounds.
The evenings frequently find his home ablaze with lights. He and Mrs. Stimson relish the gaiety of social life among the official and diplomatic sets. Never does he choose those hours to work.
Month in and out, the breakfast hour in 7:45. Now and again the secretary rides part of the way to his department and walks the rest. Sometimes, too, it is the other way around, with his chauffeur meeting him half way to his office.
In his dark, he keeps a finger on the pulse of the world through communications with American emissaries abroad and the give-and-take that is diplomacy here. Especially so dramatic has been this government's action on behalf of international finances by proposing to defer war debts and reparations collections for a year beginning July 1.

BATTLE FLARES IN COAL MINE STRIKE

PITTSBURGH, June 22—(AP)—Strike in the western coal fields of western Pennsylvania, West Virginia and eastern Ohio flared to a higher pitch today and claimed the life of one man, the first to die in the current mine strike.
Hope that the strike would not continue beyond the incipient stages of orderly demonstration and minor clashes, seemed dissipated as strikers and sympathizers at Wildwood, near here, and country officers engaged in open battle.
Pete Zegira, a miner, formerly employed by the Butler Consolidated Coal Mining Co. operating at Wildwood, was slain and nine were wounded. A deputy sheriff was hurt slightly.
The Pittsburgh Terminal Coal corporation, operating eight mines in the district, announced this afternoon that a temporary agreement had been signed with the United Mine Workers of America, looking to a settlement of the strike at the company's plants. Other elements in the situation, however, made it seem there was little likelihood of peace soon in the troubled areas.

BRITAIN PROMPT IN SUPPORTING HOOVER

LONDON, June 22—(AP)—Price Minister Ramsay MacDonald, speaking in the house of commons today, announced the government of Great Britain cordially welcomed President Hoover's "striking declaration" of entering a one-year moratorium on inter-governmental debts.
"His majesty's government cordially welcomes the striking declaration made by President Hoover," he said, "for their part they desire at once to state that they subscribe wholeheartedly to the principle of the president's proposal and are prepared to cooperate in the elaboration of details with a view to giving it practical effect without delay."
Stanley Baldwin, leader of the conservative party, and David Lloyd George, the liberal leader, concurred with Mr. MacDonald, assuring support of all political parties to the government's attitude.
South Mississippi farmers this year have agreed to plant only pedigreed seed.

FORTY ON SEARCH FOR MISSING MAN

ments to be made as he, Grundmann, made the money. Grundmann was interested in gladiolus and iris growing. He has quite a planting on the lower land of the farm.
Mr. Brinkmier, in telling the story Sunday afternoon, said that Grundmann did not understand farm conditions here and was discouraged because of the dryness. Brinkmier said, however, that his nephew was exceptionally well pleased with Silverton and had remarked this spring that he was perfectly willing to spend the remainder of his life here.
Gone Two Weeks; No Alarm at First
The day of his disappearance was two weeks ago Sunday. Brinkmier had lain down to take a nap after the Sunday noon dinner. Grundmann was about the place at the time. When the older man awakened the young one was nowhere about. Brinkmier calls that at first he was not alarmed, thinking his nephew had gone into the woods. But when he failed to return that night or all day Monday he became alarmed and informed Mayor L. C. Eastman.
Some endeavor has been made to locate the young man since, according to Mr. Brinkmier, had left in his old clothing and had no money with him. He carried Mr. Brinkmier's watch. Mr. Brinkmier says he cannot imagine where the secretary's action on behalf of international finances by proposing to defer war debts and reparations collections for a year beginning July 1.

LEGION WILL ELECT DELEGATES TONIGHT

Election of Capital Post No. 9's official delegates to the state legion convention at Corvallis will be outstanding on the business program of the post tonight at Miller's hall. Nominations for the delegates were made a fortnight ago.
J. T. Delaney, general chairman of the July 4 all-day celebration, will make an extensive report on the legion's plans for the celebration which is the first to be held in Salem since 1919.
Senator Charles L. McNary has been chosen as the speaker of the day. Governor Meier will formally welcome the Elks' caravan of 1000 cars on its way from California to the national convention in Seattle.

Rufus G. Holman voted with the governor. Later in the day he said he had had nothing to do with preliminary outlay on the vault. Governor Meier on March 16 in board of control meeting seconded a motion employing Bartholomew and later on March 26 was one of the signers of the contract. Bids for the new vault were to have been opened today. Seven hundred and fifty dollars expense was incurred in drawing up plans.
Later in the session Governor Meier informed other members of the board that Oregon's motor vehicle license plates were costing more than similar plates purchased in other states. He said he was investigating the matter and would present a report.
Hoss took issue with Meier and declared his information was erroneous.
Meier replied that if he found the cost of plates too high he would inform the public. "I think the public should know," he said. Hoss then asked Meier if he would admit it if he were wrong. "I usually do," Meier replied.

Dr. C. C. Dauer of the Marion county department of health has been invited to present a short paper before the health section of the World Federation of Education associations, which will meet in Denver, Colo. July 27 to August 1. Dr. Dauer has accepted and will be in attendance at the conference, which is held every two years.
The invitation extended Dr. Dauer came partly as recognition of his special interest in development of the health education program in the high school here and partly from the fact that the health department is an outgrowth of one of the Commonwealth Fund's child health demonstrations.
During the past year Dr. Dauer has developed a correlation of health work with American history in his subjects.

That proportion of the theatre-going public which has cause to be interested in small children—fathers and mothers, big brothers and big sisters of boys or girls that are small now or used to be—will have difficulty in holding back a few tiny tears as Jackie Cooper performs in "Young Donovan's Kid" at the Elsinore tonight and tomorrow night.
Jackie's adventures as adopted brother of a tough gangster, Richard Dix, are some of them heart-tearing but it doesn't take even the sad parts to cause child-loving hearts to palpitate a little, for he's just about the most adorable youngster ever, and it's no trick at all to put him in the place of one's own young hopeful. What's more, he is a wonder as a juvenile actor.
The picture is full of the thrills which only gangster films can provide, and Richard Dix as the head-man of misdirected virtues is really the center of its story, but Jackie is the lad who gets the tears, which are not all tears of sorrow.

Political circles also displayed much interest in whether the American government had discussed the suspension proposal with France before making it public. This took concrete form in the announcement by Louis Marin, right leader and foe of Briand's politics, that he would interpellate the government on whether Briand had been consulted by the United States and if so what Briand had told Washington.
