

Local News Briefs

Poling's Son Here — Dr. C. S. Poling, pastor of Westminster Presbyterian church at Bloomfield, N. Y., with his wife and two children, arrived in Salem Sunday noon for a visit with his parents, Dr. and Mrs. C. C. Poling, of the First Evangelical church. Mrs. Poling's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dave Grant, reside at Falls City. The visitors travel through by automobile in six and a half days. They will spend their vacation in the west. Another son of Dr. C. C. Poling, Dr. D. A. Poling, is expected here late next month to spend a few days enroute east after attending the Endeavor convention in San Francisco.

Hally Today — A rally of all girls who plan to attend the summer camps for Girl Reserves at Camp Santali has been called for 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Elizabeth Gallagher, Y. W. C. A. secretary, announced last night. Parents too are urged to attend, as well as girls who have and have not registered. A program has been arranged by the following leaders: Joyce Phelps, Agnes and Eileen Moore, Helen Brethaupt, Helen Cochran, Gladys Taylor and Dorothy Hutchings.

See Russ Smith, Center and Church for tire bargains.

Ackerman Here — Glenn Ackerman, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Ackerman, with his wife and two sons, Gene and Gordon, arrived here yesterday by motor from Los Angeles to spend the vacation period. Ackerman was prominent in Salem high school and Oregon State college. For the past two years he has been head coach at the Los Angeles junior college, where he has made a scientific record. He will return to his duties there about the middle of August.

Special Meetings — Rev. W. H. Caldwell, evangelist of the Christian and Missionary alliance with headquarters at St. Paul, Minn., will conduct a short series of services this week at the Alliance Gospel tabernacle at 655 Ferry street. Services will be held each evening at 8 o'clock, except Saturday evening. Special singing and music with interesting sermon topics are announced. The subject for this evening will be "Love of God, Home and Country," or "The Need of the Hour."

Employment — Only 30 of the 195 men who registered for work with the free federal employment service bureau here last week failed to find work, according to weekly report of Sim Phillips, director. Of the 265 men who got work, 247 went to labor in fields. Sixty women found work, with 73 registered. There were 82 calls for women workers and 223 calls for help of men.

Break in House — Deputy Sheriff Bert Smith was at Donald yesterday investigating robbery of the A. A. Huffman home. Huffman has been in the south the past two years. About a week ago Bill Brun, a neighbor who looks over the property occasionally, discovered that the house had been entered. Three guns are known to have been taken, and probably other things as a number of boxes and trunks had been ransacked. Huffman, an ex-army man, had made quite a hobby of collecting guns and army clothing, it is said. Deputy Smith is of opinion that the theft is work of boys.

Fraternis Picnic — The Fraternis club will hold a picnic dinner and dance at Hazel Green Thursday, beginning at 8:30 o'clock. Members of the club are each privileged to bring a friend, women to be admitted without charge. The club has about 50 young business and professional men as members. It is especially urged that members who have not been attending for some time attend the event Thursday. Those without transportation means should call Luke Shields at 4181 or 4182.

Many Have TAT — The large percentage of children who have the disease of the county department of health immunization program was brought to the attention of the health officers recently. Children who are taking swimming at the Y. M. C. A. tank were thought to have contracted the disease with diphtheria, and health officers found in checking the group that out of the 34 members all but five had been given the toxin-antitoxin treatment against diphtheria. The five had either contracted the disease when immunization was offered in the schoolrooms.

Worth $21,630 — The estate of Giles E. Thomas, who died at his home in Starkey this month, is worth $21,630, of which $13,630 is personal property, according to petition for administration filed with the county clerk yesterday. Charles D. Starkey has been appointed administrator in a resolution of property in Marion county are A. P. Kirsch, Henry Stegmann and Delbert Harrington. Property in Linn county will be appraised by George A. Sandner, Carl Titus and Bertel Bates.

Did and did not — "She didn't signal" and "I signalled very plainly" are the respective versions of Don McDaniel, 170 North Front, and Mrs. Don Smith, route six, of a traffic accident which occurred Sunday south on Center street. Mrs. Smith says he was traveling 40 miles per hour and she was traveling 10 per hour when she turned into a side road. To avoid hitting her McDaniel had to take a ditch.

Girl Hurt — Little Ida Ball Hampton was slightly injured Sunday when a coupe driven by Bryant Hampton and truck driven by R. L. Gibbins got in a mix up near the beacon south of town, according to report to the sheriff. Gibbins says Hampton drove in front of his truck, hitting the side of truck and turning the truck over.

Spilled Milk — Cases of canned milk were scattered to the four winds Sunday night when a 15-ton trailer attached to a Pierce line truck driven by F. A. Fish hit a concrete culvert about 14 miles south, according to report of the investigating traffic officer. No one was hurt.

Overhaul Plant — Renovation of the paving plant at St. Paul was started Monday. Roadmaster Frank Johnson reported. The plant will furnish the hard stuff for the job on the Champeeg road from Aral's corners to connection with the St. Paul-Woodburn road.

Not Smallpox — A reported case of smallpox in a Jefferson home proved to be chickenpox, states Dr. V. A. Douglas, county health officer, who was summoned to see the adult patient. In severe cases, and especially with adults, chickenpox closely resembles smallpox.

COMMERCIAL CARS ALLOWED ON BEACH

Hal E. Hoss, secretary of state, Monday sent a letter to the Clatsop county court, in which he said no attempt would be made by his office or the state highway department to prohibit commercial vehicles from using the beaches.

The original statement suggesting regulation of the beaches merely related to recreational centers. Hoss said in his letter, "It certainly would be unfair to prohibit commercial vehicles from using the beaches where no other highway facilities are available."

Hoss informed the court that it might be well to hold a conference in connection with the use of the beaches in Clatsop county. This conference probably would be held in Salem.

CAR CRASHES TREE, THREE ARE INJURED

Theodore Rowland, 955 Hoyt street, Salem, sustained painful cuts on his hands and his sister, Mrs. Stella Gabbert, received lacerations about her face and body bruises, when the auto Rowland was driving crashed into a large tree in front of the Oregon-Washington Water Service company's office on South Commercial street early Sunday afternoon. Mrs. W. Llenor, Sherman and Electric streets, also was injured.

In Rowland's report to the police he stated that he had started to pass a car driven by Frank P.

THE state reclamation commission yesterday afternoon considered some of the problems of the Ochoco Irrigation district, and moved to intervene for the settlers asking the California bondholders to extend its 3-year moratorium on the bonded indebtedness payments to five years. Douglas Gram, attorney for the district, and several settlers appeared before the commission.

Charles Stricklin, state engineer, is secretary of the reclamation commission, which has reorganized problems of several districts before it. In the Ochoco district, comprising about 22,000, the indebtedness totals $1,800,000 of which the California bondholders hold about $900,000 of the bonds.

Hal E. Hoss, secretary of state, has improved his offices in the state capitol building more than 100 per cent. Hal's office now has a cool and comfortable, as well as dignified appearance by the addition of a new rug, drapes, desk and chairs to match.

Ben T. Osborne, secretary of the state federation of labor, was here yesterday to attend the funeral of Mrs. Charles Gram, wife of the state labor commissioner, who died Saturday. With Osborne were Mrs. Osborne, W. H. Fitzgerald, Ed Stack and Fred Ross, all of Portland, who came to pay last respects of Mrs. Gram.

A new name will be given the state printing building as the result of the recommendation of the Salem-chamber of commerce. The building will now become known as the "Agricultural building" to designate it from the state office building. The new department of agriculture will occupy the second floor of the building after July 1.

The Polk county "model farm" which was one of the three which the state launched in its costly experiment a decade or more ago, yesterday was sold to the state by Whitney L. Bolee estate as part payment of the state's indebtedness to the estate. The farm was valued at about $7500. The transaction writes "Hann" on the model farm as far as the state board of control is concerned.

The other two farms, one in Douglas county, and the other in the Ochoco district, also have been disposed of. The foreclosure suit was filed by creditors against the Douglas farm, and James Stewart was authorized to sell the assets of the Ochoco farm, to get what he could out of that property.

Occurrences and Gossip at the center of Oregon's state government

Mrs. William Einzig, wife of the new purchasing agent and secretary of the board of control, was a visitor here yesterday to seek a home. As soon as they are located the family will move down here from Portland. Einzigs have three children.

The board of control yesterday placed on file a letter from the East Side Commercial club of Portland against the moving of departments from Portland to Salem. The letter not only asked the state not to move departments from Portland but argued Portland be considered as a 'location for other state departments, some of these presumably now at Salem.

Senator Charles L. McNary and Congressman W. C. Hawley, both of Salem, yesterday voiced approval of Hoover's plan for a moratorium of one year on foreign debts to the United States. Both however, voiced opposition to a special session of congress, which has been suggested by several members.

Bookkeeping departments of the state colleges and normal schools will be concentrated at Salem, under the state board of higher education, it was learned here yesterday when a request for space for this activity was requested of the state board of control. The matter of space was deferred until word was received from the education board.

Oregon's army will return home today. The boys, about 2100, and their wives, which were killed by their own gang on suspicion of treachery, 12 were in penitentiaries, three were maimed by police bullets and reduced to beggary, six were moral and physical derelicts, six were still "moderately successful" crime executives and three were engaged in crimes of violence. Only four had reformed. The other four were unaccounted for.

The end of the era of heroized crime exponents is at hand, Johnson predicted.

"Capone will be the last well advertised gang leader in Chicago and, I hope, in the United States," he said. "Every large American city has its local Capone. For all of them, we can read the handwriting on the wall."

Youth Warned Against False Glamor of Crime by U. S. Attorney

CHICAGO, June 22—(AP)—The false glamor of organized crime was torn aside in a message directed to the boys and girls of America over a national radio hookup tonight by George E. Q. Johnson, United States attorney, who brought about the indictment of Alphonse Capone.

Capone pleaded guilty to 5,000 charges and now faces sentence. "When you deal with organized crime at first hand," said Johnson, "you learn that it is ugly and sordid. The persons who profit by it and give expression to their illicit profits in gaudy clothing and flashy cars exist only as butterflies. Their life ends in disaster."

Transfer of the glamor and romance of the wild west, which thrilled the youth of his generation, to gangs and gang leaders, Johnson called a "regrettable" condition that has grown up in the last ten years.

Gigantic enterprises, great inventions and scientific achievements, which inspired and dashed, were recommended by Johnson to take the place of the false inspiration of glorified crime and criminals.

Traces fate of 47 in one Gang

He traced the history of one typical gang of 47 men, the eldest 26 years old when it formed soon after the World war.

In 10 years, he said, five were killed by police, four were killed by their own gang on suspicion of treachery, 12 were in penitentiaries, three were maimed by police bullets and reduced to beggary, six were moral and physical derelicts, six were still "moderately successful" crime executives and three were engaged in crimes of violence. Only four had reformed. The other four were unaccounted for.

The end of the era of heroized crime exponents is at hand, Johnson predicted.

"Capone will be the last well advertised gang leader in Chicago and, I hope, in the United States," he said. "Every large American city has its local Capone. For all of them, we can read the handwriting on the wall."
