

EXTRA SESSION CALL REFUSED

Bennett Urges Governor Quit 'Petty Larceny Stuff' He Asserts Later

Senator J. E. Bennett of Portland conferred with Governor Julius L. Meier with reference to calling an extra session of the legislature with Bennett thought necessary in order to solve the depression in Oregon.

Bennett had proposed the state issue $50,000,000 bonds to loan the money to "substantial citizens," the idea being to finance business recovery.

"I am now working on a plan whereby I expect to increase the turnover of Oregon products at least $35,000,000 a year," Governor Meier said.

Governor Meier also informed Bennett that he already had reduced materially the cost of state government, and that further reductions were contemplated.

"We'll see about that," Governor Meier replied.

Bennett's proposal, as outlined before to Governor Meier, follows: Issuance of $50,000,000 of bonds, which would be loaned on improved real property at a low rate of interest.

Tax on chain stores now or hereafter operating in the state of Oregon.

Downward revision of the motor vehicle license fees.

Legislation tending to increase the use of Oregon products.

Laws that would assist in reducing the high cost of government.

Enactment of such other legislation as the governor might suggest.

Claims Citizens Will Lose Homes

Bennett declared that the state was in a serious condition and that many persons would lose their homes and other property unless financial relief is forthcoming.

He suggested that the money derived from the sale of the bonds be handled by the state treasurer, and that only first mortgages be accepted as security for loans.

Bennett referred to the Portland banks as "paw shops."

"If there is any fault to find with the Portland banks it is because the persons in charge are not bankers," Governor Meier replied.

At the outset of the conference Governor Meier expressed himself as opposed to a special legislative session.

Once in two years is often enough for the legislature to meet," continued Governor Meier.

Governor Meier then informed Bennett that he already had two of the latter's proposals under consideration.

Bonney Allowed Time to Produce Defense Witness

The affairs of A. A. Bonney remained tangled when he asked for time to secure his witnesses in the trial in which he is accused of using vile and obscene language in a public place.

He entered a plea of guilty to a charge of securing an angling license without first obtaining a gun license as is required of an alien. Sentence was continued.

DIRECTOR REELECTED

GERVAIS, June 23—An election in Union high school district No. 1 was held Monday. J. A. Ferschweiler, whose term expired, was the only candidate whose name appeared on the ballot.

Ferschweiler received 26 and Sam H. Brown two. The school board held a meeting during the afternoon.

CORKINS REVERSED IN LAND TAX CASE

Ruling for Irrigation District Overturned and New Trial Faced

The state supreme court, in an opinion written by Justice Rand, Tuesday reversed Judge Orlando M. Corkins of the Klamath Falls circuit court, in a suit brought by the Enterprise Irrigation district to foreclose certain delinquent district tax certificates for assessments involving property of the Enterprise Land and Investment company.

The lower court held for the irrigation district. The case is remanded to the circuit court for retrial.

"If the plaintiff desires to proceed further," read the opinion, "the testimony taken may be used upon the trial of the cause and such further testimony may be offered as the parties may desire."

Other opinions handed down by the supreme court Tuesday follow: William Skinner vs. Jordan Valley Irrigation district, appellant; appeal from Malheur county. Suit to establish right of plaintiff to use of water for irrigation. Decree of Judge W. W. Wood affirmed and modified in opinion by Chief Justice Bean.

State of Oregon, for the use and benefit of Albert Pegan and Joseph Gassman vs. American Surety Company of New York, and others, appellants; appeal from Multnomah county. Action to recover on surety bond. Opinion by Justice Brown. Judge Louis P. Hewitt affirmed.

In Hardware Case vs. Oregon Junk and Hardware company, appellant; appeal from Multnomah county. Suit to recover for services and materials. Opinion by Justice Campbell. Judge Robert R. Tucker affirmed.

Lorenz Company vs. Day and Company, and others, respondents and appellants; appeal from Klamath county. Motion to strike from brief and for rehearing and motion for modification. Opinion by the court. Motion for rehearing and modification of former opinion overruled.

Under the Dome...

Occurrences and Gossip at the center of Oregon's state government

There will be no special session of the state legislature. Governor Meier yesterday refused the request of Senator J. E. Bennett of Portland to call a session to consider his seven-point solution of the present depression in the state.

The governor said he had two years with a session every two years.

Several of the points in Bennett's proposal to relieve suffering in the state, have already been undertaken by the administration, the governor stated. Meier admitted the situation was serious but he stated this "was no time for a session of the legislature."

He stated he would give Bennett's proposals some thought.

Bennett's seven points are: floating $50,000,000 bond issue to be used in making loans on real property; tax on chain stores; revision of automobile licenses downward; legislation to encourage use of home-made products; reduction in governmental costs; memorializing "well-to-do" to withdraw from labor market; and to hear proposals of governor.

The state dairy and food division of the agricultural department, of which J. D. Michie is head, will be in its new quarters in the new agricultural building in Salem the first of next week.

The office is moving to Salem, and no change in orders will be made.

In the matter of the estate of Harriet Liville, deceased; Ethel Allan Copenhaver, contestant and appellant, vs. Mary Powers, Vanessa Dunlap and Nora Powers, executrix, contestes and respondent; Harriet Copenhaver and Flora Copenhaver, contestes and appellants; appeal from Multnomah county. Suit to contest will. Opinion by Justice Campbell. Judge George Tazewell affirmed.

Petitions for rehearing denied in Lorenz vs. Day and Company; Jacob vs. Pacific Exchange Lumber company; All vs. Portland. Motion to modify opinion denied in relation to estate of Marie Banfield.

The new police department has something new to play with. The teletype demonstration for the benefit of police departments of the entire Pacific coast is on this week.

Jerry Owen, secretary of the World War Veterans' Aid commission, was due back last night from his trip to Sacramento where he went last week to confer with the California secretary. He was accompanied on his trip, which he made by auto, by Mrs. Owen. Jerry will move to Salem from Portland as soon as he can find a location.

A. H. Averill, state insurance commissioner, returned yesterday from his two weeks trip east where he attended several conferences of insurance commissioners and the convention of commissioners at Chicago. He stated the September convention of state insurance heads will be held in Portland.

Russell M. Brooks, of Salem, who is now attached to the diplomatic service in London, was a visitor at the capitol yesterday. He has been with the service now 12 years and has received several awards for his service. He was on his vacation which he stated extended over a period of only 60 days.

BILLIONS ADDED TO COMMODITY VALUES

NEW YORK, June 23—(AP)—A financial and business world, weary and deflected from the seemingly endless ordeal of hard times, was revitalized Monday.

Billions were added to security and commodity values in the great exchanges of the world, as President Hoover's proposal for dropping the heavy burden of war debts for one year was seized as the most pleasing piece of good news in a long time.

Leaders in finance acknowledge that the news may not be digested as joyfully as it was devoured, but held high hopes that it might mark a turning point in a slow change from lean to fatter years.

In Wall street, in Berlin, London, Rome, Tokio, Shanghai, security and commodity prices leaped upward and even in Paris, although that capital was somewhat cool toward the debt proposal.

Gus Mancuso, Cardinal catcher, studied dancing last winter in an effort to improve his footwork behind the plate.
