

CANNERY WORK GOING SLOWER

Between Seasons of Loganberry and Blackberry Pack Cuts Output

WOODBURN, July 9.—With the loganberry and raspberry crops virtually finished, work at the Ray-Brown cannery in Woodburn has become slack, and it is thought that Saturday will see the close of the loganberry harvest for about three weeks, when the blackberries will be ready. Although many persons are still being employed, they are only working a few hours a day. The night crew is still working. Wednesday definitely marked the end of the loganberry harvest when it was announced that the cannery would not receive any more of the berries. The recent hot weather has burned the berries to such an extent that most of the fruit put up recently was barreled.

Very few raspberries are being received. No more raspberries are being shipped to the cannery from Gresham. As high as four truckloads of raspberries were received daily during the peak of the season. This year's raspberry and loganberry pack was very satisfactory, according to cannery officials. It is said that more raspberries and loganberries were put up this year than last year. Work will be in earnest about the first part of August, when blackberries and pears will be packed. Reports are that the blackberry crop this year will be good. No positive statements concerning this year's crop have yet been received from the cannery where the local cannery gets most of its Bartlett's. Great quantities of Montmorency cherries are being received at the cannery at present. They are all pitted before being canned.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Applestone of Seattle with friends from San Francisco were recent guests at the LaRant home. The party proceeded on from here to San Francisco and Mr. and Mrs. Applestone made another stopover at the LaRant home on the return trip to Seattle.

WATCH POLITICAL POT EAGERLY

Like the three sturdy legs which uphold the kettle usually pictured as a political pot, Franklin D. Roosevelt, Alfred E. Smith and John J. Raskob stand as the three pillars supporting the structure of the democratic party. Which one of this triumvirate can exert the greatest strength on his party will determine the flavor of the porridge which the democrats are brewing as the piece de resistance at the 1932 national convention. Governor Roosevelt's supporters feel apprehensive lest former Governor Smith's silence on the question of the nomination indicates his own ambition to seek it. Raskob, as democratic national chairman, is credited with holding the key to the entire situation. It is felt he may force Smith to work for and accept the nomination a second time to support Raskob's wet views. And the political pot keeps merrily simmering on.

HISTORY EXCURSION PLANNED SATURDAY

Ancient Burial Grounds in Linn County, Caves To be Visited

OREGON STATE COLLEGE, July 9.—A special tour of more than a hundred prehistoric burial grounds along the Calapooia river in Linn county, the birthplace of the United Presbyterian denomination at Oakville and the Cascadia caves, conducted by Dr. John B. Horner, professor of historical research here, has been arranged for next Saturday, July 11. The excursion, which will include summer session students from all parts of the United States as well as anyone else interested in Oregon history, will leave from the Memorial Union building at 8 o'clock Saturday morning. The trippers will visit the mother church of the United Presbyterian denomination at Oakville at 8:30. This is the oldest psalm-singing congregation west of the Rocky mountains, according to Dr. Horner, and is the birthplace of one of the most active missionary churches in the world.

GREY'S AIDE

Coming safely through a tour of the Linn county area, Miss Campbell, literary assistant to Zane Grey, suffered a scalp wound while aboard the liner Makura while on the way home. She fell while playing shuffleboard. "It's the principle of the thing—not the pain," that Miss Campbell objects to, she says.

Logan Growers Indignant Over Drastic Price Cut

LIBERTY, July 9.—Many of the local loganberry producers are indignant over the recent action of the Libby McNeill & Libby company, who declare the loganberries are of such poor quality that they cannot receive them at the price stipulated in their contract, and offer a flat price of three cents a pound. Many of the old growers feel that the berries are of as good quality as they were at the first of the season, and believe that the market fluctuations are the basis of grading the quality of their fruit. The need of a different form of contract that will bind the buyer as well as the producer is being discussed in many members of the association.

Convention is Well Attended

TURNER, July 9.—About a thousand persons attended the recent Christian church convention held at the Turner tabernacle and campgrounds. On Sunday Rev. Jesse Bader of Indianapolis gave an inspirational address on world missions. The cafeteria dining room, conducted by the adult Bible class members of the Bungalow Christian church, proved highly popular throughout the convention.

Mr. Finney spent his young manhood in Gervais. He is at present connected with an American electric concern in Tokyo, having gone there about a year ago. Mrs. Finney is a niece of John Klene of Gervais and Mrs. John Klene of Salem.

FORMER SILVERTON COUPLE HONORED

Mr. and Mrs. A. Whitlock Celebrate Golden Wedding Anniversary

LEBANON, July 9.—Mrs. Winifred Lowe entertained at her home in Lebanon, Sunday, with a one o'clock dinner in celebration of the golden wedding anniversary of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Whitlock. On Sunday, July 3, 1881, Mr. and Mrs. Whitlock were married at Silverton and on Sunday, July 5, 1931, close friends and relatives gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. N. C. Lowe to observe the beginning of the 50th year of wedded life. Throughout the day and evening flowers and messages were sent and friends called to congratulate them. Baskets and bowls of artistically arranged flowers added attractiveness to the living rooms of the Lowe home, serving and assisting about the rooms were Mrs. Elanathan A. Lowe, Miss Margaret Myers and Miss Elizabeth Thurmon. Golden Theme Used In the dining room gold and white formed a dainty color motif for table decorations. Place cards were a golden wedding bell. Covers were placed for the honor guests and Mr. and Mrs. Elanathan A. Lowe, Mrs. Susan Michelson, Miss Margaret Myers, all of Lebanon, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Porter, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Watson, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Woodburn Streets To be Repaired

WOODBURN, July 9.—Arrangements for patching holes made in the streets of Woodburn by crews laying water mains were made at a meeting of the Woodburn city council Tuesday night. Patching material will be procured from the county plant in Saint Paul and the patching crew hired by the county will do the necessary work. The building committee of the council was instructed to inspect the roof of the city library and decide if repairs should be made. City Recorder George Beach was ordered by Mayor Broyles to see that a stretch of sidewalk on Grant street be repaired by the owner. Constable William Miller, who was recently arrested by Marshal Ruzika on a charge of disorderly conduct, appeared before the council and told his side of the affair. A sidewalk for the west side of Cupid's Court was asked, but no action was taken. The street commissioner was asked to investigate and make a report at the next meeting of the council.
