LICENSE ISSUANCE RATE IS SLUGGISH

Only 43 per Cent so far in This Month, of July, 1930 Record

For the first ten days of July only 43 per cent as many applications for auto licenses have been received at the state auto license department as in the first ten days of July, 1930. Figures at the secretary of state's office yesterday revealed 17,810 registrations of pieces of mail by the auto department last year compared to 7900 pieces this year. To date approximately 165,000 new 1931-1932 licenses have been issued. Estimates at the auto department call for the issuance of 2,000,000 more by the end of the month, bringing the total to 185,000.

Secretary of State Hois said the per unit cost of license issuance would be somewhat extended this year by the extension of time motorists were taken in obtaining their licenses. Ordinarily Hois is able to prune his license staff to a minimum by the time the July 10 arrives but this year license applications keep straggling in and a fairly good sized staff must be maintained. A heavy turn in of applications is expected by the end of the month. The simplified application form used this year has greatly expedited license issuance and cut down the costs of administering the state auto license department.

Hois said examination of the records for 1930 showed arrests for failure to have the new licenses made by July 2, 1930, with a number of arrests made in Portland July 2. At that time strong editorial support of prompt payment was given Hois by the Morning Oregonian for his promptness in collecting monies due the state.

Enjoys Yellowstone Park — Letters and photographs have been received from "Jack" Hughes, of the Bluebird confectionery, with the word that he enjoys his trip through Yellowstone national park. At a time of writing he was at Cheyenne, Wyo., where his daughter lives. He expected to go to Denver soon. Although he wrote in the letter, "I don't see how he will return to Salem early in August."

Plan Sunday Services — To make plans for the Sunday afternoon park services which will be held throughout the summer, the committee of the Salem ministerial association met at the Y. M. C. A. yesterday afternoon. Members of the committee are: C. A. Kells, Rev. E. Earle Parker, Rev. C. Birchler, Rev. Hugh B. Fouke, Jr., and Rev. D. J. Howe.

Most get Mumps — Mumps cases, nine new ones in all, were most numerous of communicable diseases for Marion county in the week ending July, reported by the state department of health. Next in order were: tuberculosis, typhoid fever, diphtheria, measles, three, and diphtheria and chickenpox, one each.

Occurrences and Gossip at the center of Oregon's state government

THE Southern Pacific was defendant in a log rate case here yesterday, and which will be continued Monday, brought by the Evans Auto Loading company of Marshfield, J. H. Hattery, Frank Hoath and Charles Fox, of the company, along with Fess Forrester of the Coos Bay Lumber company were here from Coos Bay to testify.

Senator Isaac Staples of Portland was a visitor at the state capitol yesterday. He declared the time was ripe to hold a special session for tax relief and was of the opinion that progress would be made in the movement started by Governor Julius L. Meier. He believed a special session would meet the approval of the public.

Indications that such a session would be held has grown stronger the past few days, and political observers are confident that the governor will find need to call the session. If such is the case it is predicted that August 17, 24 or 31 will be the starting date. The session would last about a week.

Yesterday's dispatch from Washington stated President Hoover would have a spokesman write the stories for the press. The situation is unfortunate and he may find even more stories not to his liking.

DANGER OF IMPURE MILK POINTED OUT

Greater Problem in Rural Districts Than City, Board Observes

That residents of rural communities and small towns are in greater danger of contracting disease from contaminated milk supplies than are city dwellers, is pointed out in a bulletin published by the state board of health. It declares the importance of raw milk and cream being handled carefully by persons not to the public's liking as contrasted with an office open to the public view.

The removal by the governor of three members of the state board of aeronautics seems to be causing some dissatisfaction. Some say the governor cannot remove the appointees without cause. But the governor doesn't like the color of their eyes, he can establish sufficient cause to remove them from office.

There will be no concessions at Champeog park authorized by the board of control. A ruling by the attorney general states the board has no power to grant such concessions. Although the board is the only one which has authority over the provincial government park, that power is limited by law.

Industrial accidents in Oregon during the past week have been the lowest reported for any similar period this year. This is due either to fewer industrial plants in operation, or more caution. One death from less than 500 accidents occurred, the state industrial accident commission reported yesterday.

The time is approaching for the inauguration of Oregon's new state police system. Charles Pray, selected by the governor as superintendent of this organization, has been busy assembling his staff, and finds about a hundred applicants for every job. Pray is well liked around the statehouse where he has already established confidence in his leadership.

GOVERNOR ASSURED OF REMOVAL RIGHT

"The right to appoint carries with it the right to remove," Governor Julius L. Meier was told by the attorney-general's office before he removed three members of the state board of aeronautics, more caution. One death from Complaint arose from certain interests Friday on the basis that members of the board had been appointed for five year terms.

Precedent for this procedure occurred during Governor Pierce's administration in the removal of the state game commission whose term had not expired. The governor appointed Laurence Hickam, Mrs. Edna Christ-offerson and George Love of Portland, and Dr. Carl Nartliel of Baker. He removed Lee Eyerly of Salem, E. E. Barbutt and Basil B. Smith. Archie Roth, the fourth member replaced on the board, had previously removed from the state.

Mystery Pigeon Takes Flight From Near Scio

SCIO, July 10. — Circling the premises twice as though to recover its bearings, the "maverick" carrier pigeon which had been at the Fred Sommer farm near Scio since June 17 took up the air trail at 5:10 a. m. July 6 and pierced the atmosphere in its sudden flight southward on a mission yet as deep a mystery as when the little messenger took refuge for rest and recreation with the baby chicks at the Sommer farm three weeks ago.

On the metal leg band of the little bird were the number 637, the initials N. H. S., and the number 29. The tired little creature seemed to have completely revived during its stay here. With ample food and a good shelter with the farm poultry, the pigeon was well fitted to continue its air voyage to parts unknown. It will be interesting to know whether the messenger ever arrives at its intended destination.

The production of a clean milk is not difficult. It requires cleanliness in handling of utensils and the lingo of the product. Every process of clean methods in the handling of milk supply the bulletin continues:

It is entirely feasible to carry out a milk sanitation program on a county wide basis, with each town in the county bearing its portion of the expense, which should not be prohibitive, thus providing a method of enforcement for a standard, uniform system of control for each town. In this way the small towns and rural communities may enjoy the protection afforded by a properly controlled milk supply.

The responsibility of providing a potable milk rests with the individual towns, but it is entirely within the province of a state health department to furnish scientific advice and assistance to the municipalities within the state on matters pertaining to the enforcement of local regulations. Many city governments object to over-interference in local affairs by state and federal authorities, insisting that in so far as possible they be left to their own resources. Most of such towns, however, welcome advice and assistance in all things pertaining to proper conduct of their local affairs and milk control should be no exception.

With a group of towns in any county engaged in milk control, each town exercising its own functions of local government, profiting by the suggestions and experience of a state department, much of the present lack of milk control in small towns will be overcome and the state will be able to give invaluable assistance.

ASSASSIN

A Drinker of Hashish!
In eleventh-century Persia, a secret order was founded by Hassan Ben Sabbah, indulging in the use of the Oriental drug hashish, and, when under its influence, in the practice of secret murder. The murderous order of hashish came to be called hashish in the Arabic and from that origin comes our English word assassin.

SCOUTS TO LEAVE FRIDAY FOR CAMP

Fifty boy scouts of Cascade area will be taken Friday to Camp Santiam, located on the little north fork of the Santiam river above Mehama, for a two weeks' stay. The second camp period will start July 25.

Camp activities will be directed by O. P. West, scout executive for this area, with the assistance of Howard Zinsler, Roy Brady of Silverton, Ed Hays, John Pelkier and Grant E. DeCorah.

Two truck loads of supplies were taken to the camp Friday afternoon.

Flags Received For Decorating Graves of Vets

A shipment of flags to be used in decorating graves of war veterans, in accordance with a recent congressional act, has arrived at Salem post office. Arthur Gibbard, assistant postmaster, announces that a flag for funeral of a veteran may be procured from the office by showing his honorable discharge papers and making proper identification.

The act of congress provides that the government furnish a flag to drape the casket of veterans, and that these emblems be distributed through the post office of each county seat.

Horse in Well Provides Thrills

SCIO, July 10 — Rescuing a workhorse from 10 feet of cold water required only a short time and the expeditious efforts of a few men.

This was the experience of workmen at the Harry Johnston place in Scio a few days ago. Frank Pruitt was mowing hay there. In missing one well which he knew was there, he unintentionally drove too near another well, which he had not noticed. One of his horses broke through the lumber covering of the well and was precipitated into the water, rear legs downward. "The horse did not touch bottom but floated all the time he was in the well," one of the men said.

By heroic efforts the animal's head was kept above water by men on the outside until an improvised pulley was arranged, whereby the floundering horse was elevated from his dangerous dilemma, other horses being used in the hoisting process. The animal was not injured, it is stated.

Many men of many years of varied experience with horses have pronounced the Scio case the rarest within their knowledge.
