

Local News Briefs

Business Quiet—July doldrums descended on two branches of county government yesterday. Not a county appeared to ask for a marriage license and not a report of an auto accident was made at the county sheriff's office. Ordinarily there are several reports after a weekend. The county school superintendent likewise reported a moratorium on usual business, there being no visitors in the office. That gave deputies time to dig in on the annual reports of high schools which must be checked before tuition costs are assigned and payments for the year made.

No Appearance, Records—M. A. Smith who was arrested Saturday on charge of possession of beer, then released on $50 bail, and Wesley Ellis, 1670 North Church street, arrested Sunday on charge of not having a driver's license and of reckless driving, both cited to appear in municipal court Monday afternoon, failed to answer the charges, according to lack of court reports of disposition of their cases.

HEALTH WORK HERE STUDIED

Chief of African Council For Child Welfare is Visitor in Salem

After inspecting the equipment and interviewing the personnel of the Marion county health department here yesterday, Miss Marguerite McKenzie, organizing secretary of the South African National Council for Child Welfare, left for Portland and Canada, where she will spend further time studying child welfare work.

Since coming to the United States in April, Miss McKenzie has studied in New York and Washington, D. C., with health officials, and made an observation tour of the country, coming to Salem by the southern route. She reported that she was finding child welfare work confronting with the same problems the world over.

During her short stay in Salem, Miss McKenzie accompanied Miss Elizabeth Freeman, supervisor of nurses, on the latter's regular routine of the child welfare division work here.

By Race Admixture Although the Pacific northwest is not confronted with the problems of mixed races, Miss McKenzie said she had learned much from the organization methods employed here. From the south she gained what she considered basic points in handling the race problem.

With a population of one and one-half million whites, four million natives, one million mixed race and one-half million Asiatics in South Africa, served by but three consulting child health nurses and a clerical staff of three, the work in child welfare there is mostly educational and so far has been confined to the most necessary problems without much chance to follow up or note results, the visitor explained.

Four Badly Hurt, Three-Way Crash
JEFFERSON, July 13 — Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Scott and their daughter, Margaret, all of Portland, and T. L. Sutter, of Portland, in southern Oregon, were seriously injured here late Sunday night in an automobile accident involving three machines.

Scott with his wife and daughter were traveling south, with a trailer or loaded with household goods, enroute to Los Angeles. While they were stopped beside the road to repair a tire, a second machine driven by Sutter was compelled to come to a stop behind the Scott car on account of traffic coming from the opposite direction.

A loaded Pacific Express truck was traveling behind the two cars. The driver of the truck, unable to stop, swerved his machine in an attempt to get around the parked cars, sideswiped them forcing them into the ditch, practically demolishing the Sutter car as it was caught between the other two vehicles. The Scott car at the same time was completely wrecked, Margaret Scott being the most seriously injured in the crash receiving severe back injuries and bruises. Mr. and Mrs. Scott were cut and bruised and were taken to a near-by auto camp. Sutter continued on to Grants Pass by train, despite his injuries.

VET FINDS NEW ART IN GLASS

Harry A. Clanton, World War veteran of North Carolina, has discovered a new glass decorating process which has been described as revolutionary. An accidental explosion of chemicals that splattered a container with a marvelous pattern of variegated colors enabled Clanton to work out the new system. Two vases treated with the novel coloring process were brought to the Smithsonian Institution, Washington, D. C., where an official said he had never seen anything before like the remarkable color work. Clanton is shown with the vases.

DAMAGE SUIT OVER FATAL CRASH IS ON
A damage case seeking $20,000 general and $900 special damages from Carl Southworth, proprietor of the Willamette Valley Transfer company, escaped being thrown out of court on defendant's motion and will be in process of being tried as the circuit court, Judge L. H. McMahan presiding, adjourned last night.

It is expected that all today will be needed for taking of testimony. As soon as the first case is settled, in which William L. Clark, administrator of the estate of William H. Clark seeks damages, a companion suit will be tried in which Mrs. Clark, widow, seeks $9000 general and $314.50 special damages against the same defendant.

Testimony yesterday centered about the accident which occurred on the Pacific highway, about six miles south of Salem, October 9, 1930. The Clarks were driving in a small truck and claimed Southworth's truck was improperly driven when it collided with them. Clark met his death because of the accident, the plaintiff charges.

IMPROVEMENT OF ROAD IS FAVORED
Seventy-four residents of the Mt. Angel district want a county road west of that community improved and the county court, after seeing the petition they presented and listening to R. L. Young and Steve Schmidt who brought it in, said the petition would be granted sometime this fall. A sharp and blind turn exists in the road where the route descends from a hill into the river bottom. This makes travel dangerous for motorists and the condition should be removed, the petition bearers told the court. Road district funds will be used to make the improvement which will see the curve eliminated and the vision menace removed.

FRUIT JARS NEED IN RELIEF PLANS

Salvation Army Preparing To put up Free Fruit For Charity Work

Anticipating an unusually heavy demand for aid this winter, the Salvation Army here is preparing for fruit jars in which to place much free fruit available during the summer season. Ensign Earl Williams said yesterday that all fruit jars on hand at the army's headquarters here had been filled. One of the larger canneries is giving the army several gallons of fruit daily and Williams is anxious that this be conserved.

The extent of the Salvation Army's work this winter will depend entirely on financial aid received in the annual drive to be made in August and September, Williams said yesterday. He anticipates that the work will be divided between the army and the associated charities. It may be necessary to solicit city and county funds to aid in the relief program, in Williams opinion.

Only occasional meals are being given by the Salvation Army during the summer although requests for meals, for clothes and work are made daily by transients. Gifts of fruit pars, of food or of clothing are gratefully received by the army. A truck is available to pick up these donations and donors are asked to call 9437 to notify the army that gifts are available. These will be picked up promptly.

UNUSUAL PLANT IS ON-DISPLAY TODAY

A curious plant which should be viewed by all those interested in the art of gardening and raising of plants will be in the window of the office located at 175 South High street today.

The plant grows in the garden of the farm home of Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Hoffnell. It is known as an Australian creeping pea or sometimes as an Australian Parrot Bill. The latter name is very appropriate, for the resemblance is striking.

In color it is a brilliant red with a large blackish brown center which is raised rather than sunk as is the heart of most flowers. It is a vine and creeps rather low on the ground.

THOMAS ESTATE APPRAISAL MADE

The Giles B. Thomas estate has an appraised value of $3574 in property in Linn county and an appraised value of $18,096 in property in Marion county, according to two appraisals filed yesterday in county court here. Of the property left in this county, $12,315 consisted of cash on deposit or in savings accounts of three of the banks in the county. Three thousand dollars in real property was left in each county; the remainder of the estate was personal property.

HORSES SCARCE IN COAST AREA, ADAMS REPORTS

A horse, only a horse, where can one find a horse?
Dwight Adams, boys' secretary of the Salem Y. M. C. A., was put in a quandary over this question Saturday at the "Y" camp at Ocean-side. One horsepower was needed to haul logs from the beach to the cookhouse. But Dwight reports he was forced to scour the city of Tillamook before he could find a "nag" with which to do the job.
"I could sooner have brought a horse and wagon from Salem," he declared—if he could have found one here.
