Portland Wedding Of Interest in Salem

Numerous weddings among Willamette students this summer have attracted a great deal of interest in university circles. One of the most beautiful of these was solemnized Saturday evening in the Sunnyside Methodist church of Portland when Miss Nellie Badley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. V. Badley of that city, became the bride of Paul Roland Ackerman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chris Ackerman of Monroe, Washington.

Mrs. Ackerman is a member of Delta Phi sorority and has been very active in social affairs on the campus having been vice president of the junior class during the spring semester of this year. She has also been interested in women's athletics and is a member of the Women's Athletic association as well as president of Coffee House, Willamette writers' club.

Mr. Ackerman is a member of Sigma Tau fraternity, has played four years of varsity football and was last season given honorable mention on "Pop" Warner's All American football team. He was president of his class in his senior year and was last year second vice president of the Associated Students. He is a senior in the college of law.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Ackerman plan to return to Salem in the fall to start the final year at Willamette. During the summer they will make their home in Monroe, Washington.

Salem Guild Girls Win Trophies

Calvary Baptist church Sterling senior guild went to McMinnville where they met on the Lincoln college campus for the state home party of the trophies. The local order won two trophies, one for the best memory book on display and one for the most work done according to a point standard.

Those in attendance from Salem were Lois Cochran, Eva Cochran, Loidale Pickens, Doris Pickens, Jess McElhinney, Clara Jane Harms, Zeldia Harlan, Mrs. Earl Gregg, advisor; Doris Schunke, Florence Foster, Janet McAllister, Helen Alexander, Velna Alexander, Mildred Taylor, Edith Starrrett, Edith Mae Jenks, Lorraine Graber, Lavinia Burry.

An informal dinner party was given at the home of Mrs. Claudius Thayer Monday night with covers placed for Miss Elizabeth Lord, Miss Edith Schryver, Miss Genevieve Thayer and Montague Lord.

Pattern

By ANNE ADAMS
With linen, cotton and sports silks the summer vogue, the charming frock shown today provides an interesting treatment for any one of these fabrics. Scalloped details are very smart, and with stitching gives a stunning effect. A slenderizing panel is created in the skirt of Design 1932 thru the formation of two inverted pleats which add freedom and grace. A contrasting leather belt adds a chic touch.

Obtainable only in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 22, 24, 26, 28 and 30. Size 14 requires 3-3/8 yards of 36 inch fabric. Yardage for every size, and simple, exact instructions are given. No dressmaking experience is necessary to make this model with our pattern. Write plainly your name, address and style number. Be sure to state size wanted.

Oh These Women!

By LEOLA ALLARD
She is beautiful and an artist's wife. She's been both of these things for fourteen years. At a recent gathering of women, one who had known her for many years said: "Her husband is now famous, a wonderful artist, with medals hung all over him, but I think someone should hang a medal on her. He's no saint to live with, I'll tell you that, clever and handsome and talented as he is. But she's made a grand job of it."

I thought of all the divorce trials I'd listened to, and heard women tell over and over that their husbands were temperamental or neglectful, or selfish, or never at home, and how they couldn't stand it another minute they had to be relieved of all marital bonds.

This artist is selfish, he loves his work better than anything else in the world—and by the way, all really great people do love their work best; or they wouldn't get medals. They must be neglectful, because their work is their great master. They are temperamental, anyone will grant that, who ever knew a real artist. But the success of any great man can be partially credited to the wife, who, like this lady, has "made a grand job of it."

And when you stop to think of it, it's something to understand the man you love to the extent of letting him give his talent free play, and how they would get medals. It's real love, and it's that which contributes so greatly to art, even if these wives don't get any medals pinned on them. A woman who loves her artist, doesn't want anything said about her virtues. The great loves of history were like that. Women, who were happy in the success of their men, and not thinking what they could do if their husbands made more money of it got a goodly allometry.

Artists are, for the most part, poor. By the time they reach the stage where they can give their wives anything they want, the wives have earned it, you can bet on that.
It's easy enough to share success with a man whose name is carved in stone before he's dead, and whose bank account is handsome and whose home is an artistic wonder. The trick is to last through the difficult days when pickings are very poor, and a woman has to make her own clothes and watch the grocery bills and keep sweet under the most trying circumstances.

But it's pretty grand to get to the success stage with him, and to have someone say to you: "Her husband is in London painting. He's really great now. He wasn't easy to live with all these fourteen years, but she made one grand job of it!"
That's a good enough epitaph for the best of women.

Announcement Comes As Surprise at Party

Miss Margaret Purvine entertained with a Beta Chi sorority meeting and bridge party at her home Monday night. These meetings are a regular social event during the summer, but the Monday night meeting took on added color because of the surprise announcement of the marriage of Miss Mary Louise Morley to Percy Carpenter Saturday morning in Vancouver, Wash.

Rev. Reese, pastor of the First Methodist church in Vancouver, officiated. Mrs. Meiba Wright of Camas was matron of honor and George Wright was best man.
The Girl Scouts and leaders plan to visit the Boy Scout camp for the "court of honor" program which will give July 25. This will be done if transportation can be arranged for the girls.

Many Salem people enjoyed motoring to Portland Saturday where they attended the annual Portland picnic, to which a number of former residents of Salem who are now residing in Portland and those of Salem who wish to come. Several hundred people attended the picnic Saturday.

Woodburn W. C. T. U. Has Busy Meeting

Woodburn—Mrs. J. D. Woodfin was hostess to the Woodburn W. C. T. U. at her home on Young Street, Friday afternoon.

During the business meeting the members decided to send a letter of appreciation to the Mayor of Woodburn in recognition of the law enforcement in Woodburn. An appropriation of $20 was voted to the state organization. Mrs. C. J. Rice, Mrs. J. D. Woodfin, and Mrs. Laws were appointed to act as a sick committee. Mrs. Shanbeck and Mrs. Ray Trullinger were appointed to make arrangements for a visit to the Children's Farm Home at Corvallis.

A short program of musical numbers and talks was presented. Those who took part in it were Mrs. J. D. Woodfin, Mrs. Sevilla Waldron, Miss Helen Woodfin and Miss Joyce Woodfin. The hostess was assisted by Miss Helen Woodfin and Miss Joyce Woodfin in serving refreshments.
The next meeting will be held Friday 14, at the home of Miss Ina Bonney and Mrs. Carry Young.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT
Doff your hair, girls, for the sake of your hair. When the chapeau is worn all day there is no evaporation of vapors thrown off by the pores of the scalp. Deposits of sebaceous oils and salty substances produced by the glands gather on the skin surface, inviting dandruff, which in turn attracts bacteria. No telling then what may happen. Hair loves air and sunlight. When it doesn't have them, it is kept blanketed, it goes limp and silky, assumes an expression of despair, loses its pristine youthfulness and amiability.

Soap sets as a blackhead solvent. A blackhead is a plug of grease, tipped with atmospheric dust. A casual application of soap doesn't penetrate, but melted soap rubbed in with the fingertips and permitted to remain on the skin for five minutes does the business. While the soapy application is present, wring a washcloth out of hot water, and use as a compress. Rinse with tepid water, then with cold.

The reformation in the use of makeup is due to the fact that the whole world is sick to sadness of lip smears and cheeks as hectic as red Tannel. Make-up is no longer a novelty. It started on its blinding trail shortly after the war and has carried on for a long term. Beauty fads have to be called in sometime or other. Rouge and lipstick serve best when they are used in moderation, simulating natural coloring.

A good waist tapering exercise is a sort of rotating movement. You place your hands on your hips, turn head, shoulders, all the upper portion of the body as far to the right as you can, then to the left. The motion flexes and tightens muscles that extend from chest to hips and from shoulders to waist line. When fatigued, rest. Then start again.

Some of the new sachet powders are delicious; make you take deep breath and want more. Make small satin bags, place in hat boxes, on dress hangers, in handkerchiefs and glove containers. New blends have lasting qualities that sachet powders have had in the past.

Girl Scouts Return From Camp

Already the summer vacation outing over for 21 girls of Salem for the Girl Scout camp enjoyed for the past week by this group at Camp Santaly. They broke camp and returned home Sunday evening so that the first group of Girl Reserve campers might come in Monday.

Mrs. E. A. Collier, captain of the Englewood troop, Miss Ruth Ruffison of Kelser and Miss Pauline Lockhart of Lebanon had charge of the camp. Hikes, swimming and craft work made a very happy week for the girls.
Saturday night members of the Boy Scout camp located two miles up the Santam from Camp Santaly, came down with their leaders and a camp fire and program were enjoyed by the two groups. The Girl Scouts presented a closing pageant for the benefit of the visitors, and the Boy Scouts presented some musical numbers.

Salem People Enjoy Portland Picnic

Many Salem people enjoyed motoring to Portland Saturday where they attended the annual Portland picnic, to which a number of former residents of Salem who are now residing in Portland and those of Salem who wish to come. Several hundred people attended the picnic Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Pennington and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Zimmerman left this weekend for a camping party at Wallowa. They moved over by way of the John Day highway.
Mrs. William Brown of Salem was a recent visitor at Tahoe Tavern on Lake Tahoe, California.

TOO BAD, GIRLS, HE'S GONE

Many a sigh has escaped many a feminine heart since the news was flashed around that Rudy Vallee, crooner extraordinary, has gone and gotten married to just one little dark-haired girl when practically the entire girl world had designs on him. Here's the girl, gals, what did you dirt! She's the former Fay Webb, once of the films and with a father as chief of police of Santa Monica, Calif. And we're also sending along a picture of Rudy himself for your albums. Of course, we can't do anything about it if you tear 'em apart—on paper.

Jefferson Past Nobles Plan Picnic

Jefferson—The Past Noble Grand club of Mt. Rebekah Lodge met Thursday afternoon at the lovely country home of Mrs. Charles McKee, with Mrs. Charles Hoyt, as assisting hostess. During the business session, arrangements were made for the annual club picnic to be held at Cascadia, August 2.

The club also decided to place a quilt, and during the afternoon, the members started to embroider blocks for it.

Mrs. Paul E. Edwards presided at the tea table and assisting Miss Kelly in serving were Miss Elizabeth Atkinson and Miss Margaret Eddy.

WOMEN ARE FINED ON MORALS COUNT

Fines of $250 and $100 respectively were assigned yesterday by Circuit Judge McMahan against Cleo Smith and Belle Howard. The former was held to be the proprietor of a disorderly house at the Park hotel on North 12th street and Belle Howard was held to be one of the inmates. Both women were expected to pay their fines.
Judge McMahan sentenced Ed DeGuire, up on a liquor charge to a year in the penitentiary, then paroled him to Sheriff Oscar Bowser. Joe DeGuire and Stanley Bowes were scheduled to appear before the judge but did not show up when their case was called. Their case is to be disposed of later.
