

EMPLOYMENT, ISSUE TALKED

City Council on Record for Cooperation in Meier Economy Program

The way for unemployment talk by suggesting that city employes employed regularly for years be asked to take extended vacations to permit unemployed men to do some work.
"The move might result in some inefficiency but the city can stand it," the mayor declared. "I have never known so much unemployment in the city in the summer."
The mayor's suggestion was about to pass without comment when Alderman Henry Vandover jumped to the floor to say that he agreed with the mayor's program and thought something should be done to see it effected. Vandover protested against the alleged practice of certain local contractors in employing married women who thus have regular work in the summer. He urged the appointment of a committee of three to see what could be done to secure more work for unemployed in Salem. His motion prevailed and Mayor Gregory named Aldermen Vandover, Hughes and Nieldman on the committee.
An ordinance requiring 90 per cent of all workers, either directly or indirectly hired by the city to be American citizens, resident in Salem for at least 30 days, was submitted to committee. The ordinance also provides that the wages paid on contracted jobs or those let directly by the city, be the prevailing hourly wage paid for the service in the city.

GERMANY WILL NOT ASK LOAN

So Bruening Decides After MacDonald Viewpoint Outlined to him

It is so to restore the world's confidence that at the soonest possible moment a large loan can be floated. One practical means will be for Prime Minister MacDonald and Foreign Secretary Henderson soon to visit Germany for a "German chequer" conference and Premier Laval and Foreign Minister Briand to follow with a visit to Berlin.
Hopes to Improve International Pooling
By thus improving international relations with Germany, it is hoped the time may not be far distant when, without political guarantees, such as are insisted upon by French public opinion, the financially strong nations can grant a substantially large new loan.
Meanwhile, the seven powers at the conference will insure Germany that the existing short-term credits will not be withdrawn as long as Germany, on her part, makes a further effort to get herself out of the difficulties into which she has run since the Hoover plan was first announced and which in themselves have nothing to do with the Hoover plan.
Chicago's newly appointed "official greeter," George D. Gaw, is shown going into action for the first time with a diminutive Darling of the screen as the lucky girl is taken on a tour of all the wonders of the mid-western metropolis. George's "girl friend" is a darling in more ways than one, for her name is Jean Darling. She's leading "woman" of the "Our Gang" comedies.

SALEM LINEN MILLS FIRM IS ORGANIZED

months of intensive work on the part of Meek, Gilbreath and their associates, prominent among whom are John C. Wash and Governor Julius L. Meier. Both of the latter have been heavy subscribers to stock in the new mill. Stockholders in the Oregon Linen company number more than 200 citizens in Salem, adjoining communities and in Portland. Total subscription for stock totaled more than $400,000 in the original mill and subsequently bonds totalling $90,000 in value were sold.
For a number of years the late State Treasurer Kay was president of the Oregon Linen company and Colonel W. E. Bartram was manager. Inefficient weaving machinery was held as one of the causes for the failure of the mill to make money, coupled with an excessive capital outlay in plans for the volume of business at hand.

Body of Apolain Still Unfound After Drowning

Because he went in swimming too soon after eating, it is believed, George Apolain, 36, an Armenian, became helpless and drowned in the Willamette river Sunday afternoon, between Halls ferry and Independence. None of his companions could swim, so they were unable to help him when it was seen he was in difficulty.
Apolain, who lived near the place at which he was drowned, has no relatives in this country, as far as known.
The body had not been recovered last night, according to the coroner's office.

INDUSTRIAL MEET TO BE WEDNESDAY

Governor Explains Purpose in Calling Conference of Manufacturers

"If Oregon is to progress and prosper its industries must progress and prosper," declared Governor Julius L. Meier in commenting on his statewide conference of manufacturers, retailers and distributors to be held in Salem Wednesday. "This is true in normal times and is doubly true in times of depression such as we are now experiencing," the governor stated.
"If 100,000 Oregon families could be persuaded to spend an additional $1 a day each for Oregon products, the industries of this state would benefit to the extent of $36,500,000 annually. If 50,000 Oregon families would spend an additional $1 per day for Oregon products, the industries would increase their output $18,250,000 a year," read his statement.
"If Oregon industries, in turn, are to progress and prosper, it is fundamental that they must extend, to the fullest extent, the patronage and support of the people of the state. Oregon's population is now close to a million people, or approximately 200,000 families. Seeks Program to Assist Industries
"It is for the purpose of developing a program to promote the use of Oregon made and Oregon grown products that I have called a conference of manufacturers, retailers, distributors and other interested persons, to meet at the state capitol Wednesday morning. I hope you will see your way clear to have a member of your firm present to give us the benefit of your advice and help in this important undertaking."
"Other states, whose industrial success has depended in a measure on the support and patronage of their own people, are redoubling their efforts along this line. Oregon must keep pace. I have in mind a program that I want to place before you, but this is not a one-man job, and I need your assistance and your suggestions."
"Oregon payrolls make Oregon prosperous. Increased industry means increased payrolls. Let us join in a determined campaign to keep these payrolls at home and put them to work for Oregon."

ALLEY ISSUE CAUSE OF ROW IN COUNCIL

Engineer's Estimates for Improvement of Liberty Street from the south line of Trammell street to the north line of Bellevue street and of North Commercial street from D to Belmont were approved by the council. City Engineer Rogers was asked to prepare plans and estimates for the construction of a north bridge on State street. The council passed an ordinance calling for the paving of Gaines street from Summer to Winter streets.

in a moment and both aldermen had their arms waving but Mayor Gregory turned the discussion to other channels and the flareup subsided.
Earlier in the evening Vandover had started the role of investigator by demanding a report from the parks and playgrounds committee on the wading pool in the North Commercial street park and on bathing conditions at Taylor's beach on State street. "The wading pool is vile and filthy," said Vandover. "It isn't fit for hogs to wallow in."
Later in the session the council listened to the pros and cons of the vacation of an alley in block one, Compton's addition in North Salem. Twelve petitioners headed by Zero Polaire protested against the abandonment of the alley, while Mrs. McKillip and Mrs. Effie Bach, with Ronald C. Glover as their spokesman, asked that the alley be vacated to permit planting of trees to act as a revetment to prevent the river from washing at that place. The council held the matter over to the next meeting.
