free wheelingly speaking by don herold. Id just as soon have a high bicycle as do without one. Free Wheeling

If you were buying a bicycle today, you certainly wouldn't buy one without a coaster brake.

(I'm not even sure they make 'em without coaster brakes any more.) If you are buying a car today you ought to think twice - in fact, a half dozen times - before buying one without Free Wheeling.

(I'm not sure there'll be any without Free Wheeling in a year or two.)

Free Wheeling adds the same thrill and whizz to motoring that coaster brakes did to bicycling, and you might well have the fun and the 15% to 20% saving of gas and oil it offers - now that you can get a real Free Wheeling Studebaker for $845 -

SCOUTS VISIT 'TUT'S TOMB'

Seven Mile Hike is Made to Pile of Rocks With its Interesting Legend

Editor's Note: From Camp Santiam, above Medford, comes news of activities of boy scouts camped there. Wallace Sprague has made the following report, dated July 18:

Yesterday just about the whole camp went up to King Tut's tomb. It was a seven mile hike up the road from camp. This tomb is one of the sights of this region. There are many stories and legends about this pile of rocks. The story (it isn't known whether the formation is artificial or natural) that was told to the camp by Chief O. P. West was that many years ago some of the southern Arizons or northern Mexico tribes had a civil war and some of the tribe started out for the greater mountains. The story runs that they came north and with them brought quite a bit of wire gold which they expected to trade to the Indians. When they came up here the Indians did not want the gold and built a mound of rocks over it. The mound is built of five-sided rocks. There are two caves in the side of it, one containing water. In these caves there is quite a bit of crystal quartz. The fastest time for the seven mile, hot-weather hike, and the longest, was one hour and 20 minutes, made by Roy Brady, Marion Palmer, and the writer. Saturday wash day, everyone takes his dirty clothes and some soap and goes down on the rocks along the river. After washing his clothes he takes a bath or goes swimming. This morning everyone changed tents. Before this change there had been five tents with four boys to a tent. Now there are 10 tents with two boys to a tent. Through the generosity of the Hollywood Radio show the camp hears Amos 'n' Andy and other programs every night. The whole camp is very appreciative for the loan. As Camp Santiam is quite near the G.H. Knappe camp, and the camp mailbox is down there, also; getting the mail is very popular with some of the boys.

Assault, Battery Charges Brought

Whether the warm weather or some other cause can be blamed is a question but at any rate assault and battery charges were numerous in justice court on Monday. Lulu Humphrey complained that she had been struck by Arthur Swallow, who in turn denied the charge. Swallow will be given a hearing at 2 p. m. Wednesday. Arthur Little was found not guilty when he appeared before Justice of the Peace Miller Hayden. Testimony revealed that he struck in self defense. Fred Jones was accused of assault and battery upon Rex Vain and pleaded guilty. Upon his failure to pay a fine of $5 and costs he was lodged in jail.

Mrs. Silas Gay And Daughters Hurt in Crash

SILVERTON, July 20 - Mrs. Silas A. Gay, prominent church woman here, and her three daughters suffered a compound fracture of the leg and a severe scalp wound in a head-on automobile collision at Springfield, Ore., Sunday. Her daughters, Lois and Bernice were less seriously hurt, but all three together had about $1000 for hospital bills and $200 for temporary relief which she says she needs for living and legal costs.

Counties Make Agreement For Bridge Upkeep

In a contract between the county courts of Marion and Clackamas counties which has been ratified by the county court of the latter county, provision is made for the maintenance of bridges between the two counties. The local court agrees to maintain bridges known as the Scotts Mills, Jack's, Ross and Monitor bridges over Butte creek. Clackamas county agrees to maintain the Morris and Kappa bridges over the creek and the Whiskey Hill and Brady Acre bridges over Pudding river. In the agreement provision is made for the rebuilding of the Morris bridge in 1932, the two counties sharing the costs equally.

Occurrences and Gossip at the center of Oregon's state government

Several members of the state department of education were up in the air more than usual Saturday, along with a young Salem school teacher. Not only were they in the air but the story was confirmed. Superintendent Charles A. Howard, his secretary Miss Winnie Graham, and Miss Leah Ross were taken for a ride - in an airplane. Salem may have some warm days, as for instance the day after, but even then the climate can be said to be admirable. It has been noted that the warmest days here so far this year have either been on holidays or Sundays. What could be better for the week-enders. California and the west should take note of this. James Mott is having all the trouble imaginable to his feet. He not only had athlete's foot, but then got them unburned, but yesterday in the hot springs at Brettenbush he stepped into the boiling water, of one day.

ANSWER IS FILED IN PEARSON CASE

A cumulative list of charges which takes a number of legal pages to recount is heaped up by Alberta Pearson against J. J. Pearson, Oregonian correspondent whom she filed an answer and cross-complaint in circuit court yesterday. Pearson is an O. W. R. & N. conductor residing at LaGrande. The defendant claims Pearson, whom she married in 1901, was cruel, that he hit her, choked her and said on several occasions that he was going to shoot her. On one instance he told her she was going out, but because of jealousy, hid behind a davenport to watch her and on another occasion he hid in the bushes with a gun to observe her actions, the defendant alleges. Pearson claimed his wife was untrue to him and asserted she poisoned her food. She seeks $100 as permanent alimony, $100 for each month, $500 for suit expenses and $200 for temporary relief which she says she needs for living and legal costs.

The vacancies, four altogether, including those caused by the resignation of Representative Mott and Lawrence, and the death of Representative Swift, may not be filled for the extraordinary session. Lack of time may result in operation without naming new lawmakers. This procedure was followed in the special of 1920 and 1921, with one vacancy at each session. One familiar figure will be absent when the special session is called, if and when, it was ascertained here. Representative Ralph Hamilton, will not be here. He is a former speaker of the house, but since the last session he has moved from Bend to Portland, thus automatically declaring a vacancy. The vacancies, four altogether, including those caused by the resignation of Representative Mott and Lawrence, and the death of Representative Swift, may not be filled for the extraordinary session. Lack of time may result in operation without naming new lawmakers. This procedure was followed in the special of 1920 and 1921, with one vacancy at each session. CHEMEKETANS GET TO HOOD'S SUMMIT

New Auto Road Makes Trip Easier, 31 Start and 31 Reach top

Sunday was one of those days when a group of Salem people forgot about being "pencil pushers," "typewriter punchers," clerks, business and professional men and students. Thirty-one joined the party of Chemeketas which climbed to the top of Mt. Hood that day. After about eight hours of putting the right foot six to eight inches above and in front of the left and then vice versa, members of the party stuck their heads one by one over the top at about 2 o'clock in the afternoon. There followed about two hours in which the feet were rested. Mountain climbing history, for the Chemeketas, was made Sunday, for most of the party actually slept in beds until a short time before the climb started. Of course, some had slept in past years in the tents, Timberline cabin, but not in real beds with sheets and pillows. The new automobile road from Government Camp to the timberline made this possible, the party staying at the hotel until a short time before the climb started at about 4 o'clock. For actual climbing, history was also made. It was in the hardness and persistence of the party. Just 31 started from the bottom and just 31 signed the forest service book at the top. A couple dropped out on the way up but others joined the party. Of the group, only 11 had ever had any mountain climbing experience. Bob Donaldson of Portland and Salem, was leader of the party on the mountain. He was aided by W. I. McCloud, who was leader until the climb started. Those who signed the book with the party were Chester Page, Helen Page, Frank Page, Augusta Nottari, Julian P. Prescott, Agnes Benton, Ethel Elliott, Ann Peters, Lee Ohmart, Roy Ohmart, Ray Gheer, Edwin Meeks, Walter Robinson, Ward Davis, Gladys Miller, Kenneth Rickman, Ella Pfeiffer, Harry Barley, R. F. Keefer, Doris McCallister, Irma Babcock, Ruth Arnold, Wick Baker, Grace Rhoades, Everett Lisle, Roma Hall, James Wolfe, and McCloud and Donaldson, all of Salem; Elizabeth Currie of Camas, Wash.; Jean Martin, Henry Lewis, Florence Miller and H. R. Harlan, all of Portland. The last three joined on the way up.

EXHIBITIONS GIVEN BY BLACK DRAGONS

Large Crowd out to Watch Swimming and Rescue Work by Experts Sunday afternoon the Salem Black Dragon life saving corps motored to Silverton and put on an exhibition of swimming strokes, life saving methods, including artificial respiration, and fancy diving. An enthusiastic and appreciative audience of between 700 and 800 people, including a great many Salem people, was present to witness the demonstration. The corps was assisted in fancy diving by Clark Thompson, Silverton life guard. Johnson concluded the diving with a "two and a half," one of the most difficult dives to perform. The exhibition was under the direction of Maxey Langford, mate of the Black Dragons. The following is the program that was given in Silverton: American crawl, Mark Sachtler; racing back-stroke, Fred Paul; trudgeon crawl, Anoka Coates; side stroke, Ethel Niles; breast stroke, Fred Paul; double kick side-overarm, Esther Arnold. Rear approach and cross chest carry, Claude Martin and Al Hallberg; front approach and head carry, Clinton Standish and Mark Sachtler.
