

INTERNATIONAL HOUSE PLANNED

Willamette University to Provide for Students From Other Lands

One more link in the chain which binds Willamette university into the group of colleges and universities of worldwide cultural interests will be forged this fall when the International House opens its doors to 15 to 20 student representatives of other races and nationalities.

The house itself, well known in Salem as the "old Albert place," was occupied by the Beta Chi sorority for a number of years before the new sorority house was built. It is located on South Winter street opposite the Deaconess hospital. It has been leased by the International club, which was founded on the Willamette campus last year, and will be conducted under university regulations similar to those of other campus living organizations.

Mr. F. Barnes and Paul Wallace of Salem and Robert Booth of Eugene comprise a committee appointed by the board of trustees to aid in selection of the house and in other necessary business transactions. Mr. and Mrs. William E. Hall, charter members of the organization and seniors in the political science department of the college of liberal arts, are spending the summer in Salem overseeing changes which are being made in the house and gathering together funds for its furnishing. House furnished by subscriptions.

Money for furnishing the house is coming in from interested people in different parts of the state. Salem people are being solicited and various members of the Salem Alumni association have indicated their belief that that group either as an organization or as individuals will aid in the project.

The International club plans that the house shall not be a charitable affair. Once it is prepared for occupancy, students living there will pay its upkeep.

For a number of years, foreign students, especially Japanese, Chinese and Filipinos, have made up a small portion of the university student body. Very few of them have lived in sorority or fraternity houses; the women were provided for as Lausanne hall but the men have been scattered in various boarding and rooming houses. Shortly after founding of the International club, its American born members discovered that foreign students were not receiving opportunities to observe the best or even the mediocre customs of this country, that they had few friends and that outside of the classroom they took little part in university life.

WHEN $50,000 WENT UP IN SMOKE

Seven thousand gallons of oil, valued at $50,000, were destroyed in this raging fire at Watron, Pa., when four huge tanks of the United States Fire-Pharm in battling the fire, the refinery went up in flames and smoke. The billowing clouds of smoke were visible for 30 miles. Emergency firemen from neighboring oil plants aided the Watron fire-fighters in battling the tremendous blaze. Photo was made at height of conflagration.

Mr. Hall, who is First Counselor to the group, tells of foreign boys from excellent families religiously, socially and financially, who, after spending nearly a year at Willamette have not known a single student well enough to call him by name. Many of them, he says, have the idea that all Americans are materialistic and greedy to a disgusting extent simply because they have not come in contact with Americans except when having to pay for something.

Hoping to do away with this atmosphere and to send these students back to their own countries with more nearly true conceptions of Americans and their customs and to give American students at Willamette a better understanding of their guests from the Orient, International House has been established.

It is the ideal of the organization to do away with these handicaps which have previously greeted foreign students and to make the house a genuine meeting place of all the cultures represented. It is planned that men of note who visit the campus and Salem will be welcomed at International House as guests of honor for a meal or two so that the students may come in contact with them, their ideas, and their ideals.

Several of the boys who will live at the house this winter are musically inclined so the musical atmosphere counted desirable in other campus houses will not be lacking.

While statistics of an indefinite sort are the only ones obtainable to date, International House will this fall probably accommodate approximately seven Japanese students, two Chinese, four Filipinos, one Russian, and possibly two negro boys, three American born students of Anglo-Saxon descent, in addition to Mr. and Mrs. Hall and Dr. and Mrs. Daniel H. Schulz.

Most of these are described as "patriotic patriots" and at least two resemble hotels, Mr. Hall says. The Willamette organization members are emphasizing the fact that Willamette's International House is not to be the hotel type; neither is it to be a fraternity although residence there will be limited to students of excellent repute. It is to be a club-house and home for foreign students and American students who desire to know foreign students and their nations with its first purpose service to its residents.

DAIRY DISPLAY TO BE LARGER

Moved to Grandstand Hall To Allow More Space; Fair Plans Made

Developments recently in preparation for Oregon's 70th state fair include the arrival of large monkey cages at the fairgrounds, plans for an opening of the 4-H boys' and girls' program on Sunday afternoon at a rally instead of the usual Monday start, complete arrangements for the large dairy products exhibit in fair history, and the installation of a spectacular electric fountain.

The first day of the fair will be Saturday, September 26, and all exhibits are expected to be ready for the public on this opening day, despite the fact that the premium book mailed to exhibitors a month ago listed the fair dates as September 28 to October 4. The only exceptions to the rule requiring placement of exhibits on the 16th will be made for a few outstate exhibitors who have already entered livestock at other fairs, which overlap a trifle. They will be allowed a day or two leeway, but like all the rest will be expected to keep exhibits in place until the fair closes on Sunday, October 4, according to Mrs. Ella S. Wilson, secretary.

The first day will be a special children's day, and the features of the opening program are being arranged accordingly by Max Gehlhar, director of the department of agriculture.

Gehlhar's plans for night entertainment will include a feature of never-ending beauty, a modern continuous-change electric fountain, loaned to the fair by Carl Gerlinger of Dallas, and manufactured in his shops from the designs of a prominent Oregon engineer.

The dairy exhibit plans launched in Salem Wednesday by the Oregon Creamery Operators' association will mark an effort to demonstrate to the public that if grade A milk with superior taste, health, and keeping qualities is the only kind of milk to buy, high-quality butter and cheese made from sweet cream and fresh milk has the same advantages.

A measurement of that part of the grandstand display hall assigned to the combined dairy products exhibit shows it has frontage of 146 feet and exhibit space 28 feet in depth. This provides more than four times the floor space available in the old dairy products exhibit which Mrs. Wilson will assign to other uses this year.

Salem Creameries will play an important part in the exhibit. The Marble Creamery and Produce company, and the Capital Dairies have already reserved space. The new Producers Milk company creamery is expected to join in the exhibit.

The Interstate Creameries, dairy department of Oregon State college, Coos Bay Mutual Creamery, Swift and company, Western Dairy Products, Mouthmouth Cooperative creamery, Mount Angel cooperative, and the Portland Cheese company, have already

Figures on Seattle-Tacoma Stretch, Once "Suicide Lane" are Offered

Startling reductions in auto fatalities have been secured between Seattle and Tacoma through the construction of a super-highway 40 feet in width. A Salem visitor this week learned through figures from F. L. Tolson, Washington traffic officer, showing that in the three years since the road was opened, only 10 deaths and 30 personal injuries have been recorded on the new road which links the two cities.

In comparison, in the two years before the new road was opened, taken space, J. D. Mickie, chief of foods and dairy products, has been advised both Nestle's Food company and the Carnation Milk company expect to exhibit.

Rules for the exhibit will exclude partitions or other objects which detract from the display. Competent demonstrators must be in attendance during the nine days of the fair.

W. M. Hamilton, district manager for the Portland General Electric company, has made arrangements for his company to have an exhibit adjoining to show equipment available for keeping milk and cream sweet and whole some by controlled refrigeration.

Woodsburn, Aug. 10—Rev. and Mrs. E. W. Blew and daughter Marion returned to their home in Woodsburn late Friday afternoon after having spent a week visiting at various summer resorts along the coast. Blew first went to Cannon beach and later went to Wi-Na-Ma beach. The beach is owned by Mr. and Mrs. Card, parents of Mrs. Jack Hansen. While at Wi-Na-Ma beach Blew caught about 20 crabs. They will leave again Sunday for a vacation of another week. They have not yet decided where they will go.

"TOASTING" expels SHEEP-DIP BASE naturally present in every tobacco leaf

(Black, biting, harsh irritant chemicals)

"They're out-so they can't be in!"

Every LUCKY STRIKE is made of the finest tobacco leaves the world can offer—the finest from Turkey—the finest from Kentucky, Tennessee, Virginia, Georgia and the Carolinas—the Cream of many Crops throughout the world. But all tobacco leaves, regardless of price and kind, as nature produces them, contain harsh irritants. LUCKY STRIKE'S exclusive "TOASTING" Process—a process that mellowes, that purifies, that includes the use of the modern Ultra Violet Ray—expels certain harsh irritants naturally present in every tobacco leaf. We sell these expelled irritants to manufacturers of chemical compounds, who use them as a base in making sheep-dip*, as well as a powerful spraying solution for fruits, flowers and shrubs—enough to permit the daily dipping of over 50,000 sheep or the daily spraying of many thousands of trees. Thus, you are sure these irritants, naturally present in all tobacco leaves, are not in your LUCKY STRIKE. "They're out—so they can't be in!" No wonder LUCKIES are always kind to your throat.
