able violation of Japanese aviation regulations, which are extremely strict. May be delayed for another day.

Doubt that the Lindberghs would be able to continue their flight to Nemuro today was growing late today. At 10:30 a.m., the Kokusai Maru off Shimushu island, 15 miles south of where the Lindberghs were stranded, was sighted by the Japanese station at the Ochishiri station that a dense fog overhung Kuriles. The steamer said the fog was drifting in the direction of Ketoi and that visibility was poor throughout the region.

Once started, however, the Lindberghs were expected to complete the 110-mile flight from Ketoi to Nemuro in slightly more than four hours.

Forced down on the Leeward side of Ketoi after they had encountered a high wall of fog over Shimushu island, the Lindberghs rode out the night in their big monoplane apparently without great discomfort.

CREDIT CHECKING SYSTEM DEVISED

Members of the Salem Retail Credit association spent most of the luncheon session yesterday getting acquainted with details of the new checking system, worked out by Roy Wassam and L. Schoettler.

President Philip H. Holmes and other members expressed approval of the new system, declaring it a great improvement over the old methods. The new plan is similar to that employed by the credit groups in Walla Walla and La Grande.

By next week the association plans to have the new reporting method in smooth working order.

Squatter Again Arrested, Goes To Serve Term

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 19 — (AP) — Emory Davis, veteran squatter on Fish creek desert in Umpqua National forest, was arrested near Roseburg today and will be brought here to serve six months for contempt of court.

Shown that Davis had gone back into the forest to squat again, Federal District Judge McNary Tuesday revoked his parole and issued a commitment.

Davis, a pensioned Spanish-American war veteran, has been in Federal court here five times for squatting in Umpqua forest.

Scarlet Fever Case Reported

The first case of scarlet fever in the city since last June was reported to the county health department yesterday. A five-year-old girl is thought to be suffering from the disease. Since the malady has been less virulent than usual in other cases this year, it is believed the little tot will not be seriously ill.

Five other cases of scarlet fever have been reported in the city this year had no deaths from the disease.

GRAIN INSPECTION STAFF IS REDUCED

The state grain inspection department, with headquarters in Portland, has dispensed with the services of 15 employees during the past week, according to an announcement made by Max Gehlhar, director of the state agricultural department. Mr. Gehlhar has charge of the grain inspection operations.

The reduction in the operating personnel was due to the business depression, which has caused many growers to store their wheat pending more satisfactory prices.

Gehlhar said that recent inspections indicated a healthy export business. He predicted an increase in the movement of wheat through Portland.

Circus Indirect Cause of Blaze; Trees Are Saved

When the circus moved from the city early Wednesday morning, it left some potential excitement behind. Flames from piles of straw which were being burned yesterday afternoon, just outside the Olinger field fence, spread to the surrounding tall grass and threatened for a time to envelop an orchard north of the grounds.

A fire alarm was turned in in time for central station crew to beat out the blazes with wet sacks. If the alarm had been sounded a few minutes later, the fire might have reached the orchard, the firemen said.

Fire Occurs at State Hospital

Fire, which was believed to have been of incendiary origin, broke out in a ward on the third floor of the Oregon state hospital building early Wednesday. The blaze was extinguished by the hospital fire department. The damage was less than $50, according to Dr. R. E. Lee Steiner, superintendent.

Mr. and Mrs. Alpheus Gillette and son, four years of age, arrived in Salem last night on their first visit to the west in several years. They are residents of Lincoln, Nebraska, where Mr. Gillette has charge of Boy Scout work for a large area. Both Mr. and Mrs. Gillette are well known in Salem. They graduated from Willamette university in the class of 1917. Subsequently both were teachers for some time in Salem high school. Mr. Gillette served for more than a year as superintendent of the First Methodist church Sunday school here. He then went east and was di-

Three Burn to Death Fighting Fire at Sonora

SONORA, Calif., Aug. 19 — (AP) — Three Mariposa county young men were burned to death fighting a fire on the north fork of the Merced river between Bagby and Briceburg today.

How the men happened to be caught by the flames when companions escaped was not known. It is believed they were overcome by smoke and heat before the flames reached them. It is thought they were unconscious when flames passed over them, burning them badly.

Grange Makes Plans For Homecoming

MONMOUTH, Aug. 19 — To re-awaken interest in its personnel, Monmouth grange will sponsor a Homecoming day to occur in October. Committees have been appointed to outline general arrangements, and it is believed that a renewal of interest may result.

History Called Forth as Colony Landmark Razed

AURORA, Aug. 19 — Work of razing an old colony landmark standing on Main street started today. The house built in 1870, was the manufacturing and business center of Aurora.

The colony store which supplied the frugal needs of the colonists, was situated on the second floor wing. Below were many rooms which housed as many families. In the main building was a shoe shop, harness shop, and tailor shop.

At the division of colony property in 1881 the building was allotted to Andrew Giesy Sr., and became his private residence. Of the original family only three are living: Mrs. George Miller, Miss Catherine Giesy of Aurora and A. H. Giesy of Portland. Furnishings accumulated over a period of 50 years and divided among the remaining families, was composed of unusual lamps and lanterns, brass kettles, little wall cabinets, spinning wheels and hand made carpets. Though there were 19 rooms and two cellars, they contained relics from attic to basement.

In the construction of the building there were 48 double sashed windows with 576 window panes. A modern building will eventually be erected upon the present site. The most unusual of the colony buildings and spirit are fast becoming a thing of the past.

moned by the office of A. H. Averill state fire marshal, as a reserve water supply for fire protection of the plant, valued at $353,000 in a recent inventory, and the $2,000,000 or more of livestock and exhibits which are brought to the nine-day fair.

To create the new Amusement Zone it was necessary to tear down three old speed barns, move one, and build two new and larger barns east of the racetrack. The zone will be east of the agricultural and 4-H exhibit buildings.

Gehlhar said the amusements now have a space where they have more freedom to arrange their attractions, and at the same time not interfere in any way with the dignity of the fair's exhibit buildings grouped around the central quadrangle, part of which has been used in past years for concessions.

Novel Fireworks Display Planned

The free attractions of the Amusement Zone will be held on Monkey Island, where they will be visible to spectators on all sides. Gehlhar said Paul Seibert, veteran Portland manufacturer of fireworks, has been engaged to set off fireworks from the island every night. Seibert will exhibit his new aquatic fireworks, which do not go above the surface of the water, but which are described as novel and entertaining. The only concession which will not be required to pitch in the new Amusement Zone is an anatomical exhibit of life-like moving wax figures. They will be housed indoors because they are sensi-

Highway Tunnel Is Repaired and Traffic Resumes

HOOD RIVER, Ore., Aug. 19 — (AP) — Replacing of timbering, burned out of the Mosier tunnel on the Columbia river highway five miles east of here last night, was completed to night and traffic was resumed.

All wood structure in the bore was destroyed when a truck and trailer of the Ashbury transportation company crashed into a rock wall and 3,000 gallons of gasoline was ignited.

Slayer Suspect Takes Own Life

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Aug. 19 — (AP) — A few hours before he was to have been questioned concerning human blood found on a club in his possession, Paul Keene, 19, once suspected of last week's torch slayings of two young couples, slashed his throat tonight in his cell. His condition is serious.

tive to the moisture of the canal, Gehlhar said.

Among the concessionaires for this year will be Browning Brothers of Salem, A. J. Johanns of Portland, and several others. Mrs. Ella S. Wilson said the boat-ride concession has not yet been awarded. There are several bidders.

HILLPOT'S STORE SOLD BY SHERIFF

Hillpot's, Salem working men's store, was sold yesterday at 10 a.m. at sheriff's sale here. D. Samuels and D. Caplan, both of Salem, being high bidders. Eight different parties made bids at the sale which was held at the store on South Commercial street. Samuels and Caplan got the stock, inventorying at $3266 plus fixtures at $1600.

They announced yesterday afternoon that they would be busy preparing for a sale for the next two days. The stock will be thrown open to the public Saturday. Samuels said his partner and he did not intend staying in business in the Hillpot location.

The Hillpots more than a year ago ran a store on State street, but met with financial reverses and were closed out. The sale yesterday was brought on through the adjustment Credit Bureau of Portland.
