"No Favor Sways Us; No Fear Shall Awe" From First Statesman, March 28, 1851

THE STATESMAN PUBLISHING CO. CHARLES A. SPRAGUE, SHELDON F. SACKETT, Publishers CHARLES A. SPRAGUE - - - - Editor-Manager SHELDON F. SACKETT - - - - Managing Editor

Member of the Associated Press The Associated Press is exclusively entitled to the use for publica-tion of all news dispatches credited to it or not otherwise credited in this paper.

> Pacific Coast Advertising Representatives: Arthur W. Stypes, Inc., Portland, Security Bldg. Francisco, Sharon Bldg.; Los Angeles, W. Pac. Bldg.

Eastern Advertising Representatives: Ford-Parsons-Stecher, Inc., New York, 271 Madison Ave.; Chicago, 260 N Michigan Ave.

Entered at the Postoffice at Salem, Oregon, as Second-Class Matter. Published every morning except Monday. Business office, 215 S. Commercial Street.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES:

Mail Subscription Rates, in Advance. Within Oregon: Daily a.d. Sunday, 1 Mo. 50 cents; 2 Mo. $1.25; 6 Mo. $2.25; 1 year $4.00. Elsewhere 50 cents per Mo., or $5.00 for 1 year in advance. By City Carrier: 45 cents a month; $5.00 a year in advance. Per Copy 2 cents. On trains and News Stands 5 cents.

When Doctors Disagree

THE Hollywood Press thinks all are out of step but it in ones taking their place. As this is I the matter of securing a municipally owned water sys- a period of growth for the child tem for Salem. The Press is loud champion of so-called decay may occur easily and unmountain water for Salem; and brands as a tool of the therefore be taken of these teeth. iniquitous water company any person or paper with a dif- Do not allow the six-year molars ferent opinion. The Statesman has recommended proceeding to decay. The child's diet should be watched. Green leafy vegetators acquire the present plant, which the people voted overwhelmingly to do; and then let the controlling water board tooth builders and protectors. A bring to the public recommendations on such technical and periodic checkup should be made financial problems as the source of supply, location of filter of the teeth at least twice yearly. plant, etc. The Press rejoins with renewed clamor for 'mountain water" and says:

"Such a prospect does not please the water company, and whatever does not please the water company displeases the Statesman. Therefore they will make strong efforts to prevent it. They will urge counter proposals, and condemnation proceedings, and long delays in court, all for the purpose of keeping the water business in the hands of the present company as long as possible, with a hope of an exorbitant price being eventually obtained.

"Salem has been yelling for mountain water and a municipal water system for many years. What do the people of Salem think of a Salem newspaper which insists that the proper way to begin such a project is to buy an inadequate, decrepit and nasty old river plant at $325,000 more than it is worth?

"Whose interests does the Statesman represent? "Certainly not the interests of Salem."

Now we are not at all embarrassed by the imputations of subservience to the water utility company. The Statesman has no interest in the matter except the best interests of the people of Salem, now and in the future.

And we submit it is vitally important in the public in- place the first baby molars come clude the Americans entirely, and terest to consider the financial problem of issuing two and a half million dollars in bonds to go up the Santiam for water, with the very strong probability that a considerable metar or the tooth next to the sixportion of the debt service would have to be borne by a gen- year molar comes into place about eral property tax, or else the water rates increased, which amounts to the same thing.

Of course, so long as the friends of municipal ownership lars crupt about the twelfth year. spend their time fighting among themselves and calling each other names, the company can sit back and laugh. Meantime the water problem of the city goes unsolved.

Greeting New Interests

THE reorganization of the State Savings and Loan association introduces to Salem business circles a group of Albany investors who had plenty of faith in the present and future of Salem to come over here and invest their money. Not only have they greatly strengthened the local associa-tion through the money which they have put into its capital structure, but the names are good names, which give confidence to those who know their standing that the association will function along safe and conservative lines. The local men, Dr. Steiner and John H. Carson, who have become directors are of course well and favorably known here. The Albany men who become directors are Willard C. Marks, attorney, president of the state senate; E. B. Williamson, who is vice president of the Albany State bank; F. E. Livengood, who is the D. B. Jarman of Albany, having retired with substantial means from the management of the J. C. Penney store there; and R. C. Miller, who has managed the very successful Valley building and loan association in Albany and had been given a meal at a rest- islature again met in August the is secretary of the Linn Securities company, which owns aurant, then asked D. A. White 5th), at which time the Hudson's controlling interests in all the banks of Albany. With this for money, White took him to the Bay company submitted to and organization, backed with ample resources, the future of the the man had been fed only government; to pay license as local association would seem to be assured.

Credit is due Jack Elliott and the old members of the board who have made substantial sacrifices to accomplish this reorganization. Looking back now it is clear it was a be completed on time. Yesterday Columbia and has taken the oath mistake to make an affiliation with the Guardian outfit in evening the construction crew Portland. When that concern had to be taken over, the re- was working at the corner of James Douglas would do henor to That great statesman hurried action was naturally felt by the local affiliate. But instead of shirking their responsibility, which was purely a moral responsibility, the former directors came forward and effect- Empress of China plans to sumed this reorganization which gives security to their inves- mon a conference of high offi- wonder that his race has been the tors and insures the continuance of this savings association with promise of continued growth and service both to investors and borrowers.

When a man gets into the big news he ought to choloroform his sons. For it seems the sons of the great or reputed great are forever running foul of the latter half of the ten commandments, the Volstead act, or marriage vows. Call the roll and one can name offhand, the young Sundays, Heflin, jr., young McAdoo, Sim Fess' son, and now Cockleburr Murray, the Oklahoma governor has a son who is questioned after a "party." The childless do not have all the pangs and sorrows in this world.

We hope the prune growers learn the lesson of the dairymen and stick together to get their price. Usually the farmers meet, orate, fix a price then go home and sign up at whatever the buyer offers. This year the prune situation is in pretty healthy condition. The old crop has been cleaned up pretty well, the new crop is bate in the senate tonight when much smaller than last year. Prunes age so cheap they are bound to the shipping board deficiency than he knew. So did Mr. Mcbe in demand, and the prices asked by the farmers seem a reason- bill was being considered.

The Pendleton East Oregonian reports that the northwest raised twelve million bushels of wheat less than last year. We haven't heard from our quarter section, but we make a guess that it helped eign representative of Heary to make up the twelve million. But if that will help Ed Aldrich Ford, who has been in the city solve the wheat problem, why it's all right.

Newberg has just signed up a new lighting contract with the Yamhill Electric company, a subsidiary of Pepco. The new contract provides for stronger street lights at lower cost per light. Meantime Salem continues to pay the rates fixed in the 1925 contract which expired in June, 1930.

The farm board has come out of its huddle and agreed to sell Is but a dream within a dream. some wheat to China. It least it would be cheaper to store it in Chinese stomachs than in American elevators where the storage bill is four millions a month. Just as many rats there too.

England is in a terrible fix trying to balance her budget. Doles and social relief legislation have left the exchequer six hundred millions short. That is one thing the socialists forget,-when everybody gets to living off the state who will pay the taxes? Thus far we haven't seen any last year's hats made over into the Empress Eugenie pancake. The way it is done is to put the old in the street and let the trucks run over it a few times. As we understand it the democrats are going to wage their campaign next year on the unemployed problem-that is, the unem-

The nations talk a lot about arms cuts, but when they meet Jacksonville should be boiled be- adopted it all, by a majority vote gan, and 7770 miles of "deterall they do is trim a few finger-nails.

Child's The Permanent eeth

By E. L. BRUNK, D.M.D. Marion County Health Dept. About the sixth year, the first four permanent teeth that the child has make their appearance. They are known as the six-year molars. Although they do not appear until the sixth year they really began to form in the jaws about two months before the child was born. They erupt immediately behind each of the last temporary or deciduous molars. They are larger than the deciduous molars, they do not replace any baby teeth and are intended by nature to remain for life. A simple way of locating them is by starting from the line between the two front teeth to count back to the sixth tooth. The first permanent molar is always the sixth tooth unless some have been re-

Molars Are Important These six-year molars are very mportant. They serve to keep the jaws in proper relation to each other while the deciduous teeth are being shed and the permanent noticed. Careful attention should

If the six-year molars are allowed to decay and have to be extracted the child will not be able to chew his food properly as he has no other teeth that will masticate the food as efficiently while the baby teeth are being replaced

Others Follow Six-Years lower front teeth are usually the next in line to the front teeth or the Hudson's Bay company (becentral incisors. They come into ing the first here) might occupy place from the seventh to the with their pretended claims every ninth year.

The first bicuspids which reyears and the second bicuspid which replaces the last baby ten to twelve years of age. The second molars which are commony known as the twelve-year mo-

Guard all of these teeth well with proper nutrition and have ple of the amended organic law periodic check ups. This will of (in) 1845, I closed the above save tooth structure, pain, time argument with Dr. McLoughlin and money. Nature did not mean that teeth should decay.

What health problems have you! he above article raises any question

Yesterdays

Town Talks from The Statesman of Earlier Days

August 22, 1906 made his appearance in the city last evening and was promptly taken same eating place and discovered became a party to the Oregon

new electric line to Chemawa will of the district court north of the Chemeketa and High streets.

cials, to discuss the adoption of a constitution.

August 22, 1921 Because revenues of the state industrial accident commission have been decreasing for several months, with indications that not relief will be offered by elimination of about 30 employes on September 1, it is probably historic incident which probably another batch of employes will be dropped next month.

Washington, Aug. 22-President Harding's appearance before the senate last month in opposition to passage of the soldier bonus bill started a storm of de-

West Sale mis booming and putting on real city manners, according to C. A. Robertson, forthe past few weeks. Kingwood Heights was just opened this

Inought

'All today we see or seem

Water is Given Blame in Death At Jacksonville

MEDFORD, Ore., Aug. 26. - AP) - The death of a five-yearold boy in the Jacksonville district just west of here was attributed by health officials today to an intestinal disease induced by unsanitary water. Water in the district is extremely low.

of about 200. fore using was issued.

By EDSON HERE'S HOW

Sunday: Mother Earth Floats a Dirigible!

BITS for BREAKFAST

The lateral incisers are own limits—and by the same rule God." point fit for farming, manufacture or commerce, and thereby ex-

> "Hence the necessity of our law concerning land clams, withwould soon be in collision. . . .

"After the adoption by the peo-Hudson's Bay company, nor any other company or individual, British or American, could in my your mind, write that question out and send it either to The Statesman or the Marion county department of health. The answer will appear in this column. Name should be signed, but will not be used in the paper. opinion hold a foot of land in could not prohibit any person from building his house at the very gates of Vancouver so he did not interrupt a close; which caused the old gentleman a night journey of 30 miles to consult his colleagues, and was the main cause of bringing them into the confederation . . .

"The first meeting of the (1845) legislature was in June (24th), the vote of the people was taken on the organic laws the in by Officer Longcon. The man last Saturday in July, and the legmerchants and taxes on all their property. James Douglas, second It looks very much like the in command, was appointed judge of office. And let me tell you any office in the United States. It is not my purpose to write a Pekin, Aug. 22-The Dowager panegyric on Mr. Douglas, but since I have seen him I do not main prop of the Scottish throne, for he is both mentally and physically one of the noblest specimens of the human race."

Jesse Applegate wrote much more in that letter to his brother, part or it on personal matters. But the reason for copying the above is to give his version of the saved our country from a third war with Great Britain, and led directly to the settlement of the boundary question, ratified June 15, 1846, by the United States senate. That is saying a great deal, but the facts justify it.

Jesse Applegate builded wiser Loughlin. So did James Douglas, afterwards first governor of British Columbia, and knighted Sir James Douglas.

Applegate having been chosen a member of that little provisional government legislature of 13 members, at an election he did not attend, took the matter seriously. When the 13 assembled at Oregon City, Applegate held that there was no constitution; that the people had never voted; that the mass meetings of May 3 and July 5, 1843, at Champoeg, had no power to make a constitution, and therefore, having no constitutional existence, the legislature of 1844 was not a legal body, and its laws were therefore not binding; nor were the laws passed between June 24 and July 5 by the 1845 legislature. He held there must be a vote of the people; won his point, and the 1845 legislature adjourned July 5 until August 5, and called the election for the last Saturday in July. All that had been done at Champoeg. and the laws passed in 1844 and in the few days of the 1845 legislature prior to adjournment, were

When Applegate averted war: | Jesse Applegate had prepared a new oath of office, and it was (Continued from yesterday:) adopted by that short first ses-Soon after these six-year mo- "I admit this argument, so far as sion of the 1845 legislature, readlars crupt the other permanent it applies to buildings or enclos- I will support the organic laws of said and done. teeth begin to erupt and take ures, but no further, for if under ing: "I do solemnly swear that their places in the arches. The th treaty (which is silent on the the provisional government of subject) a man can hold by pri- Oregon, as far as they are consised closely by the upper front built upon or enclosed he may the United States or a subject of at the little private door. teeth which usually come through with the same propriety claim 10 Great Britain, and faithfully deabout seven or eight years of or 10,000 acres and prescribe his mean myself in office, so help me

This paved the way for an approach to Dr. McLoughlin in asking that his company come under the protection of the provisional government. Jesse Applegate was into place from nine to eleven make the treaty in effect a dead the secretary of the committee of revision, from which came the ment committee, and the question out which the whole population of the district north of the Columbia, and the officers to be apportioned to it, was up. It was suggested that a private interview be had with Dr. McLoughlin. Applegate was delegated by the committee to make this contact.

Bay company making an agreement to come under the provisional government laws and pay licenses and taxes. The formal roposition was dated August 14, 845. In June, Dr. McLoughlin had received an answer from the London headquarters of his chartered company; an answer to his appeal for armed protection for his company against the encreachments of the Americans.

Lieutenant William Peel of the British navy arrived at Fort Vancouver a few days after this, bearing information that the 15 vessels of the navy of his country in Pacific waters were available to protect the property of the Hudson's Bay company. But he found that this company was then under the provisional government; that the lion and the eagle were united in the Oregon country. Peace had spread her wings.

Lieutenant Peel visited the settlers here; interviewed Jesse Applegate at his log cabin Polk county home. He hastened back to London, by the shortest route, and reported to Sir Robert Peel, his father, premier of Great Britain. through the official channels of his country the compact for the settlement of the international ratified by the United States senate June 15, 1846.

That was the last great act of Sir Robert Peel's official life, and of his natural lift, for he retired from his high station in the month of June, 1846, and his accidental death came about four years later. With joyful countenance he had announced to the house of commons: "The governments of two great nations have by moderation, by mutual compromise, averted the dreadful calamity of war."

And there has existed since then the longest international boundary line in the world without a frowning fort; extending 3000 miles between the United States and Canada.

Von Sternberg Fined, Former Spouse Rebuked

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 20 AP)-A $200 fine for Josef Von Sternberg, motion picture director, and a rebuke for his former wife, Riza Royce, actress, came today from Judge Lester W. Roth in disposing of Miss Royce's contempt proceedings against the director for non-payment of all-

Von Sternberg's attorney argued the director delayed payment of alimony in good faith because Miss Royce had violated a property agreement by "molesting and annoying" her former husband in filing a libel and alienation of affections suits against Marlene Dietrich, German screen actress.

There were 6355 miles of ac-A warning that all water in submitted to the people. They tual trunkline highways in Michi-

'The Mystery of Geraldine' By Anthony ABBOT

en masse on the house of the the reason this crime was comcommissioner, trantic at the mitted." whispered reports of new developments in the Foster case. No the second floor of the commis- erty sulked. sioner's house. Among them were adopted son, Bruce, together with know her. Slayer and victim were in her veins, Geraldine replied ers who would not have been recognized by the reporters at allespecially a boy with buck teeth toward Thatcher Colt, became as turned. a voluble and protesting Ital- images of puzzled wonder. What by patrolmen

But an infinitely stranger gathering was held in the library to the crime. Neither did love. of the police commissioner. In front of the desk sat George Maskell, prim and precise, his finger tips together, his chin lost in his huge, upstanding collar, this. The murder of Geraldine Across from him sat his wife, Natalie, looking pale and august and beautiful. Between them, grim and thoughtful, slouched the prisoner, Doctor Humphreys Maskell.

Facing this embattled trio stood District Attorney Merle Dougherty, clasped behind his back, his red in the beginning: curls rumpled, his blue eyes glittering. Dougherty refused to sit down but stalked angrily back and forth as if he found it difficult to contain his indignation at these bizarre and unnecessary proceedings. His marching raised a wind that fluttered the leaves of my note book, as I sat waiting to make a record of all that was

Irregular Proceedings Tranquil and mysterious, looking somberly upon them all, next ones to come through follow- ority of location one acre not tent with my duties as a citizen of Thatcher Colt suddenly appeared "Good evening," said the commissioner, standing by his desk. Before any one could reply, Dougherty declared himself. "I want to say," he blurted, "that I regard this entire proceeding as entirely irregular. Why are we here?"

As Thatcher Colt busied himself with his pipe, he replied. "To rehearse, step by step, the organic law that was voted by the murder of Geraldine Foster-and people. He was on the apportion- to accuse the actual criminalwhom I now have safely under lock and key.'

Dougherty's face flushed an ven deeper red.

"Then we are wasting time. The actual criminal is under arrest," he snarled. "If Doctor it, prepared to make a confes-"Confess to what?" interrupted

Natalie Maskell, with spirit. "We have made it very plain that our client confesses to nothing." Dougherty glared at the "sheawver." as he once called her, with a belligerent air. "Sit down, Dougherty," counselled Thatcher Colt, in a placating tone, "and let me explain." With his left arm slung up over the back of the chair and his blue eyes fixed like sentinel's on the pale and impassive face of the prisoner, Dougherty blinked and sat down. "Shoot!" he exploded, inele-gantly. "I know who killed Geraldine Foster," began Thatcher Colt, promptly. His quiet voice was free from all excitement. "I know how Geraldine was killed, and why. I am prepared to prove every statement I make as I lead you after the killer from the start to the finish of this bloody business.' He now turned his attention directly to Dougherty. "I will first tell you about Doctor Maskell," he said. "The doctor is the victim of an unfortunate marriage. He has never tried to free himself from this vixenish and parasitic woman-until he fell in love with Felise Morgan. Her marriage, too, was unfortunate-but she stayed on, out boundary, on parallel 49; it was of pity and loyalty to her mother-in-law. It is true that this man gether with the patient perfection Maskell committed—except that he left for Reno, meaning to remarked Dougherty. A strange meeting was held make preliminary arrangements that night at the house on West and return for Felise, her little Seventisth street.

So extraordinary was the gathering that, had they known, the reporters would have descended reporters would have descended the reason this crime was compared to the reason this crime was the gatherine to the procuring a double divorce, to be followed by a marriage. That was elaborately managed.

Total Strangers one would tell what was afoot, the closer to then. The three Mas- old fanatic on the subject of the nor did they learn that all the kells looked at Thatcher Colt Foster family tree was trying to witnesses had been hurriedly with expressions of puzzled and trace its branches and to him Gersummoned and were now cor- eager interest, and anxious un- aldine was a new twig. In his alled in one of the chambers on animity of emotion. Only Dough- very first letter he assured her love or hate each other."

ian barber, and a locksmith. The kind of mad theory was the police doors of the house were guarded commissioner about to suggest? "The motive was one free of all jealousy, or fear. None of the grand emotions played a part. There was never a case that was less of a crime of passion than Foster was a cold-blooded, mathemathical proposition." "A cold-blooded axe-murder," fleered Dougherty. "That's a good one." But Thatcher Colt went calmly on: "From the outset, there were three major questions in this his pudgy hands murder. They were, as I stated, "Why did the murderer use an

> "Why was the corpse denuded of all its clothing, except for a pillow case over the head? "Who was the mysterious woman who met Boctor Maskell at his office door after the murder was done?"

Having recited these three ridiles, Thatcher Colt threw back ing. his head and permitted a plume of lavendar tobacco smoke to spiral upward from his lips, like so-called Ephraim Foster was a the nebula of a new world in the woman! process of being born.

"Those questions I had set mystamped the crime at once as pe- skirts. culiar and unique-making this deed different from all other dark deeds with which I am fa- first examination of the house on miliar. Through them I felt cer- Peddler's Road. I suspected that tain I could grope my way to all the murderer did not dress as a other necessary facts." Maskel keenly.

earliest planning of the crime I might ascribe a motive-a woand see to what it leads us. We man-was out of New York durwill call our criminal simply 'X'. | ing all of August. We must be prepared to assume that 'X' is a person with a lust for money, a mania quite as com-Maskell is not, as I understand mon as any other mental disorder, but not as well recognized as the past misers, and portrayed them in melodrama, Remember that 'X' the murder of Geraldine Foster Statesman reporters. was done for money and nothing

I coud feel a cold chill crawlmy veins. The single statement me to run one?" of Thatcher Colt was horrible beyoud credence. "How do you know that?" asked Natalie Maskell, "It is an interesting, but hardly plausible

"It is the logic of the whole evit last."

first," purred Dougherty with covert sarcasm. "Nevertheless, you will as- thing." sume with me that our unknown character, 'X', was money crazy! Some time within the last two erator: "If it works as well as it years 'X' suddenly conceived a does in some other places, I think of genius, which is to say, of mad- do.'

ness. By the death of Geraldine

Foster, 'X' foresaw gain. The temptation must have been-no. plainly it was-irresistable. "I do not know how long it sure that even the most consum- Scouts, Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. without months, perhaps years were in the chest. of thought. For it was put to-

Means to an End

Out of the West came a letter for Geraldine Foster-a single genealogical inquiry from one Mr. All of us drew our chairs a lit- Ephraim Foster. Apparently some that she was descended from a "The killer of Geraldine Fos- line of kings. Fascinated by the Mr. and Mrs. Foster and their ter," resumed Colt, "did not thought that she had royal blood Betty Canfield, Harry Armstrong, unacquainted. They were total to the letter. Several exchanger Mrs. Haberhorn and several oth- strangers. They had no reason to followed — and then Geraldine heard from the genealogist no The rim of four faces, turned more. All her letters were re-

> "Now it happens that I was able to find the original letter to Geraldine Foster from Ephralm animosity. Hate did not enter in-Foster. Geraldine had turned it. curious about it, too. With this clue in my hand, I sent a wire to the chief of police in the little town of Willoughby, Kans., from which the letter came. Through the local police, I had the postoffice box traced. Thus I learned, with considerable amazement, that the box was rented in the Willoughby postoffice by a transient visitor to a nearby town one who came there about five months ago, stayed a few weeks, and then departed, suddenly and mysteriously, never to be heard from again, and leaving no forwarding address. That was in August of last year.

"But from the postmaster I was at least able to obtain a description of the character whom we now know as 'X' and also as Ephraim Foster-a description which may have been vague but which was nevertheless astound-

"For the postmaster at Willoughby, Kans., declared that the

"You look surprised, Will you feel more astonished if I tell you self to answer," he continued. I was not surprised. That I had They were vital because they expected to find that the genealwere so utterly idiocratic. They ogist who wrote Geraldine wore

"When you know all the story, you will know that from my man. And already a suspicion of "And did you!" asked George who this clever 'X' might be leaped into my mind-for I was "I did. I will begin with the told that the one person to whom

New Views

(To Be Continued Tomorrow)

"Would you favor a commun ity chest for Salam?" This was s money crazy, for, gentlemen, the question asked yesterday by Verne D. Bain, superintendent of schools, Woodburn: "It would ing like a living creature through be a good thing, I believe. Want

> Douglas McKay, automobile lealer: "Yes, by all means."

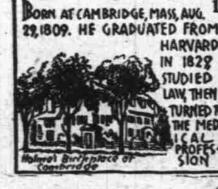

Mrs. Ora McIntyre, instructor: If the people were thoroughly educated as to the functioning of idence. I put it first, but I found various organizations represented in the community chest and would "I would like to hear the facts subscribe conscientiously with this understanding, I thing the community chest would be a very fine

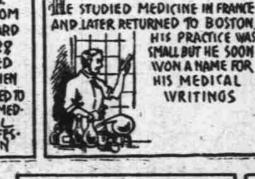

F. G. Deckebach, creamery of brilliant scheme. It had a touch it would be the proper thing to

F. G. Delano, real estate agent:

took to hatch this cunning and Heights: "Yes, if straight charity blood-thirsty notion. But I am groups participate. No, if Boy mate schemer would be unable to C. A. are included. I think there lay it out in all its perfect detail would be objections if these three and this woman sinned in the of Chinese puzzle boxes. Finally, "Yes, I would favor a community eyes of a conventional world. But is all fitted. The scheme was com- chest. All are working in the that was the only offense Doctor plete. It was ready for execution, same direction and it concentrates "So far, all sheer assumption!" the efforts."

American Biographies in Miniature Oliver Wendell Holmes -(1809-1894)

Our American poets have elevated us spiritually as well as to developed Love of America in the hearts of our citizens.

THE WAS MADE A PROFESSOR IN THE HARVARD MEDICAL SCHOOL N 1847 AND DELIVERED 1882. HOWEVER A GREAT PART OF HIS TIME WAS SPENT IN WRITING

EDITOR OF I THE ATLANTIC MONTHLY."HE WON INCREAS A POET AND A

WRITER OF PROSE POLD IRONSIDES IS ONE OF HIS BEST KNOWN WORKS

Our Service is at the Call of Every Citizen and We Are Fair-Minded in Our Charges

